Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Dec. 22. [To the Editor of The Times:] Nations are starting for the big London disarmament conference to disarm themselves of the things they figure won't be used in the next war, which will leave them more money to develop the things they will use. It's an economic more than a humanitarian affair. It's like holding a traffic conference and just discussing the limiting of horses and buggies. I wonder if we ever will get so civilized that one will be held to limit submarines, airplanes and chemicals. You can't say civilization don't advance, however, for in every war they kill you in a new way.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

P.S.—Those heathen neighbors of ours to the south gave us a fine lesson in generosity. The Mexican government sent $10,000 to the orphaned of the Oklahoma mine disaster.

Bomb Thrown Into Train

Ruler of India Had Left Car Just Before Explosion Wrecked It

Outrage Marks Second Effort Against Life of Foe to Radicals

LONDON, Dec. 23. (Monday) (AP)—An Exchange telegraph dispatch from New Delhi, India, early today said that Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, had narrowly escaped injury from a bomb explosion. The bomb was thrown into a railroad car in which he had been riding.

The dining-car of the train was wrecked. An attendant was slightly injured. All passengers, including Lord Irwin, had left the car as it was nearing Delhi station. The train arrived safely and the Viceroy went at once to his official residence.

Lord Irwin in 1925 succeeded the Earl of Reading as Viceroy.

Last April, a week after he had delegated to himself broad new powers to direct Indian Parliamentary procedure, a train on which he

FERRYBOAT CRASHES IN BAY CITY RIP TIDE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22. (AP)—Under the pull of a strong rip tide, the Southern Pacific ferryboat Thoroughfare crashed into the pilings on one side of slip No. 10 today as she was returning from the noontime trip to Oakland. The collision ripped off thirty feet of the vessel's forward railing and deckhouse, doing damage estimated by company officials at $10,000. Capt. T. Egbert backed the boat out into the bay, turned it around, and docked stern first.

RIDGE ROUTE TO CHANGE

Easy-Grade Road Will be Built

Twenty-six-Mile Section to Avoid Many Curves and Hazardous Grades

State Highway Commission Says More Traffic Can be Handled Safely

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Announcement was made today by the State Highway Commission that a decision has been reached to relocate a twenty-six-mile section of the Ridge Route between Bakersfield and Los Angeles. Bids on the first section of the relocated highway will be asked within the next few weeks.

The new route lies west of the present route and at a lower level and will avoid numerous heavy grades and curves. It leaves the present highway near the Castaic postoffice, and rejoins it three miles north of Bailey's station, following Piru, Liebre and Alamos creeks for much of the distance.

ROUTE OVERCROWDED

According to the commission the highway has reached its maximum economic travel capacity and has become excessively hazardous due to the congestion, numerous and extremely sharp turns and snow and fog in the winter months. The present location also is costly to maintain.

The new highway will be built to modern standards, says the commission, with low maintenance cost and capable of meeting present and future traffic requirements. It will have a total of 7500 degrees of curvature against a total of 35,140 degrees in the present route. The new route also will cut off 7.3 miles.

It is pointed out that the present road has an overload of 1500 vehicles daily whereas the new alignment will have a comfortable capacity of 12,000 cars or more daily.

COUNTY TO GET ROAD

Engineers of the Department of Public Works, declares the commission, report that the new route by reason of its lesser distance, better grades and alignment and the greater ease and facility that it will afford travel, will pay the total cost of construction in three years.

Under agreement with the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county, the present route will be taken into the Los Angeles county road system, and with the opening of the alternate route, the State will be relieved of further maintenance costs on it. This change is subject to the approval of the Attorney-General.

BABY WILL REMAIN OUT OF PRISON

Woman Convict and Her New Daughter to Be Put in Home of Matron

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—The perplexing problems of "what to do with Mrs. Frances Leano," San Quentin convict, and more particularly what to do with her 3-weeks'-old baby, was solved tonight.

Both will be placed in the home of a San Quentin matron, Mrs. Charles Aiston, Warden Holohan announced, thereby fulfilling the promise of State and prison officials who announced some time ago that, despite all laws and red tape, the baby will not know what the inside of a prison looks like.

Mrs. Aiston's home, while on the San Quentin reservation, is not inside the prison walls, and Warden Holohan in making his announcement tonight indicated it will be some time before either mother or her baby daughter will leave the Aiston home.

Mrs. Leano is serving a two to five-year sentence for assisting in an illegal operation. The father of the baby, Everett Leano, is a Pasadena grocer.

Since the baby's birth the 4th inst., the mother and daughter have been in the Cottage Hospital at San Rafael.

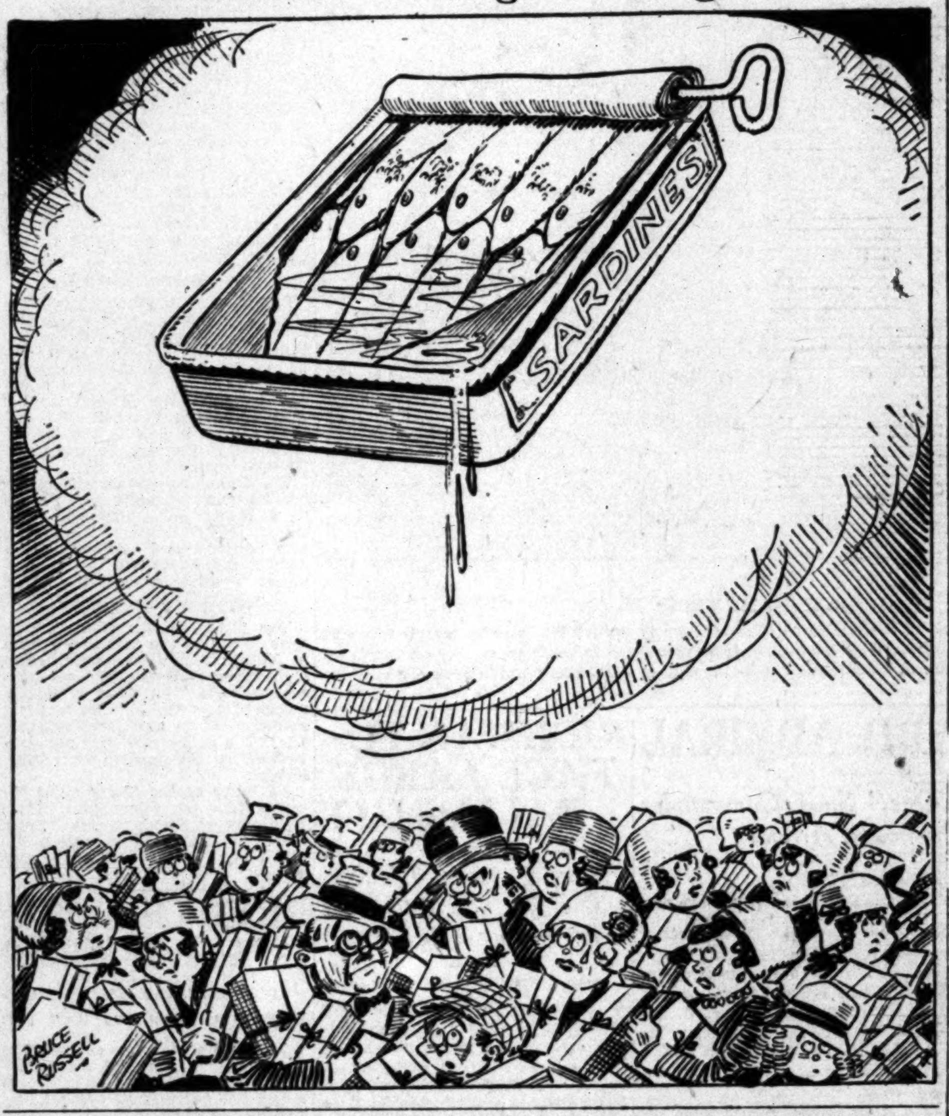
With But a Single Thought!



ROYAL UNDIES KICK UP FUSS

[Copyright, 1929, Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Should a royal princess get her undies in Paris, or must she buy them in her home country?

This ticklish question was solved by Queen Elizabeth of Belgium when she ordered all the nighties, bloomers, step-ins, brassieres, combinations, deshabilles and what-nots of Princess Marie Jose, fiancee of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, should be "made in Belgium."

Marie Jose's entire trousseau will be done in Brussels, Antwerp and Flanders.

Warfare between Paris and Brussels lingerie makers broke out when a Paris newspaper man boasted that he had seen a nightgown for Princess Marie Jose in the making in a Paris atelier. The Belgians hotly denied this could be so; their Princess was not going to the altar in foreign undies, they said; what did that newspaper man talk about, anyway? What color was it? How was it cut?

All the reporter had been able to say, the Brussels lingerie men indignantly pointed out, was that the nightgown had a train, and was altogether four yards long.

"Four-yard-long nightgown for Princess Marie Jose," roared a Belgian court official, the second highest at the court. "Why I don't quite see how her Royal Highness could sleep in that sort of thing.

"You tell your readers that every single item of Princess Marie Jose's trousseau is being made in Belgium. Little lace makers, couturieres and provincial milliners, lingerie concerns and the like all over Belgium will make up the trousseau which the Royal Princess will take along when she takes her special train for Rome in early January."

There isn't a single black shirt in the entire trousseau, much as Mussolini may regret. Princess Marie adores pink, salmon pink, coral pink, any sort of pink. She has picked out some pale-green step-ins and ever so few undergarments in white.

PLANE AND LEVIATHAN HOLD CHAT

Reporters in Air Phone Booth Swap Gossip With Ship 500 Miles at Sea

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—High over Manhattan in a 100-mile-an-hour flying telephone booth reporters today talked to the liner Leviathan 500 miles at sea.

As casually as if sitting in their own homes two reporters and three engineers of the Bell Telephone Laboratories soared 3000 feet over the city in large trimotored plane, asked for and got the Leviathan as if they were calling for a number just around the corner. They passed the time of day and heard the gossip of the ship from Commodore Harry Cunningham and passengers aboard the vessel.

This new step in communication was effected by a radio-wire-radio hook-up.

Commodore Cunningham passed on the information to the Associated Press reporter that it was a clear day and a calm sea, and that he hopes to be at his dock in the Hudson River tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. After a short exchange of pleasantries others aboard the plane talked with the ship. The conversations lasted half an hour.

There was hardly any static, the voices coming through almost as distinctly as over an ordinary telephone circuit.

Disabled Ship Towed to Port

BOSTON, Dec. 22. (AP)—Plucked from the storm-swept Caribbean yesterday, the disabled freighter Santa Ana arrived at Grand Cayman, tiny British island possession 200 miles south of Cuba at 8 a.m. today in tow of the tanker Athelchief, messages received by the Tropical Radio Company here, said.

Three Brothers Killed in Crash

NEBRASKA CITY (Neb.) Dec. 22. (AP)—Four young men, three of them brothers, were killed near here this afternoon when the light coupe in which they were riding was struck at a grade crossing by an Omaha-Kansas City train.

The dead are William Fellen, Henry Fellen, Frank Fellen, and Charles Reimer.

BEAUTIFUL PICTURES REQUIRE CAREFUL HANDLING

The Times mailing department is prepared this year to take extra precautions in mailing the annual Midwinter Number. It is important that the large photographic pictures and the reproductions of California paintings each recipients in perfect condition. Readers can materially assist by sending their lists of names to The Times at once, thus permitting careful handling.

The postage on this year's edition—consisting of six separately-bound magazines—will amount to 18c when the mailing is done by individuals. When names and addresses are furnished to The Times, this newspaper will repeat its popular offer of preceding years and will supply the magazines, wrap them, address them, and mail them postage prepaid, anywhere in the United States, Canada or Mexico, for 25c, and to other countries for 35c.

On sale January 2, 1930, but advance orders will be given immediate attention, will receive special care, and will be routed to reach the East on the first possible fast mail trains.

AIR CRASH IN INDIANA KILLS ONE

Two Hurt, Eight Escape Injury When Plane Hits Snow-Covered Stump

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 22. (AP)—A snow-covered stump brought death to one man and injury to two others when a trimotored passenger ship of the Transcontinental Air Transport lines crashed on Stout Field, Mars Hill, here tonight. The ship was flying from St. Louis to Columbus, O.

D. C. Law of Philadelphia died from a fracture of the skull.

The injured are C. N. Kine, Philadelphia, and Miss Mary Fearnow, secretary to Donald Bartlow, assistant manager of the T.A.T. office at Washington.

The other eight passengers were uninjured except for slight shock, and were cared for at the T.A.T. office at Mars Hill. Among them was J. H. Luneman, Oakland, Cal.

D. W. Burford, 28 years of age, of Columbus, pilot of the ship, decided to land here for the night because of the heavy snowfall and darkening skies which made further travel dangerous. H. S. Zimmerman, also of Columbus, was assistant pilot.

The landing gear of the plane struck the stump at the end of the field, the impact tearing away the left wheel and part of the body of the ship. The left motor also fell off, it is said.

VICTIM RENOWNED FOR COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22. (AP)—D. C. Law, killed in an airplane crash at Indianapolis tonight, was a pioneer in the development of colored photography and talking pictures. He was associated with the technical staff of Warner Brothers, Inc., motion-picture producers.

Flyer Going to Australia Ends Trip in Wreck

PARIS, Dec. 22. (AP)—Reports were received here today saying Capt. F. C. Chichester, New Zealand aviator, ended his projected England-Australia flight in a forced landing in the swamps near Tripoli, North Africa, yesterday. His plane was wrecked, but he was uninjured.

Capt. Chichester left Croydon Friday in an attempt to beat Bert Hinkler's record of fifteen days between England and the Australian Continent. He is a wealthy New Zealander and a former Royal Air Force pilot.

Lawyer Becomes Oregon Governor

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 22. (AP)—A. W. Norblad, 48-year-old lawyer of Astoria, Or., and president of the State Senate, took the oath of office today as Governor of the State of Oregon to fill the unexpired term of Gov. Patterson, who died unexpectedly last night.

Gus Moser, State Senator, notary public and a friend of the new Governor, read the oath in the presence of Mrs. Bessie Norblad, the new Governor's invalid mother; D. N. Reger, brother-in-law, at whose home the ceremony took place; Gov. Norblad's son and daughter, and newspaper men.

MANCHURIA WAR ENDS

China and Soviet Sign Protocol

Railway Controversy Settled With Terms Providing for Close of Strife

Formal Conference Planned in January to Complete Peace Agreements

MOSCOW, Dec. 22. (AP)—The Foreign Commissariat today announced that Simanovsky and Tsai Yunshen, plenipotentiaries of the soviet union and Mukden governments, have signed a protocol at Khabarovsk, Siberia, restoring the status quo ante on the Chinese Eastern Railway and immediately restoring soviet consulates and commercial organizations in Manchuria and Chinese consulates and commercial organizations in the soviet Near West.

It is stated that peace will follow on the frontiers to be followed by withdrawal of the troops of both sides. All persons arrested in connection with the six months' dispute over the railway are to be released and the Chinese have promised to disarm White Guard Russians and deport organizers of these foes of the Communist regime.

The announcement said, "full restoration of diplomatic relations between soviet Russia and China are left open until a Russian-Chinese conference to be held in Moscow on January 25, at which all outstanding questions will be settled."

MANAGER ON WAY

The new Russian general manager of the railway and his assistant are leaving for Harbin to assume their duties in connection with the joint operation of the railway in accordance with the terms of the treaties of 1924.

The agreement announced today appears to have ended practically all the points in dispute which have led to almost an open state of war on the Manchurian borders and which led the United States and other signatory powers to warn both China and Russia of their obligations under the Kellogg-Briand pact for renunciation of war.

The trouble began when the Chinese in raids in Russian consulates in Manchuria asserted that they found evidence that railway officials were using their offices to further Communist propaganda. They detained many Russians and expelled others from the country.

NEW MEN CHOSEN

Both Russia and China massed armed forces on the borders but the Nanking government soon was preoccupied by serious revolts which broke out in Central China. Negotiations with the soviet then were left to the provincial government of Manchuria of which Gov. Chang Hsueh-liang is the head.

The Chinese were defeated in border skirmishes and the Russians occupied a considerable section of Western Manchuria. Soviet officials stated that this action was to protect Siberian villages from border raids by irresponsible White Russians and Chinese.

An agreement finally was reached to replace both Russian and Chinese officials of the railway with new men mutually acceptable. Negotiation of the protocol announced today followed.

TEN POINTS INVOLVED IN JOINT PROTOCOL

(Copyright, 1929, by New York Times)

MOSCOW, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—The protocol signed at Khabarovsk by Chinese and Russian representatives involves the following points:

(1.) A decisive Sino-Russian conference will open in Moscow January 25.

(2.) Both sides agree to call off troops as soon as possible.

(3.) Soviet and Chinese railroad executives dismissed or resigned since the conflict started will be restored to their jobs.

(4.) The same applies to minor soviet employees including their

SOUTH GOES ALL WHITE

Dixieland Under Snow Blanket

Drifts and Ice Extend From Texas to the Carolinas and Florida

Wire Trouble and Accidents in Traffic Experienced Over Wide Area

ATLANTA (Ga.) Dec. 22. (AP)—From the plains of Texas to the Carolinas and Northern Virginia, the South today clambered through unaccustomed snowdrifts and skidded over ice-sheathed roads that made highway traffic perilous.

Bert Payne, a fisherman, was found frozen to death near Henderson, Ky.

The mantle of snow and ice, general except in some coastal areas and Southern Florida, made some trouble for wire communications and in at least three cases left towns in darkness.

Snowshoes were brought into use in Northern Mississippi, where an all-time record snow fell.

The list of traffic casualties mounted rapidly, although no fatalities had been reported. The most serious accident of the day was an automobile collision near Macon, Ga., in which ten persons were hurt, one perhaps, fatally.

Falling temperatures for South Florida are predicted for tomorrow. Pensacola, with a thin coating of snow, had a temperature of 32 deg.

Weather forecasters had little to offer before tomorrow when temperatures over a large part of the area are expected to start a slow rise. Strong northeast winds over the more easterly section were forecast to add to the discomfort.

Biloxi, Miss., had its first snow in sixteen years.

Around Eldorado, Ark., where the heaviest snowfall in the South, seventeen inches was recorded, some measure of relief was felt as the sun managed to break through heavy clouds for the first time in days. Traffic in that vicinity was thoroughly demoralized, however.

MIDWEST GIVEN RESPITE AFTER STORM

CHICAGO, Dec. 22. (AP)—Middlewestern rail and automotive traffic, straining to make up hours lost in last week's blizzard, rushed forward today over laboriously cleared paths.

Ground fog and a threat of snow added to the dangers of transportation, although thermometers throughout the North Central States rose at the rate of 2 deg. an hour in keeping with the Weather Bureau's forecast of milder temperatures through Christmas.

Railroad trains, operating in all directions from Chicago and carrying extra thousands of commuters homeward bound for the holidays as well as great quantities of Yuletide mail, were checked in and out of their terminals from a half-hour to three hours later. The chief impediment to their progress was encountered along the snow-bound right of way in the Chicago district.

Inquiries conducted by automobile service organizations revealed that automobiles and busses today traveled primary roads in the area hardest hit by the blizzard—bounded by Detroit, Toledo, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Rockford, Ill., and Madison, Wis.—for the first time since last Thursday.

Some of the passenger, express and mail planes were held at Chicago airports most of the day because of a low fog that was slowly being dissipated by a feeble sun.

Prison Keeper's Family Killed

OSSINING (N. Y.) Dec. 22. (AP)—The wife and three children of Charles E. Culp, keeper at Sing Sing prison, were found dead of gas poisoning at their home today. Police said the woman apparently had stuffed paper around the doors and windows and turned on the gas jets of the kitchen stove.

Culp said his wife had been in ill health.

WHITE HOUSE TRIMS TREES

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover Arrange Quiet Christmas With Son Allan as Holiday Guest

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. (AP)—Led by President and Mrs. Hoover official Washington today set about making last-minute preparations for the holiday season.

While Congress voted itself a Christmas present of a two weeks' vacation, the President dispatched a message to the disabled veterans of the World War in the hospitals of the country to assure them that their nation in its holiday season had not forgotten those who fought for it in a time of danger.

TWO TREES SET UP

At the same time, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover laid plans for a quiet holiday season at the White House. The regular Tuesday press conference was called off, and two Christmas trees were set up, one in the private quarters of the Presidential family and a second downstairs in the East Room, where official receptions are held.

Of their two sons, only Allan Hoover will be able to join his parents for the Christmas season. Herbert Hoover, Jr., his wife and their two youngsters are in California. To offset the absence of their own son, however, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover planned a Christmas party for the children of their official family, including the Secretaries and Cabinet members.

BASKETS TO BE GIVEN

President Hoover also will participate in the community observance of Christmas Tuesday evening when he switches on the lights of a tree set up in Sherman Square, and Mrs. Hoover will pass out the first baskets of food to be distributed Tuesday afternoon by the Salvation Army to the poor.

Observance of members of Congress was saddened by the death of Representative Kaynor of Massachusetts, killed in an airplane accident late last week, as he started for his home to spend Christmas with his family. Most of the members of the House and the Senate from eastern States left Washington either before or shortly after Congress quit work Saturday for the two-week vacation.

Many Representatives and Senators from States too far west for them to attempt the long journey home were spending the Christmas season as guests of friends in eastern States.

EUROPE TO SEND YULE PROGRAMS

Christmas Rebroadcast Plans Speeded

Engineers Work to Insure Venture's Success

American Companies Will Reciprocate

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—Radio engineers in widely separated sections of the world are bending every effort to insuring the success of the proposed Christmas Day rebroadcast in America of programs originating in England, Holland and Germany.

The programs, to be distributed by the National Broadcasting Company as its Christmas gift to listeners, are to be brought across the Atlantic by short waves to the receiving station at Riverhead, N. Y., whence they will be fed by wire into the broadcasting network. Both here and abroad engineers are at work on the necessary technical details, including the study of atmospheric prospects.

It is planned to begin the rebroadcasts at 9 a.m., Pacific Coast time, the first to come from Eindhoven, Holland. At 9:45 a.m. Berlin is to be cut in, with the closing feature from England starting at 11 a.m.

In return American greetings are to be sent to Europe by the National Broadcasting Company on Christmas and thereafter via short-wave stations at Schnectady and Pittsburgh. The first is planned for 8 o'clock, Pacific time, Christmas Morning, and is intended for England and Holland. The following day, at 8:45 p.m., another program is to be directed to Germany. On both days the programs for Europe also will be put on American networks.

NEW YORK SONGFEST TO BE HEARD WORLD WIDE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—New York, the "city without a heart," will send its Christmas greetings throughout America and to all the world Tuesday night at a songfest in Madison Square Park.

The international Christmas carol sing, arranged under the general direction of the Advertising Club of New York, with a chorus of nearly 1500 trained voices, will get under way at 7:30 p.m. Christmas Eve. (4:30 p.m. Pacific Standard time.) A radio broadcast of the program will go out over the National Broadcasting Company network and will be relayed on the short-wave transmitter of WGY, making the program available to all of America, Europe and Australia.

The carol choir, composed of members and choirs from churches of every sect and denomination in New York City, will be augmented by vocal groups from 400 civic societies, fire and police department bands, the police glee club, and other musical groups. The sing will be led by Albert Stoessel, conductor of the New York Oratorio Society.

Maria Kurenko, Russian coloratura soprano, will be heard in person during the program.

Mayor Walker will open the sing. In addition to the Mayor, individual sponsors of the international Christmas sing include Bruce Barton, Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, Barron G. Collier, Rev. Frances P. Duffy, Will H. Hays, G. F. McClelland, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, Rev. Christian F. Reisner, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dr. Minot Simmons, Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, Alfred E. East Crippled by Worst Storm in Years

Saratogans Know It's Winter

Some idea of how King Winter reigned in the East and Midwest may be gained by this photograph taken at Saratoga, N. Y., after the worst storm New York State has experienced in many years. Ice on telephone and telegraph wires cut off a score of communities from the outside world and plunged Saratoga in darkness.

AIDES CALL BYRD ADMIRAL

"You Fellows Made Me One," Says Commander When News of Promotion Arrives

BY RUSSELL OWEN

[Copyright, 1929, by Los Angeles Times, New York Times Company and St. Louis Post Dispatch. All Rights for Publication Reserved Throughout the World.]

LITTLE AMERICA (Antarctica) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—The news that Commander Byrd had been made rear-admiral for his exploration in the Antarctic was received with pleasure and delight by everyone in camp. The importance of the work done this season had brought to many men the thought that possibly there would be national recognition of it, but the commander's promotion came unexpectedly and brought happiness to every man of the expedition. They were unaffectedly glad that Byrd's work in scientific exploration both here and in the north, had won him new rank.

"It is, of course, not possible for me to express how grateful I am," said Commander Byrd, "We had no idea that Congress would so very generously recognize the work of the expedition. What we have been able to do has been entirely due to the earnestness and efficiency of the fellows who came with me. They have devoted themselves with a complete unselfishness to the success of our enterprise. Never was a leader more fortunate in his men. So, since it is they who have brought this honor to me, I send their thanks along with mine."

"THAT'S GREAT"

The first word came a few days ago, when press reports said that a bill would be introduced in Congress. Then came word that it had passed the Senate and last night we heard that it had gone through the House quickly and already had been signed by the President. There was as much jubilation as though a dangerous flight had been successfully finished and everyone smiled and said, "That's great."

The commander had been out for a walk on the inlet and when he came in several men lined up by the door, the way side boys stand at the gangway. All of them grinning from ear to ear and unlike side boys began to applaud and say, "Congratulations, admiral." Everyone in the room jumped to his feet and stood at attention.

BYRD EMBARRASSED

The commander knew then what had happened and he looked a little embarrassed as he stood there for a moment smiling.

"Well," he said, looking around the room full of men, "you fellows made me a rear admiral. You did the work."

Then the crowd pushed forward and shook his hand, calling him admiral until under the unfamiliar title he looked as though he wanted to get out of sight. It was a sincerely warm and enthusiastic feeling of congratulation and Byrd showed that he felt it deeply. Everyone felt that it was the best Christmas present the expedition could have had.

FREEDOM PARTY WINS IN EGYPT

Wafd Faction Elects 150 Out of 160 Candidates at National Election

CAIRO (Egypt) Dec. 22. (AP)—Returns from the national elections of yesterday showed late tonight that 152 candidates of the Wafd party had been elected out of a total of 160. Seven independents gained seats in the new Parliament and the only other man elected was of the Watan party.

The Wafd party, which has apparently gained such overwhelming control of Parliament, has as its aim complete independence with the cultivation of friendly relations with foreign powers in general and Great Britain in particular. Since the dissolution of Parliament for three years by royal decree on July 19, 1928, the party has worked for an early restoration of Parliamentary life.

The success of the party seemed to indicate that its President, Mustapha Nahas Pasha, was likely to be the next Premier.

Besides being the first election since suspension of Parliament, the voting had great significance because of the pending treaty with Great Britain which would greatly increase the powers of self-government of Egypt.

Officer Shot in Hold-up Battle

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—A policeman was shot and critically wounded today while endeavoring to prevent a hold-up of an asserted speakeasy.

Patrons of the place told detectives that the policeman, Andrew Bornkessel, had entered the resort after his tour of duty, when the six of the terrorists police and troops confiscated a quantity of dynamite bombs.

CALLES WELCOMED

President Emilio Portes Gil called on Gen. Calles at his Mexico City home yesterday and talked with him for more than two hours. Both declined to discuss the situation afterward.

Gen. Jose Maria Tapia, chief of the Presidential military staff, today made light of the plots. He said they were of no great importance and the army is in no way implicated. Gen. Calles, who returned on Tuesday after five months in France, today took up his residence at his ranch, Santa Barbara, seventeen miles from the capital. His journey there and arrival became the occasion for festivities by peasants of the surrounding district. Thousands of them lined the road and cheered as he passed. The Mexico City police band participated in the welcoming ceremonies at the ranch.

RICHMAN TO FACE LARGE BALM SUIT

Jeweler Seeks $250,000, Charging Alienation of His Former Wife's Love

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (Exclusive) It became known today that Harry Richman, en route here from Hollywood, will be greeted with notice of a suit for $250,000 when he returns to Broadway tomorrow. Victor Hugo Cohn, a wealthy Maiden Lane jeweler, through his attorney, Alexander A. Mayper, wants that much as compensation for the love of the former Sylvia Gordon.

He charges that after he married Miss Gordon, Richman, then entertaining at the old Club Ciro, appropriated her affections. In addition, according to the jeweler's charge, the then Mrs. Cohn followed the singer when he began packing them in at the Club Richman.

It took some time for Cohn to come to the point of suing. Since the time he charges Richman with the alienation of her affections Sylvia has married and sought to divorce Elmer Conway, known as the "millionaire printer." She also has been reported as the fiancee of Thomas F. Manville, Jr., heir to the asbestos millions.

Richman is known variously as the fiance and ex-fiance of Clara Bow. His present status is in some doubt.

BLOCKADING OF CHIMNEY PERILS MANY

One Woman Dies and Seven Overcome by Gas in Apartment-House

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—A bundle of newspapers stuffed into a chimney of a Bronx apartment-house today caused coal gas to fill several apartments, killing one woman and overcoming several others. Police believe the papers were placed in the chimney by a maniac.

Mrs. Mildred Blinder, 54 years of age, was found dead in the bathroom of her second-floor apartment. The other tenants in the house were saved because a woman on the fourth floor smelled gas and summoned aid. The seven women overcome were revived and were pronounced out of danger.

The newspapers, of today's date had been stolen from a delivery boy's wagon. They had been tied together with rope and stuffed into the chimney, which rises twelve feet above the roof of the five-story apartment-house. The papers were found about three feet below the roof level.

Fearing that the same person may have stuffed other chimneys, Dist.-Atty. McGeehan of the Bronx set a police emergency squad to work on all the tenements in the vicinity. The squad dropped grappling hooks into many chimneys but found no more papers.

FOES OF YOUNG PLAN DEFEATED

Reparations System Upheld in German Plebiscite

Only Fourth of Needed Vote Obtained at Polls

Little Interest Displayed in Nationalist Measure

BERLIN, Dec. 22. (AP)—The Nationalist bill "against the enslavement of the German people," which would have rejected the Young plan of reparations payments, failed today to obtain more than one-fourth of the vote required to give it effect.

A provisional total return for the entire thirty-five electoral districts shows that with 6,221,000 ballots cast only 5,782,000 votes favored the bill submitted to the people by the German Nationalist party.

INCREASE NOTED

Since the German electorate numbers 41,520,000, only about 13.5 per cent voted in support of the bill instead of the 21,000,000 necessary to pass it. The number in support was slightly greater than that which had supported the demand for the referendum last October. The increases were largely in the Berlin, Magdeburg, Breslau, Leipzig and Dresden districts.

The Reichstag last month by an overwhelming majority had defeated a similar bill. Following that defeat the Nationalist party split into factions, and several of its leading representatives in the government withdrew from the party.

WITHOUT INCIDENT

The plebiscite was without incident except in the northern section of Berlin, where two unidentified men forced their way into the polling-station at the point of pistols, seized part of the election registers and escaped in a waiting automobile. The police said they are convinced that the gunmen were Communists.

All other of the larger cities reported that the referendum passed off quietly with little interest shown especially in the Rhineland, where the event was practically unnoticed.

right to pensions and back pay, etc.

(5.) White Russians employed in place of soviets will be removed.

(6.) All soviet and Chinese arrested will be released without distinction or exception.

(7.) All orders or instructions regarding the railroad since the conflict began will be cancelled unless jointly confirmed.

(8.) The Chinese agree to dissolve white guard corps and expel the leaders and organizers from Manchuria.

(9.) Chinese and Russian consuls will be restored with previous privileges in Eastern Siberia and Manchuria.

(10.) Russo-Chinese economic organizations interrupted by the conflict will be re-established.

JAPANESE GROUP REPORTED IN DANGER

TOKIO, Dec. 22. (AP)—Rengo dispatches from Harbin today said the international train bearing consuls of several countries, who have been investigating the condition of their nationals in Northeastern Manchuria, has returned to Harbin.

Those aboard reported about 200 Japanese in the Hailar district were suffering from cold and hunger and threatened by various dangers.

What these dangers are was not made clear, but it is assumed here that life and property are in danger from plunderers.

PLANS BREW FOR NEW MONGOL REPUBLIC

TOKIO, Dec. 23 (Monday.) (AP)—A projected new Mongol republic under Russian encouragement in the district variously called Barga, Kulunnor or Kolonbail, was reported today in official Japanese dispatches from Harbin and Mukden. The plans was seen here as likely to complicate further the vexed Chinese eastern railway situation.

Apparently trustworthy information reaching Japanese officials here said the "young Mongols" had opportunized the November invasion of Northwestern Manchuria by soviet forces to occupy those towns deserted by the Chinese. Hailar, it was said, is now held, not by soviet regulars but by Mongols with Russian and Buriat officers under Russian arms.

Japanese believe the soviet has encouraged the Barga developments in order to strengthen their claim that Chinese are unable to maintain peace in the zone occupied by the Chinese eastern railway, and, therefore, the soviet should share in policing the railway.

(First news of the reported Mongolian independence movement in Manchuria was published in the Los Angeles Times last Wednesday morning. The foregoing gives confirmatory details.)

His action in April was taken after two bombs had been thrown into the government benches of Parliament by asserted Communists in the gallery. Several persons were injured. At that time he said that conditions in India, from their very urgency, could not be made public. It was assumed that he referred to radical and anarchistic tendencies.

FILM MEN HAIL EXPORT TREATY

League of Nations' Protocol Sweeps Away Quotas

Six Powers Sign Pact to End Annoying Regulations

Markets Declared Open Now to American Artifacts

PARIS, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—European representatives of American motion-picture companies, who have had to contend in recent years with obstructing quotas and contingent regulations in six important markets, believe the signing of an important League of Nations export protocol in Paris yesterday by the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and fourteen other nations is the beginning of the end of these troublesome restrictions.

The protocol brings into operation on July 1, 1930, a detailed convention removing more than 300 impediments which now check the easy flow of commerce from one signatory power to another.

COVERS FILMS

American film officials contend that restrictions regarding the importation of American films come directly under the provisions of the new convention. This contention has been challenged by French and other European experts but the American observers are convinced that if the convention survives the critical period through which it must pass before its sustained existence is assured, European countries will have a hard time retaining the present film quotas and contingent regulations.

If this theory proves true then the same reasoning must apply to the quotas and contingents for importation of foreign motor cars. Such regulations already exist in Austria, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, and threats have been made to institute similar restraining regulations in several other European countries. In each case the automobile quotas were initiated as a means of restraining the importation of American cars.

IMPORTANT STEP

If the new League of Nations convention eventually puts an end to the whole idea of quotas and contingents then it will have proved of inestimable value to the American export industry, for it cannot be doubted that a strong tendency exists on this side to combat the so-called "menace" of American foreign trade with artificial barriers of this character.

The six countries which place quotas or contingent regulations upon American film imports are Great Britain, Austria, France, Germany, Hungary and Italy. Only in Germany have these regulations seriously restricted the American film business. Germany permits 210 foreign films to be imported each year. American firms which previously found Germany an excellent market were almost driven to the point where they were no longer able to continue business.

In Great Britain and France the quota regulations are so written as to permit a fairly unrestricted conduct of affairs and the Americans are not complaining.

SAME IN END

American film officials point out that if the League convention does not serve to abolish the quotas and contingent restrictions the results of foreign regulation soon will accomplish the same purpose. In Germany the film industry is reported by Americans to be in a very precarious state. By preventing a liberal importation of foreign films Germany has, it is asserted, greatly lowered the standard of German production, with a corresponding falling off of theater attendance.

In Great Britain the passage of the Film Act has caused a loss to investors of more than $8,000,000 in the stock values of film companies. Similar conditions are reported as existing in other countries where attempts have been made to restrict American competition by artificial means.

United States Fascist League in Dissolution

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—The Fascisti League of North America, organized five years ago, today was declared dissolved by a unanimous vote of delegates attending a closed meeting here.

Count Ignazio Thaon Di Revel, president of the league, said the dissolution was decided upon because of the league's work in "contributing to the enlightenment of the American public pertaining to the ideals of Fascism" had been accomplished.

He said the action had no connection with the recent introduction into the United States Senate by Senator Heflin of Alabama of a resolution calling for an investigation into the league's activities.

MISS WILLS TO SAY 'I DO' TODAY NOON

Flowers and Telegrams Flood Net Star's Home; Honeymoon Plans Secret

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Little "Poker Face" spent a quiet day today, apparently not a whit nervous about her approaching wedding, which will take place at noon tomorrow. According to her mother, Helen Wills who tomorrow will change her name to Mrs. Frederick S. Moody, Jr., arose at 7 o'clock and spent the morning playing her favorite game at the Berkeley Tennis Club. In the afternoon the women's tennis champion rested, and tonight an informal family gathering took place at the Wills home.

The only sign of wedding preparations about Miss Wills's home today was that afforded by several trunks which were being packed to the brim with the exquisite trousseau purchased by the tennis queen when she was abroad recently. In addition, myriads of flowers filled the house and a steady stream of messenger boys brought telegrams of congratulation and good wishes from all over the world. Oddly, however, Suzanne Lenglen, friend and rival of America's tennis champion, neglected to send her felicitations.

Rev. Lindley H. Miller, pastor of St. Clements, Claremont Boulevard, Berkeley, who will perform the ceremony, arrived tonight from New York, where he was attending his mother's funeral.

An informal wedding breakfast will follow the ceremony, after which the young couple will embark on a honeymoon—the route of which is still a secret.

Dorothy Ellingson Loses Her Prison-Board Plea

Angeleno Among Six Freed From San Quentin

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Dorothy Ellingson, who is serving a sentence of from one to ten years in San Quentin for the slaying of her mother in 1924, today was denied a parole by the State prison board.

As a result of the board's refusal to take favorable action on her application, the "jazz killer," as she came to be known, must return to the prison laundry and await the passing of another year before her case again can be considered.

It is the second time her plea for release from prison has been denied. Miss Ellingson was sentenced to prison after she had confessed to killing her mother because she had refused to allow her to go out on parties. She was but 17 years of age at the time she was committed to San Quentin.

During the two days the prison board was in session at San Quentin, sixty-five other cases were considered, it was announced by Secretary Mark Noon.

Of this number, six of the prisoners were paroled, four ordered deported, action on ten applications was postponed, nineteen were denied and twenty-seven were set for future dates.

Among those paroled are Paul Couchman, 24 years of age, of Los Angeles, and Ora A. Talmer, 54, of San Diego.

Couchman was but 19 when he was sentenced to serve nineteen years on a first-degree robbery charge.

KENTUCKY DUELLISTS BOTH DEAD

Patrolman and Constable Shoot Out Old Grudge With Two Guns Apiece

PAINTSVILLE (Ky.) Dec. 22. (AP) A two-gun man from the mountains, veteran of half a dozen pistol battles and survivor of almost as many gunshot wounds, today had made good his boast that if an officer arrested him again, "I'll have to kill him," but it cost him his life.

The two-gun man, Joe Castle, former constable, last night shot it out with Patrolman Jess Dills on the main street of this mountain town while hundreds of Christmas shoppers scurried for cover. Dills, with two .44 specials spitting bullets, dropped lead almost in his tracks, shot through the heart.

Castle, a .45 in each hand, went down mortally wounded. He died in a hospital this morning. John Marshall, Johnson county jailer, also involved in the shooting, is locked in his own jail. Officers say he probably will be charged with murder. Dills had tried to arrest both Castle and Marshall for drunkenness.

Trouble between Castle and Patrolman Dills started a month ago, local officers said, when Dills arrested Castle on a charge of drunkenness. Castle, who had been a constable for almost twenty years, was removed from office and was given a jail sentence and a fine. He was released on bond pending an appeal.

Unemployment Problem Still Vexes England

HOOVER CRITICS FLAYED BY WOOD

Democrats Lashed for Speech of Texas Representative

Charge Hurled at President Refuted by Testimony

Lakin's Claim of Influence Declared Ridiculous

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. (Exclusive) — Effort to involve President Hoover as a part of the sugar lobby led by Cuban sugar planters and refiners was denounced today by Representative Will R. Wood, chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, in no uncertain words. He assailed the action of Democratic Floor Leader Garner and the officers of the Democratic National Committee as unfair and insincere.

Garner through the Democratic National Committee made public an "analysis" of some of the testimony and correspondence brought out by the Senate Lobby Committee in its questioning of H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Company, and Edwin P. Shattuck, a New York attorney. The Texan asserted that if Alfred E. Smith had been in the White House and similar disclosures had been made concerning him impeachment proceedings would have been discussed in Congress.

DENIED BY PRINCIPAL

The controversy arose from testimony by Lakin that he had employed Shattuck to aid in a campaign for a low sugar duty partially because of the latter's friendship with the President. Shattuck said that he had not discused the sugar tariff with Mr. Hoover, but that he had discussed the duty and the proposed sliding scale with Walter Newton, one of the President's secretaries.

The statement of Chairman Wood said:

"Hiding behind the name of Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic National Committee issues a statement to the press which by innuendo and implication impugns the motives of the President of the United States. The tactics are characteristic of that national organization but not of Representative Garner and the House Democratic leader does poor honor to himself and his office by permitting the use of his name in such a manner.

BASED ON HEARSAY

"The whole statement, in the first place, is predicated upon hearsay evidence, twice removed, authoritatively denied by one of the asserted participants in one of the purported conversations that the President discussed the subject of the Cuban sugar tariff with a caller. This imputed action of the President is characterized by the Democratic National Committee over Representative Garner's name as 'conniving with the Cuban sugar lobby to affect tariff legislation.' This is going rather far afield to find subject matter for a political attack upon the nation's Chief Executive.

"However, suppose the President did talk to American citizens calling upon the subject of a tariff on Cuban sugar? For him to give audience to men of personal repute who are also representatives of industry or commerce does not constitute a plot, nor is a conversation between the two a connivance.

GARNER IN SAME BOAT

"But even if the President said he would like an embargo, or no duty at all, it would not constitute a crime. And while on Cuban sugar, I may suggest that Mr. Garner and the so-called Cuban lobby are in apparent accord. Both have expressed a desire for a lower duty on sugar and both have given consideration to the so-called sliding scale. In fact, Mr. Garner was one of the proponents of the much-discussed sliding scale.

"However, as the news columns of the daily press abundantly prove, the President also received and talked to representatives of the beet sugar industry, just as he has received and talked with hundreds of representatives of all kinds of industry, commerce and business and public welfare since his incumbency in the White House.

"Every visitor is a matter of public record and the newspaper columns show that his list of visitors has not been confined to those who believe as he believes, nor to those who are members of his party, nor to any one section of the United States, nor to any particular kind of activities. It has been a cosmopolitan list such as might well be expected of the nation's Chief Executive The President does and must hold the door of the White House open to every variety of thought and opinion; the only limit is the physical time available.

PRESIDENT CAN TALK

"Surely, there is nothing 'reprehensible' in the action of the President of the United States in discussing public questions with individual callers. It is vital for public welfare he should do so.

"Undoubtedly some of his callers have sought to convey the impression by public statement and in private correspondence that the President was partisan to their viewpoint and expressed himself to them accordingly. As everyone familiar with public life well knows, this is a failing of a limited number of visitors who see the President. No Chief Executive has ever occupied the White House who has not been the victim of such representations. The President has no defense against these unfortunate incidents except he close the doors to all comers and become a political recluse. Obviously, public welfare would be greatly injured by his doing so. Most assuredly he does not desire to do it, nor do the people of the United States want him to do it.

FAR-FETCHED INFERENCE

"On the other hand, no individual or organization enjoying the slightest familiarity with official procedure and possessing the most meager desire for fairness holds the President of the United States accountable for what some third party says some one told him the President said to some one else. Representative Garner is not so untutored in official manners as to be ignorant of this fact. Even the Democratic National Committee, amateurish though some of its actions are, is not so unsophisticated."

Garner in his statement said:

"There is no process by which a Senatorial investigating committee can call the President of the United States before it for testimony. Consequently the Lobby Investigating Committee is handicapped in getting at the facts in the Lakin-Shattuck enterprise in which, according to the correspondence among the members of the Cuban sugar lobby and President Machado of Cuba, President Hoover took a conspicuous part.

WHAT LAKIN SAID

"We have, for example, a copy of a long report made by President Lakin of the sugar company to President Machado in which among other things it was stated that 'Senator Smoot was not willing to co-operate.' This report also says of Shattuck, 'He had been in constant touch with the White House and Senator Smoot.'

"Other documents present the President of the United States as directly advising the lobbyists how to proceed.

"In face of these communications Mr. Shattuck denied before the committee that he ever talked about sugar with the President. But the Lakin report to Machado contains this language: 'If Shattuck and I can succeed in keeping public opinion aroused the administration may, along toward the end of the debate in the Senate, secretly notify the Republican leaders that the tariff on sugar must not be increased.'

IMPRESSION SOUGHT

"The inference has been that these statements indicate a conspiracy to convey to the President of Cuba that the sugar lobbyists had the direct influence of the President of the United States at their command and that he was actively putting the machinery of the White House at their disposal. This inference is necessary, for nobody, regardless of political affiliations, would wish to think the President of this country capable of being used for such a purpose as Messrs. Lakin and Shattuck were engaged in. However, failing any authoritative repudiation of the sugar crowd's claim of influence, unfortunately many people may not take the charitable view of the episode.

"Some of his friends have stated that it would be derogatory to the dignity of the office of President for Mr. Hoover to take any notice of the Lakin-Shattuck-Machado correspondence.

HE MIGHT DENY

"There is certainly less peril to the dignity of that great office in the issuance of a declaration that would reassure the country than there is in letting go uncontradicted the word of the president of a big industrial corporation and of Mr. Hoover's personal attorney to the President of another country that the Chief Executive of the United States was pulling the chestnuts out of the fire for a crew of lobbyists.

"There can be no doubt that Lakin thought Shattuck had established contact with the White House as revealed in the former's letter to the latter in which these words are used: 'You saw the President yesterday.' Lakin must have been advised that Shattuck had seen or would see the President or he could not have assumed as much.

"If Lakin's assumption that Shattuck did see the President is without foundation Mr. Hoover could dispel all doubt by declaring whether or not he had the interview with Shattuck, which Lakin's reference clearly indicates he did have."

CLEMENCEAU'S SERVANTS WON'T SERVE ANY MORE

PARIS, Dec. 22. (AP)—When France's great war Premier, Georges Clemenceau, died recently, his two faithful servants changed their way of life and refused any longer to be servants.

"When one has served a man like that," said Albert Poulain, his valet and friend, "he never can serve others."

Brabant, the chauffeur, took the same view. Both men felt that they had been more than servants in the privilege of attending their master. Clemenceau has kept their dignity alive in them.

When the death of the Tiger ended long years of service with him, they immediately received offers to become valet and chauffeur to several rich people.

Poulain refused without knowing what he might do, but sure that he didn't want to be an exhibit in the salon of some newly rich person.

Brabant, much older, went down to Vendee to be the custodian and guide of the Clemenceau museum.

GOOD YEAR FOR FARMS IN PROSPECT

Secretary Hyde Declares Growers Must Lend Aid to Federal Board

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (AP)—Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, in an article written for the January issue of the Farm Journal and made public today, expressed the opinion that the new Federal Farm Board is in a position to make 1930 an epochal year for American agriculture provided it receives sufficient co-operation from farmers themselves and farm organizations. The article says the current credit situation is favorable to farming. The crop and live-stock production prospects also are asserted to be favorable.

"The overexpansion of agriculture," the article says, "is an important contributing cause of agricultural distress. Inferior land should not be brought under the plow. Millions of acres now are being farmed from which there can be no hope of a profit, yet they assist in the creation of a surplus problem. To diminish this problem, one requirement is the increased use of economic information by individual farmers. Much can be done by planning farm operations in the light of market prospects."

PONTIFF HONORS SCOTCH MARTYR

Beatification of John Ogilvie Proclaimed at St. Peter's

Cardinal Hayes Participates in Colorful Ceremonies

Ennobled New Yorker Also Among Those Attending

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 22. (AP)—Pope Pius XI this afternoon descended from the Vatican into St. Peter's to venerate the relics and to pray for the intercession of John Ogilvie, Scotch Jesuit who was hanged as a traitor in Glasgow three centuries ago.

At the last of the beatification ceremonies of the year the decree of beatification of the Scotch martyr was read by the secretary of the congregation of rites in St. Peter's this morning. The ceremonies were attended by a large number of Scotch pilgrims, including many kilted Boy Scouts.

COLORFUL PROCESSION

The Pope was accompanied by his Noble Guard in their picturesque medieval costumes and by all cardinals resident or visiting here, including Cardinal Hayes of New York. Also participating in the function was George MacDonald of New York, who wore the gorgeous attire of a Papal Chamberlain.

Father Ogilvie, born in 1580, was brought up a Calvinist, but became a Catholic after studies at Louvain University. He became a priest in 1613 and requested that he be sent to Scotland as a missionary, although he knew a price was on his head. After nine months of preaching in Edinburgh and Glasgow he was arrested and some months later was executed.

HAYES HONORED

After the ceremony the Pontiff conversed with Cardinal Hayes and said that he is so pleased at having him in Rome and had enjoyed so much his conversation during an audience a short time ago that he wishes to see the cardinal again before the latter returns to America. The cardinal plans to leave Rome on Thursday, but will delay his departure if an audience is arranged. He will go to San Remo for a vacation such as he spent there in 1924. He intends to sail for New York on the steamship Vulcania on January 10, 1930.

Mr. MacDonald also will receive a farewell audience from the Pope, whom he wishes to thank for conferring on him the title of Marquis, the first ennoblement of an American citizen since the re-establishment of the Vatican City state.

BORDER SLAYING FACTS RELATED

Gen. Blanco Killed in 1922 by Mexican Troops

State Department Report Forwarded to Texas

Document Absolves Calles and Other Suspects

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Dec. 22. (AP)—Gen. Lucio Blanco, for whose murder Constable Duke Carver of San Antonio, Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former President of Mexico, and others were indicted, was killed on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande by Mexican troops, according to a certified copy of a State Department document received here.

The document was received by J. Franklin Spears, attorney for Carver, from the Department of State and was to have been used in the case against Carver which was dismissed by Dist.-Atty. Valls in Laredo Wednesday.

The document is a copy of a report made by Col. Ramon Lopez, chief of the Nuevo Laredo garrison, to Brig.-Gen Jose Hurtado, of the frontier line, dated June 8, 1922, concerning the killing of three persons who were attempting to cross the border. The men had been bound together and fell into the river when shot by one of a Mexican troop patrol. The bodies of Blanco and his companions were found in the river handcuffed together and the indictment against Carver fixed the date of the killing as of June 7, 1922.

REPORT OF LOPEZ

The report of Col. Lopez follows: "I have the honor to advise you that yesterday at 7:30 p.m. Senor Ramon Garcia informed me that he had information that that same night at a place known as Paso Del Indio, about five miles below Laredo, a band of expatriates would pass to national territory with revolutionary intent.

"I immediately arranged to have twenty mounted men of the Fortieth Regiment, accompanied by the commandante of the customs house, Jesus Anaya Teran, who had under him twenty-five customs guards, to intercept the party.

"On arrival at Paso Del Indio, I surprised various individuals at that moment disembarking from small skiffs. Affecting the capture of three of those who had landed, I ordered Commandante Teran to bind them together and bring them to Laredo.

ATTACKED FROM AMBUSH

"This work was scarcely completed before we were suddenly attacked from ambush by several persons who attempted to protect the passage of their companions. All of our party proceeded to repel the attack, leaving the care of the prisoners to Ramon Garcia, but the prisoners, taking advantage of the fact that our attention was occupied with the firing, and without regard to the fact that they were securely bound, attempted to cross to the American side and escape.

"Garcia attempted to block the prisoners' retreat and the fight resulted, during which Commandante Teran fired upon the prisoners, who fell into the water, struggling with Garcia. All disappeared without coming to the surface again.

"Commandante Teran informed me he believes one of the three prisoners was an ex-general, Lucio Blanco, whom he had known for some time, but due to the darkness he had been unable to identify him completely."

THE SON OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The son of Tarzan thought now only of the savage joy of living, and of pitting his wits and prowess against the wiles and might of the jungle. He knew no fear. His father had had none to transmit to him. The ape and he had gone but a little way farther when the boy caught the scent of a lion. His face lighted with a smile. Something told him he would have known that among all in the jungle even if Akut had not said a lion was near.

There was a weird familiarity in it that made the short hairs rise at the nape of his neck, and brought his upper lip into an involuntary snarl. His skin tingled with a pleasurable sensation he had never known before. Now was he another creature—wary, alert, ready. He felt his ears were flattening back against his skull in preparation for deadly combat. Thus did the scent of Numa, the lion, transform the boy into a beast.

Copyright, 1929, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc. All rights reserved.

He was some distance ahead of Akut when suddenly he heard a shrill scream of warning from the ape. Turning quickly, the boy saw directly before him that which sent tremors of excitement racing along every nerve of his body. In his path stood a sleek, beautiful lioness, her yellow-green eyes glittering wickedly. Behind the lioness bellowed the ape, hurling taunts to distract the beast and instructions to the boy.

But Sabor was not to be diverted. The boy stood between her and her mate. It was suspicious. Probably he had ulterior designs upon her lord and master or upon the fruits of their kill. A lioness is short-tempered. Akut's bellowing annoyed her. She uttered a low rumbling growl, taking a step toward the boy. "The tree!" screamed Akut. The boy turned and fled, and at the same instant the lioness charged with a swift, crouching spring.

RAIL GROUPING PLAN ASSAILED

Harvard Economist Points to Flaws in Project

Questions Statesmanship of Commission

Many Admirable Features Admitted by Ripley

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Dec. 22. (AP) Prof. William Z. Ripley of Harvard, prominent economist and transportation expert, tonight characterized the railroad consolidation plans drafted by the Interstate Commerce Commission and published yesterday as "startling and disconcerting."

"Undiplomatic as it may seem," Prof. Ripley said "I cannot avoid the conclusion that the commission for almost a decade under the action of 1920 with reference to consolidation has been characterized rather by economic philandering than by statesmanship."

Prof. Ripley, who viewed the preliminary draft of the commission's consolidation plans in 1921, said that the final plans seemed to have been worked out without consideration for "operating efficiency and financial equality."

ATTACKS PRINCIPLE

He stated that the cardinal principle of consolidation should be "to confine each system to a different rate territory, even if it takes time to bring it about" and said that this principle "seems to be substantially disregarded in the plan."

"The New England roads," he continued, "are projected into trunk line territory. The Illinois Central is extended far into the North and into the Southwest. The Burlington reaches from Canada to Mexico, and so it goes, disregarding boundaries which with more and more distinctness have been set to these rate adjustment territories.

"The ideal was that a condition should be brought about under which there should be as far as possible even-handed competition at as many points as possible.

"This principle does not seem to have been embodied in the plan. It is inconceivable, for instance, that the Wabash, which is a string line, anyway, . . . could be built into anything like an even-handed competitor with the powerful Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Van Sweringen systems. . . .

FATE INVOLVED

"Another principle of the plan seems to me radically unwise. Some of these new 'paper-made' systems, like this one, sprawl over trunk-line territory, western territory out of Kansas City and southern territory down to Southern Florida.

"Thus its fate is involved with the rate schedules in three entirely distinct territories—trunk line, western and southwestern.

"There are many admirable features of the plan—notably the proposal for open terminals—terminals that is to say, not tied up to individual systems, but existing for the use of all . . .

"The commission would seem to have been embarrassed by decisions already rendered which, in practice, though not in actual text, have tied hands for the future. Thus the Union Pacific was thwarted in its desire to get the Central Pacific, which gives it a line from Salt Lake City into San Francisco. This one denial in its ramifications stands in the way of any statesmanlike plan for even-handed competition between systems each of which operates straight through from Chicago to the Coast."

ROADS EXPECTED TO LAUNCH ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. (AP)—Speculation in the nation's steam transportation world turned today from the long-awaited consolidation plan presented by the Interstate Commerce Commission to the attitude of the carriers themselves toward the scheme.

It is this attitude that must, finally, determine the strength or weakness of the commission's plan unless Congress provides power for compelling consolidations. The commission's proposed division of the railroad network into nineteen competing systems is directory only and is intended merely as a guide for effecting unifications.

In the East, while the commission was still at work on its draft, four separate plans were presented to it by the individual carriers and in none of these are the wishes of the railroads affirmed under the commission's program. Whether these roads will be content to accept the dictates of the commission or will attempt to obtain approval for their own programs is one of the vital questions emerging as an outgrowth of the official consolidation plan.

French Catholics in Berlin Aiming at Friendship

BERLIN, Dec. 22. (AP)—The long-projected rapprochement between leading French and German Catholics is materializing here. Forty French Catholics led by former Premier Francois Marsal have come here in an effort to bring about better understanding between the two nations. Bishop Schreiber, who recently assumed his post here, addressed the meeting and emphasized that the high clergy are lending powerful aid to reconciliation.

The meeting yesterday sent a message to Pope Pius XI saying: "Today, the Holy Father's golden jubilee as a priest, this meeting pledges unswerving devotion to the great work of Christian concord and world peace."

GOLD STAR TRIP PLANNED

Five Hundred Mothers and Widows of Soldiers to Visit European Cemeteries as Government's Guests

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—More than 500 Gold Star mothers and widows of soldiers, residing in California, will be invited by the United States government to visit the graves of World War soldiers in Europe this year. A total of several thousand for the entire forty-eight States are eligible. The trip is now being planned for next year between May 1 and October 31, and the list of eligibles in each State will be printed in an official document by the government in the next few weeks.

Tentative plans and regulations have been drafted by Maj.-Gen. B. Frank Cheatham, the quartermaster-general, indicating the procedure to be followed in arranging for and handling the pilgrimages to European cemeteries. It is proposed to organize separate groups to visit the following cemeteries:

Aisne-Marne Cemetery, Belleau Aisne, France; Brookwood Cemetery, London; Flanders Field Cemetery, Waereghem Belgium; Meuse-Argonne Cemetery, Romagne, Sou-Montfaucon, Meuse, France; Oise-Aisne Cemetery, Seringes-Et-Neslis, Aisne, France; Somme Cemetery, Bony Aisne, France; St. Mihiel, Thiaucourt, Meurthe-Et-Moselle, France; Suresnes Cemetery, Suresnes Seine, France.

All groups will be assembled in New York City, where the normal duration of stay before sailing will be from twenty-four to forty-eight hours, depending on the distance which must be traveled to reach New York. According to present plans each mother or widow accepting the invitation will be provided, before her departure from home, with a railroad or other common carrier ticket, lower berth accommodations, if length of journey so justifies, or seat in Pullman chair or parlor car, and funds to cover per diem allowance for food and incidental expenses; also an identification badge.

Similar arrangements as to transportation and meals will be made on the return trip from New York to their homes. Suitable hotel or other accommodations, including meals, will be provided by the government in New York and at the places where the mothers and widows sojourn in Europe, and train, car, or automobile transportation while in Europe will be furnished.

The government will likewise provide for the necessary incidental expenses such as custom fees, tips for bell boys and maids at hotels, porters, waiters, stewards on steamers, baths and laundry, steamer chairs and rugs medical attendance, including doctors and nurses, drugs and medicines.

HOLLYWOOD MAN BEATEN BY ROBBERS

Ohio Hitch-Hikers Steal Gems, Cash and Car and Leave Him Unconscious

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 23, (Exclsive) Two hitch-hickers whom he picked up on his way from Los Angeles to Pittsburgh to spend the holidays with a friend, beat T. F. Calhoun, former Pittsburgher, unconscious, robbed him of 5000 in cash and jewelry, stripped him of clothing and threw him into an Ohio road late Saturday night, he reported to police.

City and State motorcycle police are on the lookout for Calhoun's automobile, in which the robbers escaped after beating him.

Reports from Ohio indicate they were bound for Pittsburgh. Calhoun who lives at 5346 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood, was on his way here to visit James W. Barber over Christmas, when he was attacked. The two hitch hickers, one of whom he described to police, stopped for him near Ravenna, Ohio, and asked a ride. Calhoun consented, and after the men had been in the car a few minutes, they seized Calhoun, stopped the car and both beat him severely, he reported. After stripping him of most of his clothing and taking $2000 in jewelry and $3000 in cash, the bandits left Calhoun lying in the road where he was found by passing motorists, and brought to Pittsburgh.

Contour Club's Skirts Will be Sort of Medium

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (Exclusive) A skirt length reaching just three inches below the knee was advocated as the most comfortable and most becoming mode by members of the newly organized Curves, Charm and Contour Club, recruited from among the "ladies of the ensemble" which started its functions at the Ritz-Carlton this afternoon.

Weighed down by their responsibility as active exponents of fashion, a bevy of stage beauties thus took a collective stand in the world-wide controversy regarding the most appropriate and the most beautiful length of skirts as well as other ultramodern features of the Paris mode.

UNSOLVED MURDERS TOTAL HIGH

Hundred and Thirteen in Chicago During 1929 Go on List of Mysteries

CHICAGO, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Of the almost daily murder record in Chicago, 113 and perhaps more will go into the 1929 list as "unsolved." This includes ninety-four in the city proper and nineteen in the suburbs, according to figures taken from the Crime Commission files.

A significant feature of the murder situation is that not one of the outstanding gang slayings has been solved. Chief among these savage slaughters was the St. Valentine's Day affair in which members of the "Bugs" Moran mob were lined up against a garage wall and mowed down by machine gun fire. Aside from this wholesale killing, there were approximately thirty other murders directly traceable to gangsters. And, it is pointed out, 1929 was an off year in gang killings.

Even when a murderer is found and convicted at great expense, it is difficult to keep him in jail. Criminals sentenced to death are granted new trials and meanwhile witnesses disappear, either permanently or during the retrial and the murderer is set free. Jurymen fear to serve, as they and their families are threatened with death if they find against the defendant. In many cases professional jurymen, friendly to the crime trust, manage to get on juries and force a disagreement or an acquittal.

MARSH OF IOWA DIES IN STROKE

Was Considered for Post in Cabinet During Second Term of Woodrow Wilson

WATERLOO (Iowa) Dec. 22. (AP) Wilbur W. Marsh, Democratic national committeeman from Iowa during the campaigns of Woodrow Wilson, died at his home here tonight. Death was caused by a paralytic stroke.

Marsh was mentioned prominently for appointment as Secretary of Agriculture during the second Wilson administration. He recently retired from the presidency of the Associated Manufacturers' Company, a farm implement concern.

He leaves his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Bennett Clark, wife of the son of the late Champ Clark.

Marsh was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee for a time. In 1928 he was called to testify before the Federal grand jury in the Teapot Dome oil lease investigation regarding campaign expenditures of the Democratic party. He also was called before the Senatorial committee which investigated the Teapot Dome case.

Cut in Tobacco Tax Suggested to Aid Grower

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. (AP)—The reduction of one-half in Federal tobacco taxes would, in the opinion of James C. Stone, member of the Federal Farm Board, increase tobacco consumption and thereby aid the producer.

Stone said tonight he felt that the government tax on tobacco was the only one left on a war basis and that it would be a good thing for the producer if it were reduced at least one-half.

During the last six years, Stone said, every pound of burley tobacco sold for the manufacture of cigarettes had brought the producer from 30 to 40 cents a pound, and the government in turn collected $1 a pound.

EIELSON SEARCH HOPES BRIGHTEN

Two Alaskan Pilots Reach Icebound Ship Nanuk

Coast Guard Cutter on Way With Canadian Flyers

Quest East of North Cape by Plane Fruitless

SEATTLE, Dec. 22. (AP)—The outlook for success in the search for Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borland, missing since November 9, last, somewhere in the Siberian wastes between Teller, Alaska, and North Cape, Siberia, took a more favorable turn over the week-end.

Two Alaskan pilots, Harold Gillam and Joe Crosson, have reached the ice-bound fur trading ship Nanuk at North Cape, to which Eielson and Borland were flying when they became lost, while the Coast Guard cutter Chelan is steaming north with three large cabin planes and a complement of Canadian flyers to engage in the search.

The flyers now at the Nanuk, who flew there from Teller, were handicapped for fuel but it is believed that arrangements can be made with the Russian ship Stavropol, locked in the ice near the Nanuk, to obtain gasoline for them. The Russians have about 400 gallons of airplane gasoline aboard, which it is said they are willing to lend to the Alaskan aviators, provided the borrowed fuel is replaced from supplies at Teller. Late dispatches from Nome revealed arrangements under way for such an exchange.

Olaf Swensen, head of the company which owns the Nanuk, reported that the supply of dog feed at North Cape is nearly exhausted and instructed his representatives at Nome to dispatch 300 pounds of feed to the ship from Teller. Pilot Ed Young was scheduled to take off from Teller with the feed and a load of gasoline when weather conditions permitted. Dog teams can be used to good advantage in searching the coast line.

Gillam and Swensen cruised over the mountains and lowlands to the eastward of North Cape yesterday but found no trace of the missing flyers or their plane. They were able to devote only about two hours to scouting, however, as the hours of daylight in the far north at this season of the year are few.

WOMEN PLAN SHADE FOR HIGHWAY

Club Members Undertake to Plant Trees Along Both Sides North of City

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 22. — To shade the highway in the summertime from a too-ardent valley sun and to provide a tree-lined entry of beauty into the city from the north, the Bakersfield Woman's Club will undertake as a major project during the next year, the planting of shade trees along the Golden State Highway north as far as Lerdo. The move toward this project, which was indorsed at a meeting of the club's board of directors, was an outgrowth of a discussion on the planting of living Christmas trees during the yuletide season.

"The club directors believe that the planting of trees along the highway to the north will be a real contribution to Bakersfield and Kern county," Mrs. F. C. St. Clair, president of the club, said, "and this work will be a complement to that accomplished by the club several years ago when it launched the project of tree planting along the highway reaching to the Grapevine on the south."

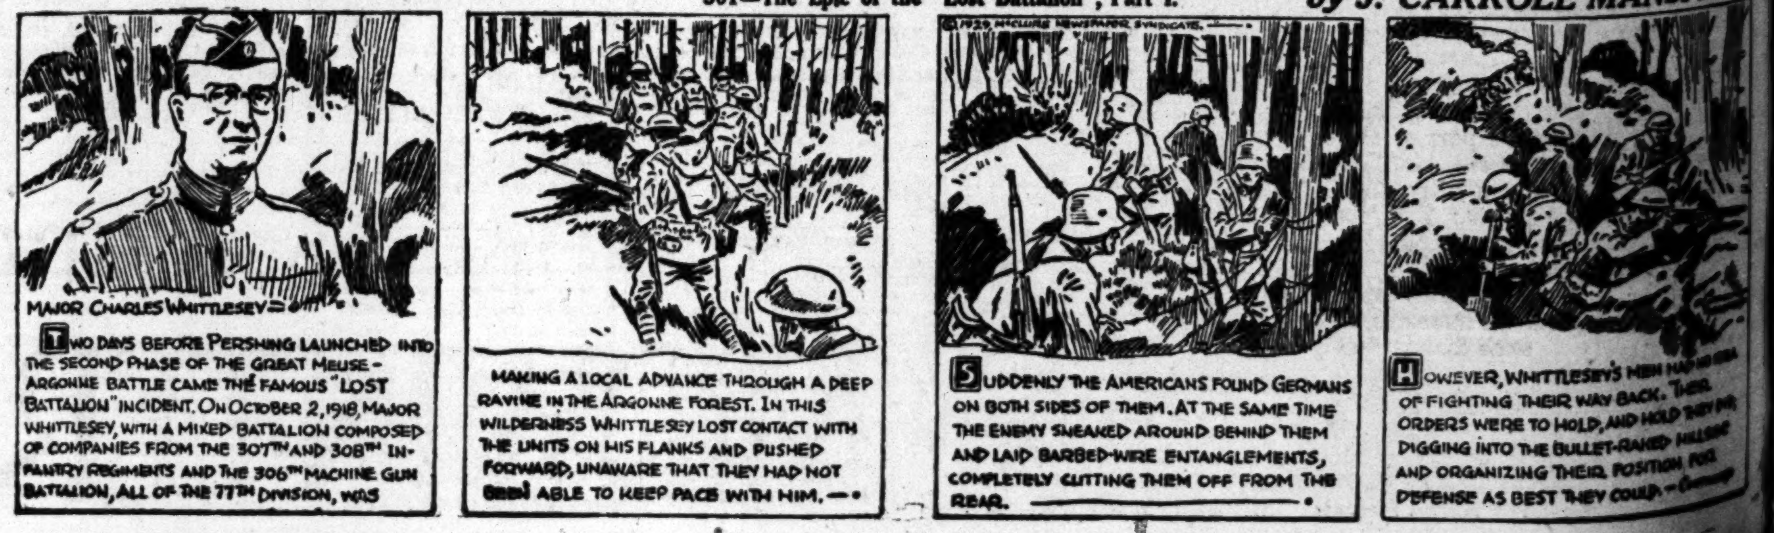
The Story of the World War

301—The Epic of the "Lost Battalion", Part 1.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



TWO DAYS BEFORE PERSHING LAUNCHED INTO THE SECOND PHASE OF THE GREAT MEUSE-ARGONNE BATTLE CAME THE FAMOUS "LOST BATTALION" INCIDENT. ON OCTOBER 2, 1918, MAJOR WHITTLESEY, WITH A MIXED BATTALION COMPOSED OF COMPANIES FROM THE 307TH AND 308TH INFANTRY REGIMENTS AND THE 306TH MACHINE GUN BATTALION, ALL OF THE 77TH DIVISION, WAS

MAKING A LOCAL ADVANCE THROUGH A DEEP RAVINE IN THE ARGONNE FOREST. IN THIS WILDERNESS WHITTLESEY LOST CONTACT WITH THE UNITS ON HIS FLANKS AND PUSHED FORWARD, UNAWARE THAT THEY HAD NOT BEEN ABLE TO KEEP PACE WITH HIM.—

SUDDENLY THE AMERICANS FOUND GERMANS ON BOTH SIDES OF THEM. AT THE SAME TIME THE ENEMY SNEAKED AROUND BEHIND THEM AND LAID BARBED-WIRE ENTANGLEMENTS, COMPLETELY CUTTING THEM OFF FROM THE REAR.

It tells of a community that has forged ahead, outgrown the Southern California of a year ago, strengthened the foundations of its industry and commerce, and that faces the future with renewed confidence.

It tells of progress and changes—new factors that have come into play—and the complete and colorful story of the community's life—occupations—sports—diversions—resources—scenic attractions.

It tells this story with a beauty of print and pictures never before attempted. California paintings are reproduced in original colors—large-scale illustrations in rotogravure—tint-blocks—surpassing press-work and engravings.

Written and illustrated to appeal to non-residents, it is a convincing message intended to be sent to prospective tourists—to manufacturers, business men and investors—to the millions of Americans who could—and ought to—live in California!

NEWPORT HEEDS HOOVER'S CALL

Program Calls for Spending Sum of $2,000,000

Lido Isle Development Will Cost About $1,160,000

Bond Issue Planned for New Union High School

NEWPORT, Dec. 22.—Newport Harbor is making plans to assist President Hoover in his nation-wide campaign to promote the prosperity of the country. Last year showed a marked improvement in the district but 1930 will be a much bigger year in every way. A $2,000,000 building and improvement program for the coming year is revealed by a survey of projects either under way or reasonably certain to go through. Most of the program will be under the supervision of R. L. Patterson, City Engineer, and is revealed in a letter written to Gov. Young, who forwarded the information with other data from all over California, to President Hoover for use in his nation-wide survey.

The largest single project planned here is the improvement of Lido Isle, for which bids have been called by the City Council. These bids will be received January 6. The work includes a bridge from the mainland at Newport to the island paving, curbs, grading, sidewalks, sewer system, water system, ornamental lights, pleasure piers, etc. The estimated cost is $1,160,000.

The next largest is the high-school plant for the Newport Harbor Union High School district, consisting of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa, for which a bond issue of probably $300,000 to $400,000 will be called, the exact amount not being determined so far.

Bonds have already been sold for the $200,000 harbor work voted by the city last October 22, $150,000 to be for dredging at the harbor entrance and $50,000 for groins.

The contract has been awarded for the improvement of the Frick property on Balboa Peninsula, at a cost of $45,000; the improvement of Central avenue now going on, $36,000; street lighting for Central avenue, $35,000; improvements of the canals in the west end, $30,000; acquisition of a new street and improvement of it and other streets in the west end, $125,000; harbor maintenance work, $20,000; new street construction, $2000; installation of new water mains and fire hydrants, $5000, and the building of an aeration tank at the main reservoir, $8000.

Private work to be done during the year includes dredging at the west end of Lido Isle, $80,000; dredging at Bay Island, $30,000, and also considerable dredging around Balboa and Harbor Islands. Another private project is the erection of a building on the land at Main and Surf streets, Balboa, recently leased for ninety-nine years by Walker and Hamon from E. R. Allen.

'Missing Link' in Air Craft Visits San Diego Field

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 22.—San Diegans today had an opportunity view the "missing link" of the airplanes, a power glider. Not large enough to claim the dignity of an airplane, yet equipped with a motor, the craft corresponds with the motorcycle's place in the automobile field.

Designed, built and flown by L. R. Crawford of Seal Beach, the glider arrived at the Ryan Airport this morning and remained there all day. The ship slightly resembles the primitive planes in which the pilots sat out on a spidery-looking platform, before the development of the streamline fuselage.

Its three-cylinder motor will take it to an altitude of 10,000 feet, it is estimated. Crawford has been flying the craft for some time, but this was his first visit with the glider to San Diego.

DRAMA OF CHRISTMAS GIVEN FOR CHURCH

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 22. — The beautiful Christmas drama of the birth of Christ was portrayed in the First Presbyterian Church this evening in graphic manner, with a wealth of colorful costumes and a setting of music and song.

In the prologue Henry Wadsworth Longfellow lived again, together with those three delightful characters of "The Children's Hour," "Grave Alice, laughing Allegra, and Edith with golden hair." Then also were heard "The Christmas Bells," with "chimes of joy" from the organ mingling with, boom of cannon.

The pageant climaxed with the Christ Child, bringing peace to the world, and with the nations of the world paying homage to the Prince of Peace.

LAWSUITS ORPHANS NOW

Orange County Legal Actions Below $1000 Level Have "No Place to Go," Until Mandate Issued

SANTA ANA, Dec. 22.—Orange county lawsuits below the $1000 level are now orphans with no place to go, and citizens were of necessity showing the Yuletide "good will to men" spirit, while awaiting the Court of Appeals to decide that cases of the class stated shall be heard in Justice Court instead of Superior Court. The decision is expected before the Appellate Court recesses on Christmas Eve for the holidays, and will come, it is believed certain, in the form of a writ of mandate directed to Justice K. E. Morrison, declaring that the population of Santa Ana is above 30,000 and that the law increasing jurisdiction of justice courts from $300 to $1000 in townships above that population mark applies to Santa Ana.

W. F. Menton, Santa Ana attorney, appointed by the Appellate Court as referee, has filed his finding with the court, showing that the township population is 37,250.

Accordingly, J. M. Backs, clerk of Superior Court, is refusing to receive cases from Santa Ana Township involving sums less than $1000, one such case being rejected Friday, and Justice K. E. Morrison, meanwhile, has announced that he will refuse to receive such cases until the Appellate Court actually issues its expected writ. Backs and Justice Morrison each considers that his court lacks jurisdiction.

The matter was brought before the Appellate Court for test, in a friendly action, the Holly Sugar Corporation filing a petition through Attorneys Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus, for a writ of mandamus against Justice Morrison, who was represented by Attorneys L. A. West and B. Z. McKinney.

Local legal opinion is of the belief, incidentally, that all cases involving less than $1000 that have been filed in Superior Court from Santa Ana Township since the law went into effect last August 14, must be dismissed and refiled in Justice Court when the jurisdiction matter finally is decided. Such cases cannot be transferred from one court to the other, because there is no concurrent jurisdiction, it is argued. And in any case where the legal time limit for bringing suit has arrived since August 14, or during the present entire absence of jurisdiction, the plaintiff is "out of luck," lawyers say.

Paving That is Squirted on to be Given Trial

PACOIMA, Dec. 22.—Despite the squabble whether concrete or patent paving is the best for San Fernando Valley roads, the valley district engineer has just received an order asking that plans be made for the improvement of about four miles of streets in the Peoria and Tellfair street improvement district with four and eight-inch Bitumuls paving, thirty feet wide. This patent paving is a bituminous process that was developed in Europe and introduced into the United States about five years ago. The bituminous emulsion when properly prepared is sprayed onto macadam base.

One engineer here today said that most taxpayers appear not to like any sort of patent paving. "But," he added, "engineers are constantly making effort to discover something that will excel present paving methods, as good as they are, and there must be experiments of various kinds before final end is reached. In recent years there has been much complaint over patent paving. This is because probably scientific research has not finished its work."

Christmas Will Center in Plaza for San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 22.—San Diego's Plaza will reflect the Christmas spirit with colored lights, decorations and Christmas carols under plans outlined by the manager of operation and the street superintendent.

Through the co-operation of the operating department, City Clerk park department and police department, the decorations are to go up on the Plaza tomorrow. Current for the electric lights will be donated by the gas and electric company, which also will connect up the string of lights with the power lines.

The plan was advanced when it became apparent that there would be no downtown decorations unless some steps were taken. Carolers will join in the festivities Monday and Tuesday evenings.

CRAIL SANTA MONICA SANTA

Congressman Sends $400,000 Christmas Gift in Form of Assurance of Postoffice for City

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 22.—This community received a Christmas greeting said to be worth $400,000 when A. W. McPherson, Republican party leader here, opened a telegram from Congressman Crail at Washington.

"Merry Christmas. Santa Monica is included in the building program," the message read.

"This means the matter of Santa Monica's new postoffice is settled," declared McPherson, who heads the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce committee working for a Federal Building here. "Congressman Crail is a member of the Congressional Committee on Public Buildings, and no new legislation is needed because money for an extensive national building program was appropriated last year. The wire means that Santa Monica was among the cities selected by the committee."

At present Santa Monica's postoffice, serving a population of approximately 50,000, is in a rented building on Broadway between Third and Fourth streets. It was pointed out that erection of a building will mean a saving in money to the government over the present rental expense. No definite site for the structure has been settled locally, though many have been mentioned from time to time.

Girls on Bear Hunt Get Two

OWENSMOUTH, Dec. 22.—Miss Marie Johnson, manager of the local telephone office, and Miss Grace Lyon, a friend, have just returned here after a bear hunt near Kernville, and report bagging two, one brown and the other black. The young woman with other friends at Kernville set a trap and caught a young brown bear. This they killed, bringing home the skin to be tanned.

They tracked the black bear into the brush and with men companions succeeded in capturing the animal alive. This bear also was a young one. They were bringing it home to show it to friends here but on passing through Santa Barbara the owner of a zoo bought it from them.

TRIO OF CHRISTMAS TREES LIT IN PARK

HUNTINGTON PARK, Dec. 22.—Three thirty-foot cedar trees in Municipal Park have been decorated with 245 electric lights and many feet of tinsel for the Christmas celebration season, and quite a number of people of this section are holding their Christmas parties beneath these trees during the afternoons and evenings. Robert McColley American Legion Post members will hold their Christmas celebration tomorrow night at Patriotic Hall in the park, when they will entertain the children of the veterans' families. Tuesday night the Salvation Army will hold its celebration for the children of the worthy poor families, and on that night a score or more of automobiles will leave the Elks' clubhouse, each machine to have a trio of Elks, who will deliver Christmas baskets throughout the district. It is expected that at least 150 baskets will be left at as many homes before the Elks complete their trip.

POSTOFFICE SWAMPED ON SANTA CLAUS JOB

VAN NUYS, Dec. 22.—If the increase in postal business is a good sign, Van Nuys is growing "by leaps and bounds," according to Postmaster E. D. Gibson. The local postoffice is almost swamped, activities of the present holiday season being 25 per cent greater than last year. A small corps of helpers have been employed to assist in handling the parcel post and letter mails. "There is hardly a person living in the Van Nuys district," Mr. Gibson said today, "but who has sent a gift of some sort back to relatives or friends in their former homes."

SAN FERNANDO, Dec. 22.—Police here have been asked to aid in the search for Mrs. Beecher M. Crouse, wife of a Utica (N. Y.) banker, who disappeared from her home several weeks ago, and is believed to be somewhere in Southern California. A reward of $5000 is being offered for information that will lead to her return. Mrs. Crouse is said to be a woman of refinement, but suffers attacks of amnesia, police here say they have been informed.

SWEET-PEA CLASSIC THRILLS

Tense Excitement Reigns as Close of Second Annual South Fourth Street Sweepstakes Nears; Rivalry at Fever Heat; Police Protection Asked

ALHAMBRA, Dec. 22.—There is an atmosphere of tense excitement on South Fourth street and vicinity. Crowds gather in front of the homes of W. G. Meade at 927 South Fourth street and of Frisbie Arnold, 924 South Fourth. Every few minutes the sound of high-pitched voices breaks through the monotone of conversation as arguments ebb and flow. The big day is near when the second annual South Fourth Sweet Pea Sweepstakes will be decided.

At noon Christmas Day Meade and Arnold are scheduled to end their classic race, which has attracted wide attention. To the one who presents at that time the most sweet pea blossoms on his vines will go the sweet pea cup, given by the South Fourth Street Sweet Pea Racing Association, and emblematic of South Fourth Street Sweet Pea supremacy for 1929.

For the past four months the traditional rivalry between Meade and Arnold has been fanned to a fever heat. Threats of other entries in the race have also served to keep public interest at a high pitch, but as the fateful day approaches Meade and Arnold have so far outdistanced any competitors that they have the field virtually to themselves.

Meade goes into the final stretch a slight favorite by reason of his victory over Arnold last year by a scant two blossoms, but Arnold is grooming his vines for a final spurt and issued a statement late today that he would beat Meade by a comfortable margin.

Backers of both contestants are watching the vines closely. Many maintained an all-night vigil last night and there were reports of several bets on the progress of the race during a twenty-four-hour period. Most of the fans, however, were content merely to sit and watch the buds unfold.

Organization of cheering sections with distinctive uniforms and club colors was the latest plan of the derby promoters. Hourly bulletins will be posted during the final night of the race, it was announced today. The bulletins will report the individual progress of each vine. Sweet pea racing enthusiasts are clamoring for tickets to the final heat on Christmas morning.

Both clubs, the West Side of South Fourth Street Sweet-Pea Racing Association, backer of Meade, and the East Side of South Fourth Street Sweet-Pea Racing Association, backer of Arnold, were contemplating the erection of additional temporary stands at their respective arenas for the big day.

Gloom hung over the Meade camp for several hours Saturday when it was learned that one of Meade's vines had been suddenly taken ill. A consultation of sweet-pea specialists was called and after strenuous work restored the vine to normal health. They reported that the case was only a nervous condition due to the long strain of the four-months' grind. The vine was declared today to be in splendid shape.

The sportsmanship which prevails in the contest was evidenced during the illness of Meade's vine when his opponent, Arnold, offered to withdraw one of his plants if Meade's vine were forced to withdraw. "We are content to win on our merits and are not desirous of obtaining a victory through such a regrettable misfortune on the part of titleholder," Arnold said in a prepared statement.

The South Fourth Street Sweet Pea Racing Association has asked the police for adequate protection during the final days of the race, both for the handling of the growing crowds and to protect the contestants against any act of vandalism on the part of the gamblers who have flocked to Alhambra in large numbers during the past few days,

Police Chief J. W. Thompson said today that he would guarantee full protection and would see that the crowds were properly handled.

REDLANDS STOCKS SANTA

Headquarters of Associated Charities Filled With Stockings Waiting for Him to Distribute

REDLANDS, Dec. 22.—Santa Claus is coming to Redlands. This became an assured fact today when the headquarters of the Associated Charities were deluged with stockings, filled to the brim with candy, toys and things to wear, to await distribution by Santa Claus on Christmas Eve.

These stockings, prepared by the Associated Charities each year and distributed among the friends of the organization, were filled by loving hands. Not a one but is overflowing with the things that will make some child happy who would otherwise be forgotten by Santa Claus.

"We gave out more than 200 of the stockings this year and could have given out twice that many," said Mrs. Van De Carr. "There were people who just begged for a stocking to fill but we had none to give them. The finest thing of all was when the Y's Men's Club, a service club of young business men, took a stocking for each member and required each member to fill it. I wish you could see what those boys put in them, everything they could find that would delight a child. And the people at the Wissahickon Inn filled some wonderful ones as well as individuals."

The Rotary Club gave a turkey dinner for a lot of the youngsters, the P.E.O. Club has prepared a great box of food to be distributed among the unfortunate, the churches and Christmas programs for the boys and girls, and food and clothing has been distributed to needy families.

Told Judge He Gave His Cows Alcohol Rubs

SEPULVEDA, Dec. 22.—Dominigo Lavin, a dairyman on Nordhoff street, after a trial in the Municipal Court at Van Nuys, was sentenced to pay a fine of $300 or spend sixty days in jail on a liquor charge.

According to the evidence arresting police officers claimed they found a quantity of alcohol on Lavin's place. In his defense Lavin asserted that he had found that his herd became better milk producers when they were given occasional alcohol rubs, and that was what he was doing with the liquid.

Judge Clifford Thompson admitted the alibi was the most original that had come before him for some time. "I'm going to give you credit for your imaginative genius," he told Lavin. He then resentenced Lavin to a $100 fine or twenty days in jail.

Ontario Couple Puzzled by Christmas Present on Their Porch

ONTARIO, Dec. 22—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Murphy can't quite figure out what Santa Claus meant when he deposited a sewing machine on their front porch and failed to make himself known.

Christmas will be just "sew-sew" at the Murphy home unless the machine is claimed soon.

SEWER MAY HAVE TO BE BUILT AGAIN

Pasadena Graft Inquiry Discloses Specifications Not Followed in Work

PASADENA, Dec. 22. — Because this city failed to install specified supports for the west side outfall sewer through South Pasadena, the neighboring city is expected to demand reconstruction of the sewer along its entire length in South Pasadena, it is revealed today.

During the past week, excavations made at various points along Arroyo Boulevard have disclosed in each instance that the cradling was omitted. It was found that the sewer casing did not comply with specifications, that only a small amount of cement was used, in many instances merely covering the ground beneath the sewer, and affording no protection for the sides.

In the testimony given by Warren C. Earle, former City Engineer, now on trial on charges of grand theft, frequent reference has been made to 546 feet of reinforcement or cradling of the sewer in the South Pasadena area. This work also forms part of the "extras" allowed Contractor O. K. Hearte, another paving-graft case defendant.

Eight test holes have been dug along Arroyo Boulevard during the past few days and they have revealed that the sewer has not been supported according to contract specifications.

As a result, the city of South Pasadena is asserted to fear that a break in the sewer where it intersects water mains, might endanger South Pasadena's water supply.

Photographs of the test holes have been taken and these are expected to be presented as evidence in the case, now being tried in Los Angeles in Superior Judge Marshall F. McComb's court.

Student Nurse Asks Probation

SANTA ANA, Dec. 22.—Madelene E. Gillette, pretty 20-year-old student nurse, 1762 East Third street, Long Beach, was penitent today after a brief and unsuccessful venture into crime. Rueing the day that she entered the First National Bank in Santa Ana and cashed an asserted forged check for $27, the girl is in the County Jail awaiting outcome of her action in throwing herself upon the mercy of the court.

Arraigned on the forgery charge before Justice K. E. Morrison today, she waived her preliminary hearing, then appeared before Superior Judge George K. Scovel, pleaded guilty and asked for probation. Present estimate places the number of trees to be planted at 170,000, a number equal to that of any two years in the history of the local agricultural office.

Of the total number to be planted approximately 125,000 will be from stock within the county, while the balance will be shipped in from adjoining counties.

It was later revealed that the winning smile cost a Pomona station operator $88, and a Redlands station attendant didn't acknowledge what his contribution to the smile had been.

Two Weddings, One Golden, in Bartell Home

Among those present at yesterday's affair were the four sons and two daughters of the celebrants.

Pick-up of Operations Noted in Area South of Prescott, Ariz.

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Activity of very gratifying sort is noted in the Senator section, south of Prescott, in the drainage of the historic Hassayampa River. Work has been resumed on the Davis-Dunkirk property, on Senator Mountain.

Manager C. L. Williams has contracted for current from the Arizona Power Company, which is running a four-mile service line to the mine, passing the Sheldon-Superior property, which is operated by Chase Mines, Inc. Davis-Dunkirk is erecting a 100-ton flotation mill, to be in operation in February, and is building a new camp. The Chase organization also is to have electric power and is to install a new hoist, on a three-compartment shaft.

Nineteen miles from Prescott, in Hassayampa district, is the Alden group, operated by the Maxwell Merger Mines Company, with development proceeding on a large lead-silver dyke with a pioneer record. Main operation will be through a 500-foot tunnel.

The Ruby Silver Company is planning a long tunnel from near the level of the Hassayampa River to cut three veins at 700 feet depth.

An 80,000-barrel storage tank is being erected near by to care for the production which cannot be sold company officials state. A large storage tank, similar in size and design to the Standard Oil earthen reservoir on Sec. 1, 24-27, will be built near Bakersfield in the near future, it is reported.

FELLOWS, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Officials of the Republic Petroleum Company report that a water shut-off has finally been obtained in the No. 35 well on Sec. 8, 32-23.

The well came in as an excellent producer and was put on production several times, but it developed water trouble. The hole is 3180 feet deep and the water was shut off at 3061 feet, where casing was set.

The company's No. 36 well on the same section is progressing rapidly, having reached a depth of more than 1800 feet. The sixteen-inch casing is cemented at 1195 feet.

MINING ASSOCIATION HEAD IN WASHINGTON

J. C. Kempvanee, Jr., president of the Mining Association of California, is now in Washington conferring with California Congressmen and Senators on proposed and pending mining legislation. He expects to place before President Hoover the views of California miners on the public-land question.

SANTA FE CURB PARLEY FUTILE

Meeting of Operators Fails on Agreement

Problem Voluntarily Left to Field Umpire

Curtailment Outlook in Area Appears Dark

No agreement was reached among the various operators at Santa Fe Springs when they met this week-end to discuss a new method for the curtailing of production, and as a result it was decided to continue the completion of projects there and voluntarily consent to allow the field umpire to impose any cut he deems proper.

The suggestion was made a week ago that the companies suspend drilling when the top of the oil sand was reached and a successful water shut-off obtained, provided the plan met with the approval of the State Mining Bureau. This plan, however, failed to meet with the approval of many producers—several wanted certain concessions which others refused to allow.

If the operators keep up with the schedule now in the hands of Umpire Paul Grimm, Santa Fe Springs will experience a new flood of oil between January 1 and 15, inclusive. At least fifty wells should be completed within that period and the majority of them will be brought in from the lower Clarke sand.

Since November 1 fifty-seven new wells have been completed there. During the first two weeks in November, nineteen were brought in for a total daily output of 43,500 barrels, an average of 2290 barrels per well. During the last two weeks in November eighteen were added to the list, having a combined daily output of 43,000 barrels, and each averaging 2390 barrels daily.

Nineteen new wells were completed during the first two weeks in December, having a total daily production of 72,000 barrels, or averaging about 3625 barrels each. This last group skyrocketed the field's total to more than 185,000 barrels daily and if all projects had been allowed to flow freely the daily output would have soared beyond 316,000 barrels.

No solution has yet been found for several difficulties which have kept the field's daily average above the 150,000-barrel maximum suggested by the principal operators. Aside from overproduction on the part of one or two individual operators there, the co-operation program has been remarkably successful.

Plans for Test of Tideland Oil Permits Pushed

Setting a new record for efficient and rapid construction, two oil companies are completing $50,000 worth of improvements started a week ago along the county park on the Goleta sandspit in order to test the three tideland permits in front of the slough, just east of the Elwood coastal field.

By the end of this week, the 2500 feet of powerline and 2000 feet of shale road will be finished. A 500-foot wooden bridge was completed last week. The water line from a county well to the beach has been put down and the well is being developed to produce water.

Three piers are building and two of them are nearly completed. Drilling will be under way on all three tideland permits before January 6. The permits are No. 141 held by Anna H. Bishop, No. 142 held by James Main and No. 143 held by Dorothy Vaugh Main.

Just to the east of these permits, the General Petroleum has spudded in its Bank No. 1 and is preparing to start drilling on four additional tideland wells.

Pilgrim Mine Crosscut Near Good Ore Body

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—In the Pilgrim property, near Chloride, the 350-foot level cross-cut is approaching the ore body already well developed on the 230-foot level. On the upper level the cross-cut was driven through thirty feet of low-grade, with two streaks of much more valuable material, making a good shipping mixture.

Especial comment is being made on the fact that the vein silica is of the same adularia quartz on which rests the fame of Oatman. This material shows little free gold as a rule, but its notably susceptible to separation by cyanide, at low cost.

Good pannings have been made in Pilgrim quartz, in which no gold was visible. An extension of the main ledge is held by the South Pilgrim, which is to start work under charge of Fred W. Koehler of Los Angeles.

CINNABAR FIND HELD PROMISING

New Strike in Nevada Property Declared of Unusual Richness

E. L. Burney of Hollywood, who recently returned from a business trip to Nevada mining districts, reports the recent discovery of what he characterizes as an important cinnabar discovery near Antelope Springs, Nev.

The strike was discovered in a cross-cut in a 100-foot tunnel, and is a V-shaped ledge, cutting a three-foot vein of high-grade ore, averaging from $30 to $600 per ton. Mr. Burney says it is decidedly the best and richest showing of any deposit in the district at the same stage of development, with enough profitable ore in sight to probably produce in excess of $50,000 monthly across a period of several years.

Those in control of the property have arranged for the purchase of new equipment to be installed at the mine at once. This equipment can readily treat in excess of fifteen tons of ore daily at a cost of about $1.80 per ton, it is asserted.

L. C. Newton and Samuel Jay of the United Casting Company of Los Angeles, are associated with Mr. Burney in the development of the property, which adjoins the famous Nevada Quicksilver Company mines, now considered the largest producers in the country.

NEW TEST LOOMS AT MARICOPA

Angeleno Operators to Sink Wildcat on Ranch in Southeast Area

MARICOPA, Dec. 22. (Exclusive) The next wildcat test in this vicinity will be drilled on the Phil Klipstein ranch, five miles southwest of here, it was announced this week by Walter J. Barnhart of Los Angeles, of the firm of Barnhart & Hardison.

Mr. Barnhart, accompanied by C. B. Gauthiere, petroleum engineer, made an inspection of the property during the week and is said to have selected a site for the well on Sec. 18, 11-24. Drilling will begin prior to February 20, it is said.

Barnhart and Guy L. Hardison control approximately 7000 acres in the vicinity of the location and expect to get commercial production at about 4000 feet.

The only test ever made in the district was the Frankel-Orloff Oil Company's well, drilled several years ago to a depth of 1817 feet, where mechanical difficulties forced abandonment.

ELK HILLS DEEP TEST ABANDONED

Standard Quits Project at 8400 Feet; Said to Be Deepest in Kern

TUPMAN, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—The Standard Oil Company has abandoned work on its deep test project in Elk Hills. It was the deepest hole ever drilled in Kern county, having reached a depth of more than 8400 feet.

Drilling stopped when a fishing job developed which baffled all attempts to remove a broken drill stem. The well was known as KCL No. 27 on Section 31, 30-25, at the outer edge of the field's producing zone

Nothing of productive value was discovered in the cores after the well passed 4500 feet, it is unofficially reported.

KETTLEMAN OIL STATUS CLOUDY

Week Shows Little Change in Situation

Many Completions Held Up on Agreement

Status at Various Drilling Projects Told

Change in the situation at Kettleman Hills is not expected for many weeks to come. Numerous drilling projects are being suspended there by operators to delay their completion in compliance with an agreement with the Department of the Interior.

The Standard Oil Company has the longest list of drilling projects at Kettleman Hills. According to reports, its No. 81 on Sec. 11, 22-17, one of two producers several months ago on the north dome will be suspended with bottom of the hole at 6673 feet and will make no effort in the near future to deepen into the oil formation for production.

Standard's No. 261 on Sec. 11, 22-17, with bottom of 6981 feet, is preparing to be plugged and will soon suspend, while the No. 78 on Sec. 7, 22-18, with bottom at 7108 feet, already has suspended. The No. 41 on Sec. 3, 22-17, has suspended operations with bottom at 7214 feet.

The Milham Exploration Company was the first operator to suspend operations when the top of the oil sand was reached. Its Kennedy No. 1 has been idle for several months with bottom at 7373 feet, while Elliott No. 2 on the north dome will not be brought in until restrictions are removed. Another suspended project is the Pacific Western Oil Company's No. 27 on Sec. 34, 21-17. Bottom of this well is at 7423 feet, with four and three-quarter-inch casing set at 6200 feet. George F. Getty, Inc., and the Continental Oil Company have shut down operations on the north dome and will not resume work for perhaps eighteen months.

The Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation has developed a fishing job in Ferguson No. 1 on Sec. 24, 22-17. Five-inch drill pipe is frozen at 5340 feet, with bottom of the hole at 7450 feet. Another fishing job has delayed operations on the General Petroleum Corporation's Ochsner No. 2 on Sec. 20, 22-18, which is fishing, with bottom at 7116 feet, for four-inch drill pipe.

California Oil Figures Given Out for Week

The total production of crude oil in California for November amounted to 21,317,540 barrels, an average of 710,585 barrels per day. This is a decrease of 157,001 barrels per day under October production.

Total stocks of crude and oil products in Pacific Coast territory decreased during the month 1,096,09 barrels. The total stocks at the end of the month were 183,748,450 barrels. The total stock increase for 1929, up to November 30, was 43,747,556 barrels.

Sixty-eight wells were completed during the month with an initial daily production of 91,238 barrels, compared with fifty-five wells completed during October with an initial production of 50,563 barrels.

LITTLE AMADOR ON WAY TO REOPENING

Unwatering of the Little Amador mine in Amador county has been completed and the lower levels are being cleaned up ready for operation. The shaft of the Original Amador is being repaired for use. A steel headframe has been moved from the Old Treasurer mine and erected at the Little Amador shaft, which is 1200 feet deep.

MIAMI MINE IN FULL BLAST

MIAMI (Ariz.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Though statement is made that a slight reduction in output is contemplated by the copper producers of Arizona, there is no such indication here, thus far, it being noted that the great Inspiration mill is capable of a product very much in excess of that now known.

There appears to have been full success in the operation, economically and efficiently, of the Inspiration leaching plant, which seems to have solved the problem of handling oxide-sulphide ores at low cost. The Miami company's property is employing 400 men more than it did a year ago and is mining 17,500 tons of ore a day, with increase in the capacity of the mill from 12,000 to 18,000 tons a day. A full crew of 1600 men is on the pay roll. Manager F. W. Maclennan states that about $400,000 will be spent by the company during the coming year, regardless of the copper market.

The Arizona chapter of the American Mining Congress has made statement that "a slight reduction in copper production is contemplated." All construction and improvement programs appropriated for will be completed and companies will proceed with normal development and a small amount of new construction. Approximately 19,000 men are at work in Arizona mines and smelters, 4000 more than the 1928 average. Wage scales are 15 per cent higher than in October of 1928. It is noted that applicants for employment are increasing.

At the last meeting of the Arizona chapter, T. H. O'Brien, general manager of Inspiration, was elected governor. W. B. Gohring, a Phoenix mining engineer, was retained as secretary.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Baryte

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—Question: the inclosed sample contains barium. I would like to know the number and amounts of impurities. Samples are from a point twelve miles west of Hailey, Idaho.

S.

Answer: The big specimen is barium sulphate and carries more or less strontium, iron and quartz. The microscopic spots in this sample seem to be of manganese. The two smaller thumb-specimens are also barium sulphate, with a slight strontium reaction. No sample tested for zinc.

Talcose-sericite Schist

PEORIA (Ariz.) Dec. 1.—Q.: Herewith please find sample from four-foot ledge; between granite and limestone in Bradshaw Mountains. What is it? Any commercial value?

M.

A.: The samples have a greasy feel; of pearly luster; one specimen is foliated, and in part hydro-mica schist. For some purposes such mineral may have commercial value as low-grade tailors chalk; as talc for those engaged in selling shoes, and probably for certain mixtures of it with oils as a lubricant.

Free Gold Absent

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Dec. 1.—Q.: Have made some new discoveries. Would be very thankful for analyses of the three samples and results of tests published through in the earth column.

B.

A.: Sample No. 1 runs high in limonite; manganese present. No. 2 is in part magnesium silicate rock; cinnabar absent, but indicated near the locality. No. 3 is altered rock; nickel absent. No fire assays made for gold or silver.

No Gem Value

YUCAIPA, Dec. 2.—Q.: Am sending to your In the Earth department three samples of rock. I am told that they contain a rare metal in crystal form. Could you tell me what this metal is? The specimens are from Riverside county. I also want to thank you for past favors.

X.

A.: The crystals you refer to are epidote, and No. 1 is a mixture of quartz and pistachio-green epidote. No. 2 is massive crystal quartz and epidote. No. 3 is the rock epidosyte mixed with quartz. There is no cerium epidote in any sample. The specimens were not quantitatively analyzed, and were not tested for thulite.

Flake Platinum Absent

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—Q.: Please test these samples for gold, silver and platinum. Found along the Feather River, Butte county, California.

R.C.H.

A.: You gave no postoffice address. Sample No. 1 is quartzitic rock; seemingly all burnt up. It contains some jasper and cinnabar is absent. No. 2 is ferruginous quartz carrying a little pyrite; white iron pyrite, (marcasite,) and the pyrite is probably slightly auriferous. Flour gold found in traces only. No. 3 is quartz carrying iron oxides with some pyrite. For silver and other gold values please consult assayers.

Iron Ores

HIGHLAND, Dec. 3.—Q.: Under separate cover please find specimen from San Bernardino Mountains. I have had similar rock assayed for gold, silver and copper, which are mostly absent. Please classify for other metals, and oblige.

H.

A.: The samples are mixtures of lemonite and hematite, including micaceous iron variety; silica present.

Two Samples

RED MOUNTAIN, Dec. 3.—Q.: Kindly analyze samples for cinnabar. Both specimens from Panamint range. Oblige.

C.

A.: The three samples of No. 1 do not react for mercury; the reddish matter is hematite and not cinnabar. One of the specimens carries a trace of Azurite. No. 2 is a mixture of altered hornblende carrying limonite (hydrous iron peroxide) and hematite (iron peroxide.)

Native Gold Absent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 4.—Q.: This sample of hornblende taken from near Shoshone, Cal., is believed to carry silver and platinum. If you would please test it for both metals I would appreciate it.

B.

A.: No fire assays made for gold or silver. The sample carries no flake platinum; microscopical micaceous iron and ilmenite found. Native silver absent.

Tungsten Absent

CANTIL, Dec. 5.—Q.: Three samples herewith from Kern county. Will appreciate, very much, if you will tell me whether they contain tungsten or lime carbonate.

A.

A.: The fine-grain, milk-white specimen is calcite (lime carbonite. The other white sample is chiefly calcite with some baryte. The remaining yellowish mineral (coated with clay and traces of iron oxide) is crystallized calcite.

Altered Rock

PALMDALE, Dec. 6.—Q.: I sent you the samples you require about two months ago.

A.: Checking up on samples from you results in the fact that no specimens were received from you as stated. On the 6th inst. a few altered rocks came to hand and they contain clay, silica, iron oxides, manganese traces and represent doubtful values.

Five Samples

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 6.—Q.: Will you please describe the mineral pollucite? Am sending you five samples. No. 1 is from a large outcrop about ten miles from Elsinore. I thought, maybe, it is lithia rock. Please classify it for me. No. 2 also from Elsinore district—hard and dry looking—I have had it assayed for gold and silver with negative results. No. 3 is from the Elsinore district and I call it quartz crystal. No. 4 is from a stream bed near Pocatello, Idaho. My partner and I refer to such stones as moonstone, but they seem harder to me than the California variety. No. 5 is from a vein outcrop in San Bernardino Mountains near Redlands.

R.

A.: Pollucite is one of the isometric unisilicates of white color and of vitreous luster. It is also a caesium silicate and runs approximately 30 per cent. caesium. Caesium is a rare metal of the alkaline group. Many varieties of quartz are often supposed to contain pollucite (silicate of aluminum and caesium.) Caesium is often found in lepidolite, and occasionally in water (spring water.) Regarding your samples, No. 1 is tremolite (a variety of hornblende.) No. 2, hornblende — lithium absent. No. 3 is chalcedony (quartz.) No. 4 is hornblende banded with iron magnesium silicate, and it is not moonstone. One other, No. 3 is quartz; the pinkish-red stain in it is rose quartz, and the sample gives off iridescent colors by reflected light.

A Mixture

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—Q.: Inclosed find sample of mineral from near Lake Superior, Wis. Please give me a report on mineral contained in it through In the Earth column, and oblige.

X.

A.: The specimen is a very fine-grained hydrous calcium silicate in part. It is probably mixed with chabazite, (zeolitic matter) and "goes" into the fingers, when handled, like pulverized glass.

Oligoclase

SCOTT BAR, Dec. 8.—Q.: Under separate cover find small package of ore marked 1-A and 2-B.

H.

A.: The black No. 1 is a spherulitic silicate from volcanic formation. No. 2 is oligoclase (soda-lime feldspar.)

Mixed Sulphides

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.—Q.: Please give analysis of this sample from Mariposa county, Cal.

E. E. S.

A.: It is a mixture of galenite, sphalerite and pyrite.

Calcite

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Dec. 9.—Q.: I am mailing you in an ore sack two samples of ore for analyses and evaluation.

S.

KERN FIELD OPERATIONS ON DECLINE

Only Two New Projects Listed as Starting in Period of Week

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 22. (Exclusive.)—Only two oil wells were started last week in Kern county, it being the smallest number started in any week during the year. Tests for water shut-off numbered seven and there were four deepening or redrilling jobs.

The new wells are in the Midway field. The Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company spudded in its No. 74 on Sec. 8, 32-24, and the Standard Oil Company began drilling its No. 125 well on Sec. 1, 32-23.

Successful water shut-offs were reported as follows: Union Oil Company's Tribe No. 6, Sec. 28, 27-28, and Signal Oil and Gas Company's Glide No. 15-C, Sec. 27, 27-28, Mount Poso; Pan American Petroleum Company No. 6, Sec. 22, 28-27, and General Petroleum Corporation No. 14, Sec. 14, 28-27, Kern River; North American Oil Consolidated No. 7, Sec. 8, 11-23, Sunset; Ohio Oil Company No. 34, Sec. 30, 28-21, Belridge; Shell Oil Company's Jewett No. 10, Sec. 29, 28-29. Round Mountain

Deepening jobs were begun by Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company in its No. 21 well on Sec. 4, 32-24, and the Mocal Oil Company in its No. 13 well on Sec. 26, 31-22, Midway; Franco Western Oil Company No. 10, Sec. 8, 30-22, McKittrick and General Petroleum Corporation No. 23, Sec. 14, 28-27, Kern River.

The Shell Oil Company reported the abandonment of its No. 1 well on the Kern County Land Company lease, Sec. 6, 29-27, in the Fruitvale area.

New Belridge Producer for Ohio Company

BELRIDGE, Dec. 22. (Exclusive) The Ohio Oil Company has brought in another shallow producer in the Belridge field, on its Bear State lease. It obtained approximately fifteen barrels daily on the pump from its No. 34 well. Bottom is at 683 feet, something like twenty feet less than the field's usual shallow production zone.

Belridge, operating on a near by lease, is redrilling its No. 15 well and is near the old bottom at 5060 feet. This hole has casing cemented at 4950 feet.

Test Cemented at Bakersfield

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—The Standard Oil Company's second well on Oak street, near the city limits, is down 420 feet. Drilling has been suspended while the cement plug is setting.

The first well, which developed considerable water trouble after being brought in for a production of 240 barrels a day, is now back on the producing list, doing about 125 barrels.

NEW MEXICO OIL ACTIVITIES TOLD

Three Completions Feature of Week in State

Cranfill and Reynolds Lea Well Most Important

Texas Pacific Deepens Hole Doubling Production

ARTESIA (N. M.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Three wells have featured developments in Southeastern New Mexico during the past few days. Notable among the three is the first offset to the Cranfill & Reynolds well in the Lea district.

This well, the Cranfill & Reynolds, State No. 2-B, a location west of the discovery well on Sec. 2, 21-35, a quarter mile from Main street in the town of Lea, is of peculiar interest because of the possibilities of that area. The well is approximately twenty-five feet higher on the structure than the No. 1 test of the same company and it encountered oil at 3730 feet. Recent production estimates indicate that the output of the new well will not equal that of the discovery well, which is making more than 2300 barrels daily, so it may be drilled deeper.

Drillers have more than trebled the production of the State No. 2 of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company, on Sec. 21, 23-36, by core drilling nine feet deeper. Drilled to a total depth of 3712 feet, the well made slightly better than 200 barrels daily when connected with the pipe line. Recent field information states that a rotary rig was placed on the location and the well drilled to 3721 feet. At the end of the first day's production test the well made 400 barrels and the second day it made 600 barrels with a trace of water.

The crew is running casing in Lea county's newest well—Anna Meyers No. 1 of the Continental Oil Company, on Sec. 17, 21-36, to shut off a flow of 77,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The Meyers No. 1 was reported to have been making fifty barrels an hour from a showing found at 4001 feet. A gas flow which developed at 3450 feet has gradually increased to the present depth.

New Mexico operators are watching a new wildcat well of the Deep Rock Oil Company in Andrews county, Texas, twenty-five miles southeast of Hobbs, N. M. This test is believed to be located on what is known as the Hobbs "high." It encountered a porous lime from 4305 to 4309 feet and came in with an initial production of over 200 barrels daily. The location is in Block A-46, Sec. 6, Andrews county.

Texas Natural Gas Line Plans for Extension

BIG SPRING (Tex.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—An extension of the natural gas pipe line system of the South Plains Pipe Line Company, subsidiary of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, will be made to Big Spring from a point on its trunk line that runs from the Amarillo gas field to La Mesa and other towns of the South Plains. This new pipe line will augment the present supply of gas here, which is being furnished domestic and industrial consumers by the Big Spring Public Service Company.

The Metropolitan Bond and Share Company of Dallas has obtained franchises for supplying natural gas to the towns of Zephyr, Mullin, Goldthwaite, Lometa and Lampasas, and it will construct a pipe line from Brownwood to these points, a distance of 175 miles.

COTTRELL DUST PLANT STARTED

Nevada Consolidated Aims to Recover Waste

Large Saving Expected From Project in Day

Angeleno Barium Estate on Production Soon

RENO (Nev.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive) The Nevada Consolidated Copper Company has placed a Cottrell dust precipitation plant in commission at its McGill smelter and expects to recover fifteen to twenty tons of fine dust, averaging 15 per cent copper per ton, daily. This dust was formerly carried off in the smoke gushing from the roasters and was lost. Construction of the plant has been going on for a year. The unit was completed and placed in commission the 10th inst.

The Western Non-Metallics Corporation, controlled by Los Angeles and Salt Lake City capitalists, announces that steady production of barium will start shortly from its properties near Pallisade. Shipments at first will average 1500 tons monthly, with the output to be raised to 165 tons daily by next spring.

The deposit is described as being fourteen feet wide and 1300 feet long, with several adjacent orebodies indicated. The management estimates that from 170,000 to 1,000,000 tons of ore are exposed, with a strong demand prevailing for the product.

The Bovers group of cinnabar propertie in the Ivanhoe field, southeast of the gold camp of Midas, has been taken under lease and bond for $75,000 by the Newball Corporation of California, according to information reaching Reno.

A large tonnage of commercial ore is said to be exposed, and arrangements are being completed for installation of a furnace and mining equipment. Development has proceeded for several years.

A steady and increasing demand, together with higher prices, is stimulating tungsten development and production in Nevada, with many old properties being rejuvenated. Nevada-Massachusetts Company is producing around 145 tons of ore daily from its properties at Mill City, and reports recent work in the Humboldt area, including deepening of the shaft from the 500 to the 600 levels, had added approximately 65,000 tons to demonstrated reserves.

Maricopa Flat Operators Will Consider Cut

MARICOPA, Dec. 22. (Exclusive) Oil operators in the Maricopa Flat area are planning to call a meeting to discuss a program of curtailment there similar to that in force in the Southern California flush fields. Recent new wells brought in on the Flat have swelled the production to the point where handling the oil is becoming a problem.

The newest well on the Flat is the Signal Oil and Gas Company's Wallace No. 4 on Sec. 8, 11-23, which is doing 1000 barrels of clean oil daily, the gravity being 26 deg.

The new Signal well is an offset to the Birch-Royer hole, which has been doing 500 barrels daily since it came in from a depth of 2800 feet. The Signal well was completed at 2684 feet.

Rig Rising for Delano Wildcat

DELANO, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Rigging up has been started on the Max McVey wildcat project in the Jasmine district near here. The well is located on Sec. 23, 25-27, and will be drilled with a rotary outfit.

The McVey crew is the only active outfit in this vicinity at present.

NEVADA CITY MINE WORK PROGRESSING

The three-compartment shaft of the Hoge Development Company at Nevada City has reached the 300-foot level and the second stage of development will now begin. Drifts and crosscuts will be run to work the ore bodies discovered in prospecting and the underground work completed before milling facilities are provided.

RETURN ON TAILINGS OF MILL TOLD

Income From Goldfield Consolidated Dump Set at $256,000

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Manager Mark Bradshaw of Bradshaw, Inc., re-treating tailings of the dismantled Goldfield Consolidated mill at Goldfield, reports production this year approximately $256,000. The plant operated from March 15 to the 10th inst. treating from 1000 to 1150 tons of material daily. The management states all indebtedness has been paid off, and that a dividend on the common stock will probably be declared this year. Sufficient material is said to be available to assure three to four years of production.

The gold strike made recently near Manhattan by Eugene and John L. Sullivan is reported to be developing splendidly. At a depth of seventy-five feet a six-foot ledge sampling from $30 to $100 per ton is said to be exposed, with the ore body apparently extending into Mammoth Mountain. The strike was made on the Early Bird group, and near a point where miners worked in a vain quest for values in 1917. Threats of litigation are said to have caused temporary suspension of production.

With a possibility of restoring the properties to steady production, the Eastern Metals Company is arranging for extensive work on the Bluestone and Mason Valley groups near Yerington, purchased with all equipment several months ago from the Mason Valley Mines Company. It is claimed that late explorations indicate substantial deposits of commercial ore in old and new areas. The Majuba Hill copper group, near Jungo, Humboldt county, has been sold by the Mason Valley Company to Reno and Winnemucca investors, with shipments scheduled to start shortly.

Wildcat at Gould Hills Reported in Oil Showing

GOULD HILLS, Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—The Casa Mira Oil Company has encountered showings of oil and gas in its wildcat well on Sec. 20, 28-20.

Showings were encountered in the brown shale formation at 2535 feet. Casing is cemeted at 1315 feet.

Bemke & Ball's No. 1 well on the Larson lease on Sec. 12, 29-20 in this area, has temporarily suspended drilling activity while the crew is repairing equipment. The Larson well is down 2455 feet with casing set to 1347 feet.

OIL-PRODUCTION CURB DISCUSSED

Curtailment Problem Most Vital, Says Macmillan

Industry Saved From Crisis by Recent Agreement

"The most important problem confronting the oil industry at the present time, and perhaps the most difficult one of solution, is overproduction," says Herbert Macmillan, new president of the California Oil and Gas Association. "Differences of opinion may exist respecting the methods which should be adopted to bring about a curtailment of production to a point where production balances with the market, but there is no dispute of the fact that we have been and still are confronted with overproduction.

"Happily the oil producers of several fields in California recently entered into a voluntary agreement covering the production of oil and placing its regulation under the control of an umpire. These agreements have been in effect for some time and will expire about February 1, 1930, at which time undoubtedly they will be extended for another ninety-day period.

"The entering into of the agreements saved the oil industry of the United States from disaster. Since the petroleum products of California find their way through the Panama Canal to the eastern markets, where they compete with similar products from other States it can be readily seen that the industry throughout the United States is affected by production in California.

"In making these voluntary agreements the operators of California merely followed the precedent set by the operators of Texas, Oklahoma and other States where curtailment agreements have been effective for more than a year. The movement, in fact, is world wide.

"The public should know that the control of oil production is in no sense a movement to slacken competition. It is supported by the President of the United States, as well as the chief executives of the oil-producing States, and its sole object is to preserve a great industry from destruction and prevent the wasting of a product which is highly essential to the welfare of the people generally.

"While the working out of the agreements providing for the curtailment of oil production has not yet brought about the full curtailment required, we cannot expect to accomplish everything in one step, and we may expect that before long, satisfactory results will be obtained."

OIL PROSPECTING PLEAS REJECTED

Only One Permit Granted for Huntington Beach

Six Out of Twenty-four Get Half-Moon Bay Rights

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22. (AP)—Alexander R. Heron, director of the State Department of Finance, reported to Gov. Young that seventy-two out of seventy-three applications to prospect for oil and gas on State lands at Huntington Beach in Orange county were refused by the department during November.

The area, he pointed out, has been almost completely saved for future drilling operations as a result.

Only six of the twenty-four applications to prospect for oil and gas on tidelands at Half Moon Bay, in San Mateo county, were granted. Leases were made in two fields in Santa Barbara county, one at Summerland and one at Elwood field.

This action has been taken voluntarily by the operators in compliance with the national and State policy of conservation of oil and gas.

The Pickwick Corporation, organized under the laws of California in 1922, owns jointly, in equal proportions, with Southern Pacific Company and Motor Transit Corporation (Chicago) the entire capital stock of Pacific Transportation Securities, Inc., which company, in turn, controls and operates major motor transportation systems on the Pacific Coast. The Pickwick Corporation also owns 45% of Pickwick-Greyhound Lines, Inc., with Motor Transit Corporation (Chicago) owning 45% and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company 10%. These consolidated lines operate from Portland, Oregon, on the north to the Mexican border, also extending to El Paso and Salt Lake City, while a network of local feeder lines is operated throughout central and western Oregon and the State of California.

Pickwick-Greyhound Lines, Inc., acquired ownership during 1929 of transcontinental operating properties formerly owned by the following companies: Pickwick Lines, Yelloway Stages, Columbia River Gorge Motor Coach Company, certain lines in Iowa and Illinois previously owned by Motor Transit Corporation (Chicago), together with certain other smaller and connecting operations. In general, the present Pickwick-Greyhound system comprises a network of lines covering practically all of the states west of the Mississippi River as well as certain southern states. The principal operations radiate from Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha and Kansas City, and extend from these points to Portland, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, via Denver and Albuquerque, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso, Memphis, New Orleans and other important centers.

The Pickwick Corporation also owns a substantial interest (over 25%) in Southland-Greyhound Lines, Inc., which company operates extensively in the State of Texas. These operations extend from El Paso through Fort Worth, Dallas and San Antonio, thence to Houston and Galveston and east into Louisiana.

TERMINAL PROPERTIES: In addition to being a public utility holding company as above indicated, The Pickwick Corporation owns and operates valuable real estate in San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Anaheim, Phoenix and Eureka. This realty includes downtown terminal and hotel buildings conservatively valued at more than $2,300,000. In San Francisco and San Diego, the hotel portion of the company's terminals (544 hotel rooms) have been leased for long periods at satisfactory rentals. Terminal facilities are under lease for a term of 15 years to Pacific Transportation Securities, Inc., at a substantial annual revenue.

The Corporation is also engaged in the manufacture of equipment required by motor transportation systems. Through ownership of a fifty per cent interest in Pickwick Nitecoach Corp., Ltd., it is rapidly developing the "Nitecoach," through which service, similar in character to Pullman service on the railroads, is rapidly being inaugurated.

SECURITY: These Notes, in addition to being a direct obligation of The Pickwick Corporation, are collaterally secured by deposit with the Trustee of Preferred and Common stocks of Pacific Transportation Securities, Inc., Pickwick-Greyhound Lines, Inc., and Preferred Stock in Motor Transit Corporation (Chicago) having a value of more than twice the principal amount of these Notes. The valuation of the securities pledged is the same as the cash price paid for similar shares by Southern Pacific Company and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company in the acquisition of their interests in the respective companies in which they have an ownership.

There is outstanding $8,898,560 in par value of Preferred and Common Stocks of The Pickwick Corporation junior to the notes. Based upon the present market value of such shares, the equity represents a value in excess of $6,941,000. The Company has outstanding mortgage bonds due in 1937 and 1942 in the amount of $1,685,000.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of these Notes will be used to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures, to reduce existing current indebtedness and for other corporate purposes.

OPERATIONS: Based on the result of operations for the first 9 months of the current year it is estimated that the transportation units of Pacific Transportation Securities, Inc., and Pickwick-Greyhound Lines, Inc., will carry 9,000,000 passengers for the fiscal year and that the stages during this period will cover a total of 42,000,000 car miles. The Transcontinental operations are being rapidly extended with improved terminal facilities and more adequate extension of feeder lines throughout the territory traversed.

EARNINGS: For the nine months ended September 30, 1929, during a portion of which period the merger and regrouping of the operating properties was effected, net earnings before depreciation and Federal taxes amounted to $770,300, which is over 7 times interest on the company's entire funded indebtedness, including the Notes of this issue.

It is estimated that the Corporation's proportion of the 1929 income of Pacific Transportation Securities, Inc., will be at the annual rate of approximately $335,000, while that from Pickwick-Greyhound Lines, Inc., will be at a rate approximating $275,000 per annum.

Legality: All proceedings had in the issuance of these Notes will be passed upon by Messrs. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, attorneys of Los Angeles, for the underwriters, and by Warren E. Libby, Esq., counsel for the company. These Notes are being offered subject to stockholders' approval and subject to the receipt of a permit for the sale of same by the Corporation Commissioner of the State of California and to such requirements as he may make with respect to the Trust Indenture securing same.

SHIPBUILDERS TO GET APPEAL

Copies of Ferguson's Plea Broadcast in Industry

Need and Benefits of Added Construction Set Forth

President Adams Completes Twentieth World Trip

BY WALDO DRAKE

Shipbuilders of the Pacific Coast today will receive a transcript of the statement on the future of the American shipbuilding industry made by Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News (Va.) Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, before President Hoover's national business survey conference. Mr. Ferguson stressed the fact that a new shipbuilding program will stimulate the entire industrial fabric of the nation. It follows, in part:

"More than 80 per cent of the price of a ship built in the United States is paid out for labor in the shipyards and in the places where the materials for the ship are manufactured.

"Taking $1500 a year as the average wage, each million dollars invested in ships provides employment for between 500 and 600 men for a year. This employment is scattered throughout the country, less than half of it being concentrated at the shipyard.

"The shipyards of the country can handle 50 per cent more work than they are handling in 1929, without straining their facilities, providing the orders for new ships are forthcoming.

"The only way we can see to get additional ships to build is to build up a merchant marine for the foreign trade. To turn out ten ships a year for the foreign trade at an average cost of $5,000,000 will give employment to nearly 30,000 people in building the ships. . . . I can think of no better method of fostering foreign trade than to have American steamships giving a dependable service to all the seaports of the world, with the affiliations in foreign countries which will develop as a result of such service. . . .

"In carrying out the provisions of the Jones-White Act, the criterion should be what new ships can be employed profitably, rather than what new ships we would like to have flying the American flag and carrying the mails."

GLOBE-GIRDLER COVERS 525,000 MILES

Dollar Line's around-the-world steamer President Adams yesterday noon completed her twentieth consecutive circuit of the globe, having covered more than 525,000 miles of seaways since she first entered the world service at Los Angeles Harbor in January, 1923.

Prominent among her passengers for this port were United States District Judge Paul McCormick, returning home with Mrs. McCormick after four months on the United States District Court bench in New York City; Alden W. Skinner, pioneer local capitalist, returning home from Lucerne, Switzerland, for the holidays; A. D. Calhoun, oriental executive of the National City Bank of New York, to spend a fortnight here before continuing to Shanghai; H. C. Robinson, Houston lumber king, and W. A. K. Swinscow, director of the insurance department of Lloyds, of London.

Capt. W. O. Kohlmeister will take the President Adams out at noon today for the Orient after loading 2000 tons of Southland freight and embarking thirty cabin passengers for around the world.

The coming year will be a banner one for American shipping, according to the monthly survey of the General Steamship Corporation, advance copies of which were received yesterday by Capt. Harry H. Birkholm, district manager.

"As 1929 draws to a close the year appears in retrospect as one of vast disappointment in the Pacific Coast freight and charter market," says the bulletin. "There are reasons to believe that the low point of the curve has been reached, if not passed, and that 1930 will enter with greatly enhanced possibilities for improvement."

Offshore passenger business will be brisk at the port today, with eight liners arriving or sailing in widely diversified services. Among the departures will be the Panama-Pacific liner Pennsylvania, for New York; the Dollar liner President Adams, for around-the-world; the McCormick steamer West Cactus, for the South American East Coast, and the Grace liner Cacique, to the west coast. Arrivals will include the Swedish around-the-world motorliner Mirrabooka, sailing Christmas for Australia; the N.Y.K. liner Shinyo Maru, from the Orient, and the Dutch steamer Bintang, from the East Indies.

The Quaker Line steamer San Pedro goes north today, after her first visit here under her new name, having been changed from the Orleans. Two women made the intercoastal trip as passengers, Mrs. Marvin A. Tyler, wife of the manager of the Willard Hotel, Washington, and Mrs. Douglas Chefaley, wife of a Washington surgeon. Both are guests of D. W. Dawson, head of the Quaker Line.

On her maiden voyage here this week-end the Norwegian motor tankship Idon is loading refined petroleum at the Shell dock for the United Kingdom. She is owned by Alf Mohr, of Oslo, but is under ten-year charter to the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company. The British tanker Oiltrader from Lyttleton, Eng., also was here for her first time, under charter to the Shell interests.

A. Engelke, treasurer of the Hamburg-American Line, with headquarters in New York, yesterday completed a two-day survey of the port under the guidance of William P. Montague, district manager, and E. A. Winkler, Pacific Coast manager of the Hamburg-American Line. Mr. Engelke was highly optimistic over Pacific Coast conditions and said that to get the proper perspective west-coast shipping men who deplore the present situation should get a first-hand view of conditions in Europe.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22. (AP)—The new Reardon-Smith freighter Fresno City, recently launched at Sunderland, is due in this port on January 21, 1930, on her maiden voyage. Built for the fruit trade between this coast and Great Britain, via the Panama Canal, the Fresno City, a motorship, is equipped with a recently invented ventilating system for preserving dried grapes. The vessel is of 8800 gross tons, has a speed of twelve knots and will call at Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Gray's Harbor, Tacoma and Vancouver, B. C.

The Matson express liner Malolo, which recently completed a tour of the Pacific with a Chamber of Commerce delegation from this city, will go on dry dock next Friday for semiannual overhauling, painting and cleaning. The fast liner will resume the regular San Francisco-Honolulu run January 11.

The Dollar trans-Pacific liner President Jefferson, Capt. Alvin O. Lustie, has made up two days on her schedule and will reach port from the Orient tomorrow instead of on Christmas Day, her due date.

SEATTLE, Dec. 22.—Agreement between independents and the westbound conference as to rates on rough cargoes is seen as a possibility as a result of parleys which have been under way for several days.

The plan as worked out is said to comprise the formation of a conference working with the westbound organization only where rates on cargoes such as lumber, wheat, flour, spelter, pulp, salt fish and scrap metals are concerned.

The negotiations for the rate agreements were resumed recently after a previous effort to unite on rough cargo charges ended in a stalemate.

TACOMA, Dec. 22.—Two Richfield Oil tankers formed the bulk of the tonnage movement here today. The Topila left port after discharging oil at the company's local tanks, as well as several thousand gallons for use by the U.S.S. Lexington in the generation of power for the Tacoma municipal system. The Kekoskee of the same fleet followed the Topila in and is discharging 35,000 barrels of fuel oil. Both Richfield ships operated out of Long Beach.

The German carrier Witram, out of Hamburg, arrived this evening to load refined copper as return cargo. Another Sunday arrival was the Victoria Maru from the Orient, to load flour as return freight.

Strange Island Cut Off From Rest of World

LIHUE (Kaui Island) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Entirely cut off from the rest of the world is the strange little island of Niihau, just west of this island and a little over 100 miles northwest of Honolulu. It belongs in the Hawaiian group, but is owned by one man who devotes the island to stock raising.

It is an island without automobiles, wireless, dogs or jails.

Its entire population of 130 Hawaiians makes up the membership of the one church on the island. The only school has four grades, where only the rudiments are taught.

Prohibition has been in force on Niihau for the past sixty years. Tobacco smoking is prohibited by the owner.

Sunday Shows Bring Arrests

WHEELING (W. Va.) Dec. 22. (AP) Wheeling had its first Sunday picture shows in history today and twenty-two managers and employees of seven theaters were arrested.

They were taken into custody under an old law which prohibits any one from working on the Sabbath unless engaged in a necessary labor. The arrests were made on orders of Prosecutor Schiffler. Those arrested posted bond and their cases will be presented to a grand jury in February.

Motor Busses Set Travel Record

TORONTO, Dec. 22. (AP)—A report the motor busses carry many million more passengers than steam trains in the United States was made to the Society of Automotive Engineers by Frederick C. Horner of the General Motors Corporation.

He says that motor bus passengers for the five years from 1922 to 1929 numbered 1,647,000,000, against 92,826,473 passengers on steam trains.

EARLY SEAL PAYMENTS REQUESTED

Tuberculosis Association's Christmas Campaign Its Sole Revenue Source

An urgent appeal to remit for Christmas seals received is made by Miss Sidney M. Maguire, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, now conducting its annual Christmas seal campaign. Miss Maguire said that the sale of seals is the association's sole source of revenue and she asks that the public support the campaign by sending checks immediately.

Miss Maguire stated that during the next year a concerted effort will be made to reduce the ratio of tuberculosis among children of high-school age, especially among young girls who will be the mothers of the next generation. She explained that Jessamine S. Whitney, statistician of the National Tuberculosis Association, following a study of conditions throughout the United States, has shown the need of special attention to the so-called "flapper classes."

At present, only 14 per cent of active cases of tuberculosis among children are brought under systematized observation and treatment. Of these cases, 75 per cent recover and live long, useful lives. During 1930, the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association will endeavor to increase substantially the proportion of cases brought under treatment, and it is believed that work in the high schools will be the greatest contributing factor in accomplishing this result.

The association also will devote a large amount of work to the health of youthful industrial workers, bringing the greatest possible number of suspected cases into the clinics for diagnosis, and providing treatment where possible.

Those who have received Christmas seals in the mail are urged to send a remittance immediately. Those who have not may secure them by communicating with the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, 1008 Transportation Building. TRinity 6584.

LEGION TO ENTERTAIN DISABLED

Hospital Christmas Visits, Gifts and Radio Program on Day's Schedule

Two thousand sick and disabled veterans will be remembered by the American Legion and its auxiliary this Christmas. Every man in the government hospitals at San Fernando and Sawtelle will be visited by special committees appointed by County Commander C. C. McGonegal, it was announced yesterday at Legion headquarters.

One month before Christmas, each year, a survey is made of the government and private hospitals and sanatoriums and every veteran is requested to name the kind of present he wants and the gift is delivered to him on Christmas morning.

In addition to taking care of certain cases assigned to them, the auxiliary also attends to the decorating of the wards. Every hospital is decorated with holly berries and trees, placed where the bedridden patients can enjoy them.

This year in addition to the regular program of the Legion a special radio program will be broadcast from station KMIC, at Inglewood for each government hospital to receive.

The program is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. and last until 10. Some of the most noted radio artists of Southern California have volunteered their services for the occasion and the hour will be devoted to request numbers received from bedridden patients and to a special Christmas program which will conclude the performance. Artists were selected from those who offered their services for their ability to entertain the soldiers.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR R. GUERRERO
Encargado de la Seccion Española de Este Diario

Hemos dicho que en toda la América española, salvo en Méjico, se usa preposicionalmente el adverbio "donde", con significación análoga al "chez" francés, pero más extensa aún: "Voy donde el notario", "Vamos donde el Teatro Biltmore". Discurriendo sobre este punto, nos dice el señor Cuervo lo siguiente en sus Apuntaciones Críticas:

"Ninguno de los criados entraban DONDE su señora, y solas las dos dueñas y la doncella la servían" (Cervantes, "La Ilustre fregona", fol. 182: Madrid, 1613). De las ediciones algo viejas que tenemos a la mano, la de Bruselas, 1625, reproduce fielmente el texto original (p. 400); la de Madrid, 1655, con rigor gramatical corrige el "entraban" y añade "estaba" después del "donde" (fol. 217). Dejado aparte lo primero, es claro que hubo alguien a quien disonase el uso elíptico de "donde" y queda en pie la cuestión de si Cervantes pudo escribir naturalmente aquella frase. No habiendo hallado otros ejemplos parecidos en libros de ese tiempo, suponemos que si aquel la escribió, hubo de hacerlo como cosa individual, como figura que a cualquiera puede ocurrirle, sin que sea de uso común. Ahora, que cualquier castellano ha podido usar una frase así, lo prueban las "Ordenanzas de los reales ejércitos", que dicen en el No. 19, tit. I, trat. III: "Cuando los infantes se hallasen DONDE Nos, la Reina, Príncipe o Princesa de Asturias, y pasasen por nuestras Tropas formadas o apostadas de guardia, se les tocará solamente la llamada con armas al hombro" (tomo I, p. 282: Madrid, 1815).

El germen, pues, del uso preposicional de "donde", que consiste en la elipsis de "estar", "hallarse", apunta en la lengua literaria. Si hemos de creer a Baralt, entre la gente vulgar de Castilla ha llegado a su completo desarrollo; pero sin duda que donde más arraigado está es en la región del N.O. de la Península, así en la provincia de León, como en Galicia. No es pues extraño que se halle en autores originarios de allí: "Voime DONDE los Resendes", dice doña Emilia Pardo Bazán en "La mayorazga de Bouzas". En carta del marqués de Molins, citada por Mesonero ("Memorias de un setentón", tomo I, p. 94), en el cual refiere un caso acontecido en Albacete, lugar nativo del primero, se lee: "Como han de prodigársele iguales cuidados, y . . . conviene se aloje cerca de Palacio, la pondremos DONDE esa de que ustedes hablan". ¿Será provincialismo? Tan humildes orígenes han sido cual el grano de mostaza, pues hoy se extiende en gran parte de América como preposición legítima, sin rastro de elipsis: "Estuvo donde mí", "Voy donde mi tío", "Salió de donde su amiga", etc. Tiene, además, aplicación más extensa que el francés "chez", pues se aplica aun en casos en que se denota la persona con prescindencia de la casa o local: "Dejad que los niños vengan DONDE mí". La palabra es pues socorridísima, y pretender abolirla sería para muchos americanos llegarles a las telas del corazón. Ni cabe admitir que sea neológica, supuesto que es igualmente de uso diario entre los judíos españoles, y ellos no pudieron aprenderla sino en España, antes de su expulsión (1492).

Tampoco es caso sintáctico aislado, una vez que "cuando" se presta y se ha prestado a igual transformación, mediante una elipsis análoga: "cuando el desafío", "cuando su casamiento".

De lo dicho resulta que este empleo de "donde" no es de las cosas que afrentan; no obstante, en obsequio de las personas concienzudas, diremos cómo puede reemplazarse en la lengua literaria:

Si se trata de un individuo que está en su casa, sigue diciendo el señor Cuervo, nada más fácil que expresar esto, diciendo, por ejemplo, "estuvo en casa de fulano", "voy a casa de zutano", "vengo de casa de mengano", "pasé por casa de citano", etc.; e igualmente: "compré esto en la tienda o almacén de A"; "se firmó la escritura en la oficina de B", etc. Ejemplos:

"Mi marido acudió en casa de un barbero" (Cervantes, "Quij.", pte. II, cap. 48); "Desde la tienda de don Agustín me fui a casa de la madrina y me olvidé de pasar a la del escribano" (Hartzenbusch, "La visionaria", acto II, esc. I); "Apenas salió usted de casa de la doña Gertrudis, cuando ocurrió . . . ¿qué sé yo qué me dijo el criado?" (Id., "La coja y el encogido", acto III, esc. II); "De casa del abogado — A cas del procurador" (Castillejo, "Rimas", lib. III, "Diálogo y discurso de la vida de corte"). Este último ejemplo nos ofrece la locución "a cas de" ("en cas de", "de cas de"), frecuente en obras literarias antiguas y usada ahora popular y familiarmente en España y en varias partes de América: "Toda, señor, esta gente — De cas de vuesa merced — Se queja terriblemente — De la hambre y de la sed" (Castillejo, "ubi supra"); "Cuando llegué a la posada, — Ya él estaba en cas de Judas" (Tirso, "La villana de Vallecas", acto I, esc. X).

Es notable la omisión de la preposición delante o después de "casa", sigue diciendo el señor Cuervo, por cuanto muestra que esta palabra se halla en un estado de transición, y que puede llegar a ser preposición, lo mismo que sucedió con la voz francesa cognada "chez": "Pero dime: ¿dónde bueno — Va la música esta noche? — Casa de aquel caballero — Tan rico de Andalucía" (Martínez de la Rosa, "La niña en casa", acto I, esc. II); "Estará de vuelta luego: — Fue casa de unas amigas (Id., "Ib."); "En toda España se usa 'en ca fulano'" (Menén-

ACTION ON BROOKS IN PROSPECT

Council Scheduled to Get Report From Committee at Meeting Today

The Water and Power Committee of the City Council is scheduled this morning to submit a report concerning the confirmation or rejection of Mayor Porter's nomination of Frank H. Brooks as a member of the Water and Power Commission.

The committee has had this nomination in its files for several weeks and twice has been granted extensions of time. The members of the committee are Councilmen Jacobson, chairman; Williams and Cooke. According to report, the committee will propose that the confirmation be refused, although this is by no means certain in spite of the concerted and persistent effort to interfere with the Council's action by a noisy minority.

Mr. Brooks has a long and distinguished local record as a civic worker, in connection with his service for the Chamber of Commerce and as president of the Realty Board. A boisterous campaign has been directed against members of the Council, as well as the Mayor, for the purpose of defeating the confirmation of Brooks.

Numerous organizations and individuals have written to the Council in Brooks's defense, urging that he be placed on the commission. The latest communications, approving the nomination, are from the Sunshine Water Company and the Loftus Land Company. These were received last Saturday.

Rogers Praised for Beach Groins

Urging that the County Board of Supervisors follow the example of Will Rogers, humorist, and build groins on the county-owned beach northwest of Santa Monica, the Santa Monica Canyon Chamber of Commerce has addressed a communication to the board.

The letter states that the county beach is being denuded of sand by wave action and the exposed shingle makes the beach dangerous to bathers. As an example, the adjoining beach owned by Rogers is pointed out, with the explanation that it is covered with nice soft sand, as a result of groins that Rogers has installed.

AUTO ACCIDENTS KILL SEVEN MEN

More Than Dozen Injured; Two May Die

Former Grid Star Held in Death of Sailors

Number of Drivers Seized on Hit-and-Run Charge

Seven men were killed, more than a dozen persons were injured, two probably fatally, and a number of others, including a former football star, were booked on charges of hit-and-run driving, suspicion of manslaughter and driving while intoxicated, as the result of automobile accidents in and about the city yesterday and late Saturday night, a police check-up of traffic mishaps revealed.

The dead are: R. E. Hamilton, 23 years of age, and J. P. Simpson, 24, both sailors of the U.S.S. West Virginia; Elmer G. Martin, 25, of 3916 Sunset Road, Montrose; Joseph Storey of Redlands, S. Braudy of 835 Clanton avenue; C. Hellyer, 55, 1535 Anderson avenue, and Leo J. Gallagher, of New York, purser aboard steamer Pennsylvania.

EX-FOOTBALL PLAYER

Hamilton and Simpson were injured fatally when they were struck by an automobile while they were crossing the fifty-foot wide East Second-street bridge, Long Beach, on a motorcycle. The car, according to police, was driven by Richard E. Blewett of 1241 West Forty-second street, Los Angeles, former star quarterback of the University of California. With him was his brother, John H. Blewett of 6569 La Mirada avenue, Hollywood, who sustained minor hurts. Both were held pending investigation of the accident.

Detective Sergeant Stuart of Long Beach reported witnesses told him the Blewetts' car swerved in front of the tandem motorcycle unexpectedly when midway across the bridge, the rear part of the machine knocking the sailors from their seats. Hamilton and Simpson were taken to the Community Hospital, Long Beach, where they died at dawn.

AUTO STRIKES FENCE

Martin was killed when the automobile he was driving turned over after striking a fence on a curve on Laurel Canyon Road near Ventura Boulevard. Miss Clarice Hester of 332 North Orange street, Glendale who was riding with Martin escaped with minor injuries. Investigating officers said they believe Martin was speeding and hit the fence in attempting to negotiate the turn in the road.

Another capsizing caused the death of Storey. It occurred about 3 a.m. on Valley Boulevard at a point west of Pomona, when Storey lost control of the machine and allowed it to skid into a ditch. In the car with Storey were H. F. Fair, Edward Hinchman and F. Stewart, all of Redlands. They were held by Pomona police on charges of drunkenness.

Henry R. Valenzuela, 32, of 815 West Thirty-fourth street, identified according to police, as the driver of the car which fatally injured S. Braudy of 835 Clanton avenue late Saturday night, was arrested at his home and held on suspicion of manslaughter.

COLLISION FATAL

Walter J. Kaufman, 29, of 2237 Trinity street, Henry H. Saunders, 29, of 716 Tula Rosa Drive, and Edward M. Ronan, 32, of 1422 West Thirtieth street, were booked for driving while intoxicated. Kaufman, police stated, drove on the wrong side of the street at Ninth street and Broadway. Saunders, according to Officers Toledo and Carothers, drove his car into two machines parked at Ninth and Hoover streets. Ronan, according to the report of Officers Pealer and Kimberly, was chased and captured by them after a citizen, E. N. Faith of 4817 South Gramercy Place had leaped on Ronan's car and sought to stop him. Ronan's machine, it was stated, had struck V. E. Prothero of 127 West Twenty-seventh street at Jefferson and Figueroa streets. When he did not stop, Faith jumped on the running-board and attempted to halt him. Hanging on to the side of the car as it sped forty miles an hour south on Figueroa street, according to the officers, Faith yelled to the officers.

CHORAL ARMY MOBILIZING

Twenty-five Thousand Carol Singers Expected to Join in Christmas Eve Melody Drive

Twenty-five thousand carol singers, members of the wandering bands of minstrels who are to scatter Yuletide songs throughout Los Angeles and surrounding cities tomorrow evening, are expected to be enrolled by tonight, according to Glenn M. Tindall, playgrounds music supervisor and Hollywood Bowl manager. He is directing this movement for the Chamber of Commerce and Playground and Recreation Department.

Singers have been drawn from churches, parent-teacher groups, playgrounds, schools, college glee clubs and civic organizations for the job of spreading Christmas music through Southern California as part of the "Christmas out-of-doors" plan of the Chamber of Commerce. Practically every neighborhood in the city will be visited by these carolers, divided into groups of thirty to forty voices.

Today also will witness the conclusion of a series of more than fifty Yuletide plays and operettas at municipal playgrounds, with the holding of fourteen performances in the afternoon and evening. Programs will be staged this afternoon at Banning, Griffith, Pecan, Sawtelle, Venice, Vineyard and Whittier playgrounds. Evening presentations are scheduled for Downey, Echo, Harvard, North Hollywood, Ross

Delay Plea for Street Ignored

In spite of a number of requests for a delay of two years, the City Council has adopted a recommendation of the Public Works Committee directing City Engineer Shaw to proceed with plans for the improvement of Burbank Boulevard between Sepulveda Boulevard and Ventura Boulevard.

The report points out that the initial and preliminary costs for this project amount to $3522, which would be lost to the property owners if the job were abandoned. The petitions for delay, it was stated, may be considered at a later date.

CITY WARNS OF PERIL IN GAS LEAKS

Danger of Asphyxiation Lurks in Use of Odorless Fuel for Heating Homes

Warning to the public against leaky gas fixture, which annually cause a number of cases of asphyxiation and gas-poisoning at this period of the year when artificial heat is used in homes, has been issued by the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation, at the suggestion of W. J. Walters, assistant engineer of the department.

Walters points out that ventilation in homes is necessary both to sustain health and life and to complete the combustion of gas. Due to the fact that natural gas is odorless, Walters states, the public should be exceedingly careful.

He said that the board's gas chemist, together with gas companies, is making extensive study and experiments to odorize commercial gas served in Los Angeles in order that leakages might be more easily detected. Several elements have been tried out but to date no definite odorizer has been derived, according to Walters, in a report to the board.

He said that in localities where such experiments have been made there has developed two differences of opinion, some people preferring odorless gas with the possibility of no detection, while others favor odorized gas so that there is less possibility of asphyxiation and explosion.

The luncheon is an annual event and is thrown open to the public as well as the chamber membership.

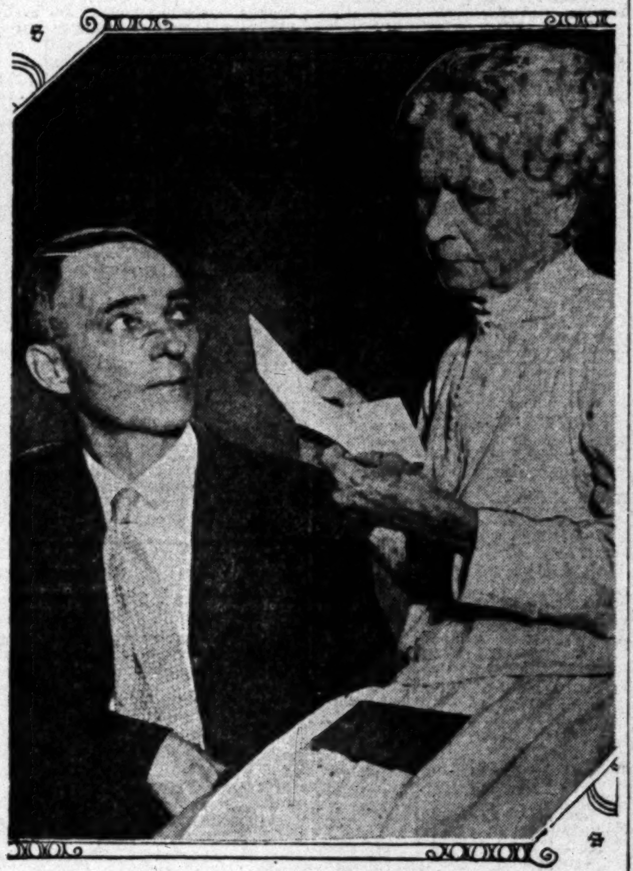
Census Director Will Pay Visit to Los Angeles

Director William M. Steuart, in charge of the Census Bureau, Department of Commerce, will visit this city in a few weeks, according to word received yesterday by Manager Arnoll of the Chamber of Commerce.

In a wire to Mr. Arnoll, the Chamber's manager of the Washington office, Ivan E. Goodner, stated that he was advised by Director Steuart that a trip to Los Angeles will be necessary in order that he may give plans for the count here his personal attention. The date of his probable arrival was not given, Arnoll stating that the Chamber will be advised as to the time he is expected to be in the city.

MAIL SIXTY-SEVEN YEARS LATE

War Letter Reaches Huntington Park



Widow Reads "Boy in Gray's" Message

Mrs. M. A. Lilly reads to her son Herbert of Huntington Park letter just received written by her husband in military prison camp during Civil War.

SIXTY-SEVEN years ago Thomas Lilly, youthful member of Breckenridge's Confederate Brigade, wrote a letter to his friend, Jasper Anderson, Company C, Fifth Kentucky Volunteers. Lilly was a prisoner of war in Camp Chase, Columbus, O.

The writer has been dead fifty years and the man to whom the letter was written died nearly twenty years ago, but the letter was delivered in Huntington Park last week.

Sixty-seven years on the way—the ink faded—the tales of war told of in the letter dimmed to memory and the people concerned mingled with the dust of the country they fought for an age ago—and just delivered.

A bag of mail addressed to relatives of Confederate prisoners at Camp Chase sixty-seven years ago, and for some unknown reason never sent, was found a few weeks ago at Cleveland.

A relative of Thomas Lilly, at Morgantown, Ky., reading of the find in the newspapers, recognized the name and through the efforts of the Daughters of the Confederacy the letter was forwarded to the widow of Lilly, who lives with her son, Herbert G. Lilly, 2634 Olive street, Huntington Park.

The letter reads as follows:

"Camp Chase, April 21, 1862. Dear Jap I am a long way from home but I am in good health at present and i hope this may find you the same i got a letter from home today and all of your folks is well. Jap i am treated well here as i could be expected. I hope you did not get hurt in the fight our boys lately had. i was in Louisville four months in the prison i hope to get out in a few days now.

"Jap i would give anything to see you. i thought you was at Island no ten but it so happens you were not. You don't know what pleasure to find you was not Jap. How have you bin since i left you? you would not know me now if you could see me. give my best to all tell them i heard that Billy Hagen was ded. is

Old-timer Returning to Los Angeles After Three Decades, Finds Very Hills of Youthful Memory Gone and Most of Friends in Graveyard

BY ROBERT HARRIS

I am Rip Van Winkle, latest edition. It is now thirty-two years since I left Los Angeles to go to Alaska with the mob that yielded to the lure of gold and love of adventure in '98.

For the first time I know how the poet Gray felt when he went into a country graveyard and produced his immortal Elegy, for after thirty-two years I seek in vain for old friends and familiar landmarks.

Rip Van Winkle knew the old place when he came down from the hills because there were a few solid things that time and progress could not efface. I knew I was in Los Angeles as soon as I found The Times Building. I remember well when it was first built and the graded part of Broadway ended right out in front of the new building against a high bank of clay and country rock. Main and Spring streets were then the principal business thoroughfares and the very heart of things centered around the junction where the old clothing store of Jacoby Brothers stood.

LANDMARK GONE

To make sure however, I glanced up to catch a glimpse of the County Courthouse on the hillside up First street. It was gone and I felt a pang of loneliness, for I helped pay taxes to build it nearly fifty years ago and I remembered that when it cost around a million dollars instead of half that sum to finish it several County Supervisors were retired from further service by the voting taxpayers.

Not until then did I miss the old cable car that was the marvel of the citizens of Los Angeles when it ran from Main street over the hills and wound its way far out into the unsettled country toward the ocean. All the rest of the city was served with horse-drawn cars lighted with coal-oil lamps as soon as dark came. It took an hour to ride to Boyle Heights.

I sorely missed the cable cars and turned my steps down to where the old Pico House—once the pride of the town, because it was the largest building here—stood. There it stands yet and what a flood of memories it brought surging back.

MEMORIES OF PICO

Old Pio Pico, last Mexican Governor of California! By some miracle he had salvaged what was then a fortune from the regime of indolent splendor he was head of and that fortune became the game for a happy hunting party of promoters He was induced to build the structure and, like the county Courthouse, the profit to the American promoters lay in the extra cost he had to take care of before the building was finished.

The old man kept most of his money in his home and the payments for the Pico House were made in Mexican silver dollars taken from their hiding place as the bills came due. In later years, when he had retired to his ranch below Whittier, I sold him a mowing machine and when I drove out to collect he paid me $100 in silver, and as it passed for only 50 cents on the dollar I had to haul back a load of 200 round Mexican dollars in a canvas sack.

BAREFOOT-BOY STUFF

When I was a small boy fifty years ago, I attended my first school in Los Angeles. It was a frame structure sitting on the hill north of the Plaza and faced Alameda street. I lived in Sonoratown's

MISSING MAN RULED DEAD SECOND TIME

Federal Judge Agrees With Superior Court So Widow Gets Insurance

If William John Kaiser is alive, he is the only one who knows it, and legally he is not alive. For the second time Kaiser has been declared dead, the last ruling to this effect being made by United States District Judge Henning. He first was declared legally dead on July 6, 1927, by the Superior Court of this State.

The latest "death" of Kaiser came in the case of his widow, Mrs. Prudencia Byrd-Kaiser, who sued the United States government for $5000 war risk insurance, asserting her husband has not been seen alive for more than seven years.

As the result of the ruling of Judge Henning, Mrs. Byrd-Kaiser will receive $5000 in insurance from the government. It was contended by Leo D. Daze, her attorney, that Kaiser was last seen alive in December, 1919, that he was a soldier in France and his widow was entitled to insurance. The ruling of the court reads:

"I find that the plaintiff is entitled to a judgment as follows:

"(1.) The insured (Kaiser) died on or about January 1, 1927.

"(2.) That the plaintiff recover costs as provided by law, including attorney's fees, as provided for by the World War Veterans' Act."

As the result of the decision of the court, Mrs. Byrd-Kaiser will receive $5000, together with interest from the date fixed as that of the death of her husband.

WOMAN DIES OF POISONING

Mrs. Ida Weisman, 38 years of age, of 2119½ East First street, died late Saturday night at General Hospital where she was undergoing treatment for poisoning, self-administered, according to a police report. The victim was found unconscious in her home the 19th inst. by her husband, who told police she had swallowed poison. She had been despondent for a number of months Weisman said, and had threatened to commit suicide on several occasions. The body was removed to the County Morgue.

JUDGE ASSAILS HOME INVASION

McCormick, Back From East, Hits Abuse by Officers

Third-Degree Methods of Day Declared Wrong

Hoover Commission's Work to Present Discussed

U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE McCORMICK

Invasion and search of private dwellings without warrant constitute one of the most serious evils of present-day law enforcement, United States District Judge McCormick of Los Angeles said yesterday on his return here from New York aboard the Dollar liner President Adams. It is a gross misuse and denial of the constitutional rights of citizens, he said, and a menace to life and liberty.

"A man's home is his castle," he quoted, "and the practice of entering it, in the cause of prohibition enforcement, without recourse to legal procedure, should be abolished. Third-degree methods, as indulged in today, are wrong."

Judge McCormick, long identified with the Superior and Federal court benches here, returned after four months spent in the East as a member, appointed by President Hoover, of the National Commission of Law Enforcement and Observance. The commission met at intervals in Washington.

During periods of commission inactivity Judge McCormick sat in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York In the latter capacity he achieved national prominence by his wholesale padlocking of metropolitan night clubs found guilty of violating the Volstead Act.

The national commission's investigation of liquor-law violation, Judge McCormick stated, is the only wholly impartial inquiry of its kind ever conducted. To date, he said, it has resulted in the conclusion that two major problems need immediate settlement. One is the solution of prohibition enforcement; the other is the removal of "governmental lawlessness" itself and the resultant guarantee of constitutional rights to citizens.

WORK WELL OUTLINED

The work of the commission has been well outlined, the jurist declared, and the various matters within its province have been assigned to investigating committees for inquiry and report. The committee, which consists of ten men and one woman. Mrs. Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe College, and is headed by George W. Wickersham, former Attorney-General, is slated to convene next in the spring of 1930.

Speaking not in behalf of the commission as an official body, but as an individual, Judge McCormick expressed the opinion that fanaticism, as it exists today, is one of the worst enemies of prohibition. The jurist mentioned no names, but explained that the curse is evident in the ranks of both wets and drys.

METHODS ANTIQUATED

The evils of governmental procedure also were scored by Judge McCormick. The machinery of the law, he said, is very antiquated and needs more up-to-date manipulation. Especially in Los Angeles, he said, has it outgrown itself. The city has progressed so rapidly, he pointed out, that the courts have become lax in according the average prisoner his lawful rights.

Prohibition's problems here, however, are mild, Judge McCormick said, when compared to other major cities of the country. They received no more leniency at his hands in New York, he said, than they would have received in Los Angeles, because he was acting as a Federal judge. Therefore, he approved the plentiful padlock proceedings that brought him nation-wide notice as a "hard-boiled" judge.

Judge McCormick was accompanied on his arrival by Mrs. McCormick, with whom he spent part of a day as guest of President Hoover at the White House. He quoted the Chief Executive as being optimistic over the business outlook, and said he deplored the recent Wall street debacle, although adding that it was needed sorely as a means of making the country "go to work."

CHEST HANGS UP STOCKING

Charity Organization Renews Appeal to Generous to Fan Christmas Glow With Gifts

Continuing a special pre-Christmas appeal for funds begun yesterday, J. A. H. Kerr, chairman of the 1929 Community Chest campaign, asks that all generous citizens, whether they have or have not previously contributed to the Chest fund, make the Community Chest a Christmas present today.

"It's the many thousands of poor, sick, old and orphaned people cared for during the year by the Chest's 131 charity and welfare agencies who will bless you," Mr. Kerr stated, "if you make a real gift, one that represents a sacrifice, in order to help them.

"Furthermore, in addition to helping the thousands who are less fortunate, you will be helping yourselves to feel much better. This is a bona-fide prescription for curing any feeling that the Christmas season is, after all, just a gift-exchanging period. You can recapture the true meaning of Christmas in this simple way.

"Just fill out the coupon and mail it to the Community Chest, 216 Chamber of Commerce Building, along with an amount that represents as much of a sacrifice as the widow's mite represented A light and happy heart will result."

GENERALLY speaking, a man who would shoot a burro would shoot Santa Claus. But a man who would shoot a prospector's tame burro would shoot little children waiting for Santa Claus.

Such, however, is being done. Philip Johnston, the young engineer who was raised with the Navajos, has just come in from the open spaces. He reports that assassins have been shooting burros to grind up into sausage meat to feed to fox farms. They assert that the burros are part of a wild herd; but the prospectors say they have been killing off the trained pack animals. To get near enough to a wild burro to shoot him is like trying to sneak up on a mosquito.

FOOTBALL UNFAIRNESS

Carnegie Tech made a brave football fight against three U.S.C. teams. They did pretty well against the first one and a half.

It obviously is unfair to invite visiting college teams to come out here to meet an army. There were enough players sitting on the U.S.C. bench to have smothered an invasion.

It would be a graceful exhibition of sportsmanship if the U.S.C. managers would voluntarily limit their team on New Year's to the exact number of players brought out here by Pittsburgh.

DINNER GUESTS

An Englishman, in a Paris court, has been awarded damages against an invited guest who accepted and then failed to show up.

If this principle of law ever gets going in Hollywood, there will be fortunes changing hands. I know of one forlorn dinner to which some fifty invitations had been sent—and fifty acceptances recorded. On the night of the dinner the host and wife and one guest sat down at the long and beautifully decorated table.

INCOME TAX

It will help some to have the income tax reduced; but it would be of still greater help if the meek and humble taxpayer were not always put in the light of a criminal caught in the act of climbing into a bank vault.

Of all the pestiferous, annoying and objectionable duties that fall to the lot af any citizen, the payment of income taxes is the worst.

Any other kind of a bill is presented; you pay and get a receipt, and that is the end of it. An income tax hangs over your head like a bad conscience.

UNEASY STOMACHS

As a tip for the unemployed and ambitious, I hasten to present this bulletin; that cooks for yachting parties are in furious demand. And the pay is regal and astounding. At the rate paid you cook a couple of meals and retire for life to cut your coupons. The difficulty seems to be that the little Filipino boys who do most of the cooking for the Hollywood mansions do not have the kind of tummies that can stand the rolling of the bounding billows.

INNOCENT CHICAGO

Chief Vollmer, professor of the school of crime investigation at the University of Chicago, has discovered that Chicago has less crime than any other large city. If he can find that out, there are no other secrets of life that could baffle him.

ROBBERIES DROP OVER WEEK-END

Only Eight Hold-ups Occur, Police Report

Drives on Underworld Last Week Credited

Two Suspects Caught in Less Than Ten Minutes

Robberies decreased over the week-end, police report, only eight hold-ups being reported since Saturday noon, while Hollywood officers captured two robbery suspects and recovered money and an automobile taken in a hold-up within ten minutes after it took place. Police officials credit sweeping drives throughout the past week on underworld characters and the operation of motor patrols twenty-four hours a day as the cause of the marked decrease in robberies.

Joseph E. Murphy, 24 years of age, and Robert Harvey, 27, both of 241 South Main street, were arrested early yesterday, ten minutes after they are asserted to have robbed Fred Von Slomski, 472 North Alvarado street, of $20 and a taxicab in front of 840 North Coronado street.

IDENTIFIED BY VICTIM

As the suspects drove away, another taxicab driver, D. F. De Chaine, followed the stolen cab and at Hollywood Boulevard and Brokaw Place, picked up Officer Duenow, who arrested the victims after a short chase. Duenow reported that the men admitted the robbery and were identified at the Hollywood station by the victim, Von Slomski. The men are held on charges of robbery and grand theft, automobile.

After eating a large meal two bandits early yesterday morning tied the hands and feet of Charles L. White, night manager of the Preston Cafe, 4204 Melrose avenue, and rifled the cash register of $17, police report. The pair escaped in a taxi which one of the men called while his companion was robbing the cafe. The driver reported to police that the men left the cab at Sixth street and Broadway.

OIL STATION HELD UP

S. E. Manahan, operator of a service station at 1155 North Main street, was robbed of $22 by two men who entered the station under pretense of using the telephone. When Manahan turned his back to the men they thrust revolvers against him and forced him to empty the contents of the cash register into a handkerchief.

Two milk-truck drivers fell victims to a lone bandit early yesterday when the robber obtained $18 from R. Cordry, 1259 West Sixty-second street, at Thirty-sixth street and Denker avenue, and a few minutes later L. Cannon, 2438½ Folsom street, was robbed of $14 in front of 941 East Fortieth street. In both instances, the victims reported that the man robbed them as they were making deliveries to homes.

NEGROES ROB HIM

Luther Thomas, 821 Pacific avenue, San Pedro, reported to police yesterday that two men and a woman, all negroes, forced him to drive his car into the curbing at Second and Mesa streets, San Pedro, where they robbed him of $9.

C. P. Swanson of 7927½ Norton avenue, was robbed of $30 in cash and a gold watch late Saturday night by an armed bandit who stepped on the running board of the victim's automobile at Hollywood Boulevard and Sycamore avenue. Forcing the driver to proceed to Outpost, where the robbery took place; the man then demanded to be returned to the intersection where he boarded Swanson's machine, according to the police report.

"Breakfast-time bandits" held up Paul D. Litts in the Hertz Drive Yourself rental shop at 815 South Grand avenue at 8 a.m. yesterday and robbed him of $10 and the cash register of $105. The bandits, two in number, left his watch when he told them it is a keep sake.

FLAMES CAUSE LONG LEAP

Frightened when he awoke and found his bedding in flames, Charles Byers of 1170 Belleview avenue, early yesterday jumped from the third story of an apartment-house to the pavement below where Police Officers Nolton and Emery found him a few minutes later in a semiconscious condition. Flames were pouring from the apartment he had left.

While the fire department quelled the blaze. Byers was removed to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital where police surgeons found that he had suffered a broken left hip, fractured left leg, fractured right shoulder and possible internal injuries.

Byers told police he fell asleep while smoking a cigarette and awoke to find himself surrounded by fire. He leaped from the bed to the window and then out.

WHAT THE POLICE ARE DOING

(For the purpose of acquainting Los Angeles citizens with the practical working of the city police department, and the results of police activities here. The Times is printing herewith the third of a short series of articles dealing with the subject.)

Murder will out, they say. Meaning, perhaps, that the perpetrators of this most serious of crimes eventually will find themselves ensnared in a net of accusatory circumstances woven by guilty consciences. That is a theory. As a matter of fact, the daily and monthly reports of the police homicide detail disclose that it requires a great deal of hard labor and intelligent investigation to solve some of the murders which have occurred here in the last five months. The percentage of murderers who walk in and confess is exceedingly small.

Sashweight Used in Slaying

Of all the special squads in the central detective bureau the homicide detail is engaged in the most interesting and, at the same time, difficult police work. Outside of the recent brand of bootlegging gangster killings the majority of murders are the result of the individual actions of one or two particular persons and are not, like robberies and burglaries, due to diversified conditions affecting the known but not yet apprehended, the work of this squad is not so closely aligned with the other details.

TWENTY-EIGHT MURDERS

Between July 1, last, and the 1st inst., the records disclose twenty-eight murders in the city. Of this number, six remain unsolved and in four cases the guilty persons are known but not yet apprehended, the reports show.

The squad is in command of Captain of Detectives E. Ray Cato and has a personnel of nine detective lieutenants and six detective students. Several of the lieutenants have been on the squad for more than ten years. It also includes the missing persons bureau in charge of Detective Lieutenant Allen. Allen has one man to aid him in this work.

If a visitor to the squad room expects to find magnifying glasses in neat rows, microscopes, test tubes and Bunsen burners on a chemist's table and cupboards full of wigs, false mustaches and meerschaum pipes, he will be a disappointed. The furnishings consist simply of two desks, a filing cabinet, a typewriter and half a dozen chairs. The only window is a skylight opening on a roof, which leaks when it rains.

DETECTIVES BUSY

So much for the local color. The question to be answered is what do these "murder detectives" do with all their time. The monthly reports show that outside of the investigations of the twenty-eight murders, the members made 2990 calls, 2850 investigations, spent 506 hours in court on duty and 154 off duty, and attended fifty-five inquests. Of the number of investigations, 117 were of accidents in which persons were killed, 110 suicides, 249 attempted suicides, and sixty cases in which persons were assaulted with deadly weapons.

The missing persons detail investigated circumstances surrounding the disappearance of 1056 persons and, as a result found 374 of them. Incidentally, the entire squad reports the recovery of $2050 worth of stolen property, and made 369 arrests.

Besides the above duties members of the homicide squad investigate all attacks on women and children. Of the arrests 145 were for felonies, sixty-four for misdemeanors and 160 on miscellaneous charges.

They followed and effected the capture of the suspect.

Hellyer, a manufacturer, was killed and Frank Bristol of 1552 West Pico street and his wife, Florence, were both seriously injured when they were struck by a car said to have been driven by Charles E. Bowman, 44, of 917 South Broadway, as the three persons were crossing Pico street at Toberman street. Bowman was arrested by Officers Morrison and McCollum on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and suspicion of manslaughter.

Gallagher was instantly killed in Long Beach last night when a machine he was driving collided with a West Side Transit Company bus at Fourth street and Magnolia avenue.

Gallagher, who is well known among shipping men having been purser on the Manchuria prior to his present position, was pinned beneath the machine and was dead when take from the wreckage. The body is at the Cleveland mortuary parlors. The bus was driven by C. L. Lovebaugh, 6138 Lemon avenue.

MAN AND DAUGHTER HURT

In a collision between two automobiles at Sixth and Carondelet streets, J. W. Thompson and his 5-year-old daughter of 2117 Redondo Boulevard, Torrance, were painfully injured. The driver of the other car, according to police, was Miss Mildred Hurd of 1336 South Bonnie Brae street, who was not reported injured.

Mrs. Margaret Morelli, 35, of 938 North Western avenue and F. L. Scott, 60, of 2802 West Eighth street received severe head injuries in a crash between the automobile in which they were riding and a Los Angeles street railway car at Seventh street and Westmoreland avenue. H. A. McConnell, 48, of 938 North Western avenue, driver of the automobile, according to a police report, was slightly hurt.

Following an accident at Fourteenth and Bonnie Brae streets, in which his automobile is said to have crashed into one driven by George Pederson of 537 West Alexandria street, Glendale, William McCarty, 25, of 1801 South Bonnie Brae street, was chased and captured by two citizens. The latter, Cecil B. Elworthy of 631 South Bonnie Brae street, and D. A. Dempster of 341 South Vermont avenue, turned McCarty over to police, who booked him for failing to stop after an accident. Pederson was reported slightly hurt.

SPEEDER CAPTURED

Forced to drive their police car sixty-five miles an hour to overtake Earl Jones of 730 East Twenty-fifth street, according to their report, Officer Lagerquist and Sergt. Lawrence arrested Jones for reckless driving. The officers stated they chased Jones from Twenty-second and Hoover streets to Twenty-third street and Union avenue, where a storm drain forced him to slow down.

Failing to stop after his car had knocked Officer John Gee of the Pasadena police department from his motorcycle at First and Hill streets, according to detectives, Lawrence J. McNee, 37, of 118 Schuler street, Anaheim, was run down by two detective witnesses of the accident and held for failing to stop after an accident.

Reported driving his car in a zigzag fashion at Ninth and Figueroa streets, George W. Pancoast, 36, of 1047 Arapahoe street, was held for driving while intoxicated.

Walter Richards, 30, a plasterer, of 1613 Guardia street, probably was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when his automobile stalled and rolled down the precipitous slope of the hill at the south end of Indiana avenue in Pasadena.

The victim's half-brother, Stanley Lyons, witnessed the accident which resulted from Richard's desire to test the power of his old car before trading it for a new machine. Lyons told the police that failing to dissuade Richards from attempting to drive up the 30 per cent grade, he jumped out and watched the trial run from the bottom of the hill.

As the machine roared past the halfway point, the engine suddenly went dead. Richards was seen to make a futile effort to stop with his emergency brake, but the car slipped backward, turned end over end and spun like a top to the bottom of the hill where it was demolished.

The driver was crushed by the machine in its first somersault. He was rushed to the Pasadena Emergency Hospital by the local police ambulance and given first aid for a crushed chest and internal injuries by Dr. William Wagner. Still unconscious, he was transferred to the Pasadena Hospital, where his condition is reported extremely critical.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Mrs. J. Gamache, 61, of 4225 Huntley street, Culver City, was injured seriously when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, collided with another car and turned over at the intersection of Sixteenth street and Wilshire Boulevard, Santa Monica. She sustained a broken collar bone, broken ribs and possible internal injuries. Her husband received minor injuries. Police reported the other machine was driven by Jamie Anderson of 1218 East Twenty-third street, Los Angeles, negro chauffeur for Cecil Frankel of 643 Ocean Front, Santa Monica.

In another accident reported from the Santa Monica Bay District, Mark Sales, 23, of 1448 Euclid avenue, Santa Monica, suffered a broken left leg, fractured ribs and contusions. He was hurt when he drove his motorcycle into the rear of an automobile driven by Earl Johnson of 832 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles. The accident occurred on the Coast road north of Topango Canyon.

Jesus Rodriguez, 3311 Escada street, was reported dying at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital as a result of his car striking a traffic button at Adams and Central streets last night and overturning. He suffered severe internal injuries, including a fractured pelvis.

MEDIATOR STABBED

Eugene Pardella, 1326 Henry street, was treated at Georgia-street hospital last night for a bad stab wound in the shoulder. Frank Bargas, 674 Clover street, is being held on a charge of driving while drunk, Wright Act possession and assault with a deadly weapon. Bargas collided with a machine driven by Manuel Ballus, 1419 Henry street, at Henry and Zonal streets. Pardella interfered following a fight between the two drivers and was stabbed, police say.

Mrs. Grace Saunders, 169 East Thirty-fifth street, and Mrs. Emma Lufkin, 130 East Thirty-sixth street, were treated for minor injuries at the Georgia-street hospital following a collision with a Southern Pacific switch engine at Neude and Junction streets.

SCREENLAND CHILDREN TO SING IN HOLLYWOOD

Voices of screenland's children singing Christmas carols will feature the grand finale tonight of Hollywood's pre-yuletide festivities on "Santa Claus Lane," that portion of Hollywood Boulevard from Vine street to La Brea avenue.

The children, including Jackie Condon, Nancy Price, Virginia Davis, Bonnie Jeanne De Bard and other child players, will provide musical accompaniment for Santa Claus's last pilgrimage along the brilliantly decorated thoroughfare, in his sleigh drawn by reindeer, with a "surprise" guest of honor.

The forty children, members of the Stage and Screen Children's Club and the Screen Juveniles' Club, are appearing through arrangements made by President Baine of the Hollywood Boulevard Association with the Boyd school.

Mayor Porter officiated in ceremonies marking the formal dedication of the boulevard as "Santa Claus Lane" and with his grandson rode as St. Nicholas's honored guest through a synthetic snowstorm.

CHURCH AT WESTWOOD DEDICATED

All-Day Services Mark Opening by Methodists of New $85,000 Edifice

All-day services yesterday marked the dedication of the new Westwood Community Methodist Church, at Wilshire Boulevard and Warner avenue. The dedicatory sermon as delivered by Bishop Charles Wesley Burns at the morning worship, following a brief presentation address by Paul H. Helms, president of the board of trustees, and a short talk by Dr. Ernest C. Moore, director of University of California at Los Angeles.

At the evening service, which was arranged in the nature of a Yuletide program, Dr. John Lewis Gillies, superintendent of the Los Angeles district, occupied the pulpit and special Christmas music was featured in the choral and organ program. The pipe organ will be dedicated this evening with a special program by Sibley G. Pease and Dr. E. E. Helms will speak on "The Gospel for Westwood."

The new church was erected at a cost exceeding $85,000 and the pastor is Rev. John Wesley Robinson. The first Sunday-school service will be held at 9:45 a.m. Sunday, the 29th inst., which also will be dedicatory in its nature.

STRICT BAKERY LAW IN EFFECT

County Ordinance Tightens Rules for Shops

Cleaner Products Assured to Public Hereafter

Inspection Will be Aided by Permit System

Residents of Los Angeles county may be assured of receiving cleaner and more wholesome bakery goods in the future, according to Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer who announces that a new and complete bakery ordinance goes into effect today.

The new ordinance was passed by the Board of Supervisors as a result of the concentrated efforts of health authorities to gain a weapon with which to combat numerous small-scale bakers operating their shops in cellars, basements, attics or insanitary and improperly ventilated rooms.

The law will require an application for a permit to operate a bakery to be made by all persons manufacturing any bakery goods for public use. The application must inform the county health department of the address of the proposed shop and the location of the delivery cars used for distribution. By this method the health department will have a roster of the locations of the bakeries in the county of which periodical investigations as to sanitary conditions will be made, Dr Pomeroy said.

Bake-shops will be required to have smooth, white walls to facilitate their required daily cleaning, ceilings at least eight feet in height to insure the free circulation of air; wash basins and individual clean towels easily assessible, and no sleeping quarters adjacent to the cooking room or storage closet unless there is a ceiling-high partition separating them. The use of tobacco in bakeries is prohibited.

The presence of contaminated or impure materials or of prohibited dyes will be construed by authorities as evidence of its use and occasion for prosecution as a violation of the California Pure Foods and Drugs Act, Dr. Pomeroy warned.

CIVIL WAR MAIL LONG ON WAY

it so? Farewell take care of yourself and give my kindest regards to all forever your friend Tom Lilly.

"Jap if you see any chance send a letter to me direct to Camp Chase, Columbus Prison. No. 3, Thomas Lilly."

Mrs. M. A. Lilly, widow of the writer, recalls the old war days. She is 85 years of age.

"My husband lost an arm in the conflict," she said. "The letter brings back tender memories. Thomas has been dead fifty years and now I open a faded letter and recognize his writing. Life is queer at times—the twists it takes. My son Herbert was but 3 years of age when his father died and this letter will be a precious keepsake for him."

The letter, instead of a stamp, had the official seal of the censor and was marked O. K. to forward. A whole bag of prisoners' mail for some unknown reason was ditched and in the remodeling of a building at Cleveland was uncovered and a newspaper article printed about it. Through this devious route "If not delivered in sixty-seven years return to sender" it finally reached, not the man it was addressed to, but the family of the sender.

Uncle Sam can not do anything about it either. It is sixty-seven years too late.

VICTIM OF DUEL BULLET-RIDDLED

Slain Man Found on Street in Long Beach

Suspect's Wife Makes Claim of Self-Defense

Both Men Recently Under Bootleg Inquiry

One man was murdered last night in Long Beach and another seriously wounded as the toll of what police describe as a bootleggers' war. Edward Ames, the dead man, was found with his body riddled with bullets on the sidewalk in front of 1074 Gaviota avenue, Long Beach, and police were searching for Marcel Dillon, whose wife telephoned police after the shooting that her husband had shot Ames in self-defense and was on his way to Los Angeles to surrender to police there.

SHOOTING VERSION

According to the investigation of Long Beach police, Ames left his apartment at 774 Redondo avenue early yesterday evening in a rented car and sought Dillon, who was visiting with friends near the scene of the shooting. Shortly after the shooting Mrs. Dillon telephoned Long Beach police that Ames called her husband to the street, where a quarrel followed. Mrs. Dillon said that Ames fired one shot at her husband and stabbed him with a knife and that Dillon returned the fire with his own revolver. A 38-caliber revolver and a blood-stained knife were found lying on the ground near Ames's body, but his wounds were caused, police said, by bullets from a .45-caliber gun.

BOOTLEG SUSPECTS

Detective Lieutenant Joe McClelland of the Long Beach police said last night that both Ames and Dillon had been under investigation for their asserted bootlegging activities and that apparently the quarrel which lead to the fatal shooting was the result of a disagreement over liquor.

Dillon recently was arrested for investigation in connection with the Agua Caliente payroll hold-up but was released after several weeks. According to papers found in Ames's apartment he recently moved to Long Beach from San Francisco. Papers found in the apartment gave his address there as 1251 Thirty-second street.

GOVERNOR'S SECRETARY IN NEW JOB

Appointed Attorney for Vocations Department; Succeeded by Pasadenan

Appointment of Keith Carlin, Gov. Young's private secretary, to the post of attorney for the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, will, it was said at the Los Angeles offices of the Governor, do away with several part-time positions held by attorneys who act for the fifteen different boards and bureaus of the department. As attorney for the board Mr. Carlin, it was explained, will attend to legal matters for the Board of Medical Examiners, Board of Pharmacy, Board of Dentist Examiners, Board of Cosmetologists, Board of Veterinary Medicine and several others. The legal work of these boards heretofore has been handled on a part-time basis by numerous attorneys all over the State.

Carlin, whose new duties begin January 1, has been in the Governor's office for three years, first as executive secretary and for the past few months as private secretary to Gov. Young. He is to be succeeded in the latter position by Harold Landreth, Pasadena banker.

"It is with sincere regret that I lose my private secretary, Keith Carlin," Gov. Young said. "I am very pleased, however, that the State is able to retain his services. To work with Mr. Carlin has been a pleasure in every respect. He has proved himself loyal, efficient and able. He is an extremely able lawyer and as such has been of the greatest assistance in solving many of the legal problems which have come into the office. Fortunately, I have been able to replace him with another excellent lawyer and trained business man in the person of Harold Landreth of Pasadena, who will come into my office when Mr. Carlin leaves on January 1."

As executive secretary Carlin was commissioned by the Governor to assist him in the study of the pardon cases of Mooney and Billings and it was announced that he will continue with this study even after leaving the Governor's office.

FIVE NAMED IN FEDERAL TRUE BILLS

Stock Broker and Aides Face Fraud Accusations; Two Already Under Bond

In two secret Federal indictments five Los Angeles men are charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, it was revealed yesterday. The indictments charge that the defendants obtained large sums of money from asserted victims by misrepresenting the values of stocks.

One indictment names William Anagnosti, formerly president of the United States Securities Corporation and the R. D. Robertson Company, now head of Anagnosti & Co., investment brokers, of 106 West Third street. He is said to have headed the operations of the various companies involved. Sam Goldstein, C. S. Ransom and Henry and Albert Tubor, brothers, are also named in the indictments.

According to Asst. U. S. Atty. Redwine, Anagnosti was head of the operations and the other four were "high-power" salesmen. According to Mr. Redwine the organization sold stocks selling ordinarily at from $5 to $7 at from $15 to $17 a share. Activities of other stock-selling organizations are being investigated, it was stated.

Anagnosti and Goldstein provided bail of $10,000 each and were released pending a hearing in court. The Tubors are in Chicago and are expected to surrender here, it was stated Ransom also is expected to appear for arraignment.

EXTRA CARS PUT ON FOR SHOPPERS

Yellow Line's Effort to Speed Traffic Reported to Utilities Board

Seventy additional cars in the morning and ninety in the evening have been put in service by the Los Angeles Railway Company to accommodate the Christmas shopping rush, according to a report made to the Board of Public Utilities and Transporation by its engineering department.

The department informs the board, however, that the railway will take off the increased service after Christmas, until the matter of the increased fare is definitely settled. The department reports that the company contends it is unable to afford more service than heretofore given and that, if the city intends to obtain a rehearing of the fare case, it must be understood that it will result in curtailment of service as long as the matter is delayed.

JUST A TARGET, WIFE SAYS

Charles T. North was studying to be a knife thrower, according to his wife, Helen, who is asking for a divorce, and that is why, she said, she got tired of living with him.

"He used to practice on me and see how close he could come to me without hitting me," said Mrs. North. "He said it was lots of fun to throw knives at my feet, but I couldn't see the joke."

Kitchen Noise Turns Out to be Masked Man

Attracted by a noise in the kitchen, Mr. and Mrs W. H. Lindberg walked into the room in their home at 1339 Bond street early yesterday morning to find a masked man standing calmly by the gas range.

"What are you doing here?" asked Mr. Lindberg.

"Just looking for a bootlegger," replied the intruder. Then he stepped outside and Mr. Lindberg called the police. A few minutes later Officers Swant and Sanborn found the man attempting to start an automobile in the vicinity. He gave the name of Jose Z. Padilla, 25 years of age, of 1006 West Eighth street.

A handkerchief which Padilla is said to have used as the mask was found by the officers discarded on the Lindberg's front lawn.

Low-Top Cars Bring Need for Lower Signals

Due to the modern trend of lower tops on automobiles bringing about reduced upward vision through windshields, railway wig-wag systems at crossings have been found too high to be seen by autoists at close quarters, according to a report by its engineering department to the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation.

The department reports that as the result of a conference of the members of the board and railway executives on this subject, the Pacific Electric Railway has made a survey of the situation and now is relocating three wigwags, lowering twenty-one others and improving five other grade crossings by trimming away trees or other obstructions to aid motorists.

The department reports that it is difficult to lower wigwags below the standard of fourteen feet required by the State unless they are on private rights of way out of the way of traffic.

Art Commission Approvals Show 6 Per Cent Gain

During the first eleven months of the year the Municipal Art Commission has approved plans for structures aggregating $10,699,241 in value, an increase of 6 per cent over the same period in the previous year, according to a report by Miss Elizabeth Black, general manager of the commssion.

The commission passes upon the architectural design of all municipal buildings and works of art.

During the past month the commission has approved the painting "California," by Dana Bartlett, local artist, which will be hung in the Felipe de Neve branch library in Lafayette Park, and the bowl of lotus design for the fountain in the children's court at the Central Library, by Lee Lawrie, New York sculptor.

Nine airport buildings for the Municipal Airport, valued at $200,000, were approved. The commission gave considerable time to the discussion of these plans, the object being to establish a precedent of taste in this newest type of structure.

Former Venice Mayor's Trial Set for Today

C. Gordon Parkhurst, last Mayor of Venice prior to the annexation of that community by Los Angeles, is scheduled to go on trial today in Superior Judge McComb's court on charges of driving while intoxicated and failure to stop and render aid following an automobile accident.

Parkhurst is asserted to have run down and injured Miss Bessie Manos on the Speedway in Venice on November 5, last. He was familiarly known in the Bay District as the "boy Mayor," having risen to that position at the age of 2

Today's Bible Text

"If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." James 1, 5.

READY TO GO

There are now more than 2,000,000 automobiles in the State of California and the beauty of it is that they all have some place to go.

NEW PRESCRIPTIONS

Under new regulations doctors in Norway are required to write their prescriptions so that they will be legible and understandable to the average person. This is asking a whole lot, but Oslo is not as slow as the name sounds.

TAKING TO THE AIR

There are now 162 airports in California and think of the bland and amiable quality of the air they have! This is a greater number of sky terminals than may be found in any other State of the Union. They represent the investment of millions of dollars and demonstrate the air-mindedness of our people.

SAVING THE WATER

Sea water can be processed and made available for irrigation and at no great expense. The demonstration of this will further prove that the Pacific Coast is the garden spot. Anyhow, we may not have to depend upon the rains. There would be plenty of water if we didn't have to devote a lot of it to irrigation uses.

TOO MANY LAWS

The suggestion of Gov. Byrd of Virginia, that legislatures meet now and then for the express purpose of weeding out unnecessary laws, has been received with favor in many States. A little combing of the legislative acts in any State would make for economy, simplicity and better government. What is demanded in one season may be detested in the next.

HAPPY DEMOCRATS

Jouett Shouse, head of the Democratic National Committee, is already promising his people a Democratic majority in the next Congress. This in spite of the fact that his party is more than 100 votes shy of the Republican strength at this moment. He doesn't explain where or how the Bourbons will get their votes, but he pledges them, anyhow. How do they get that way? The Democrats are the most delightful optimists that ever ransacked a dream book.

NO BAD MEN IN GOTHAM

Police Commissioner Grover Whalen of New York is something of an optimist. He reports great moral progress in the big city. He says that there are no longer any hardened criminals in New York. The inference is that they have either reformed or been banished. This is rather tough on visitors who go to Gotham for their thrills. There is a suspicion that some of the crafty guys have drifted westward. They frequently do at this season.

FREEDOM OF DRESS

The designing women who run the fashion league in New York have announced their independence from what they call "man-made" styles. This is a slam at Paris, where it happens that most of the creations are the work of male artists and designers. So far as we are concerned we will let New York and Paris fight it out. When we want something really nifty we will step over on Hollywood Boulevard and pick it up. Nowadays the women do not dress alike. They wear what they crave and the individual may create her own fashions. This is said to be a free country.

FOR BIG SHIPS

Italy has also developed the itch for bigger ships. Mussolini is said to have placed a rush order for two massive liners with turbine engines and a speed guarantee of nearly thirty knots an hour. They are to be not only larger but faster than the Bremen, which is the pride of German shipping. The Italians will have their share of world travel and the American tourist will be lured by new luxuries and advanced speed. All of the nations feel the urge for mammoths on the deep. Ships that are better than a thousand feet in length are in the making.

JAPAN TAKES NOTICE

Tinder scattered about the Chinese-Siberian border is apparently taking flame. Cables from the foreign legations in Peiping, which ought to be reliable, assert that the whole of Northwestern Mongolia, as far east as the Khinghan Mountains, has been occupied by Nationalists of the Soviet Republic of Outer Mongolia, and has been organized as a part of the soviet state.

While renouncing all imperialistic ambitions, the soviets at Moscow have established the soviet state of Mongolia which, under the treaties of Washington, is recognized as a part of the Chinese Republic. The capital of Outer Mongolia is Urga and the new state recognizes the sovereignty of Moscow.

Taking the Chinese-Eastern controversy as a pretext the Urga soviet has followed in the train of the Russian forces that drove 200 miles east from the Siberian-Manchurian border and has established local governments. The part of the Chinese-Eastern Railway west of the Khinghan Mountains is reported to be now operated by soviet nationals as a unit of the Trans-Siberian line.

China south of the great wall has been so torn by internecine strife during the last five years that no sustained effort has been made to drive the soviets from Chinese territory. But the insatiate greed of the soviets for extended dominion has now apparently brought them face to face with the one power in the Near West that cannot be flouted with impunity—Japan.

In the Manchurian territory now occupied by the soviets are a number of Japanese agricultural settlements; and a Tokio cable asserts that the Japanese Foreign Office has demanded an explanation from the soviet ambassador in Moscow. Evidently the Japanese will waste no time with the dummy soviet at Urga, but are dealing directly with Moscow. The Japanese maintain a kind of Monroe Doctrine of their own in the Near West. They have announced to the powers that they will permit no encroachment from other powers on Manchurian territory.

Recent events have proved that the Mukden government is not strong enough to protect Northern Manchuria from soviet invasion. Diplomatic procedure under existing treaties would require that Japan should notify the other powers that the soviets are violating Chinese sovereignty before taking independent action. Apparently the Japanese Foreign Office does not consider the situation sufficiently grave to take this step; but the communication to the soviet ambassador indicates that the Japanese are viewing the developments not necessarily with alarm, but certainly with lively concern.

Meanwhile, cables from Shanghai attest that the Nationalist government has driven back the insurgents and repossessed the telegraph lines. A week ago the cables reported that the Nationalists had been defeated all along the line and Chiang Kai-shek deposed. Now come cables from Shanghai carrying an announcement from Chiang himself to the world that the insurgents are scattered or dead, and the revolt is ended. To cover all the ground in these advances and retreats, the contending forces must be operating in air squadrons. If the cables are accurate, a whole Chinese army has advanced 1500 miles in five days, and in territory where there are no operating railways.

NEW SOCIAL SURVEY

Social surveys of various sorts and for various purposes there have been without end, but one which promises real usefulness will be conducted by a Commission on Social Trends, just appointed by President Hoover. Its work will parallel roughly the national survey of economic changes conducted while Hoover was Secretary of Commerce, and its report will be a supplement to the economic report. While the commission has semiofficial importance due to the President's appointment, it will be privately financed, the Rockefeller Foundation providing the money.

Whether there have really been changes which amount to a breaking up of family life and a lessening of the importance of the family as a social unit is one of the things the survey will seek to discover. There have been strong assertions on both sides of this question, neither based on any real data; such opinions as there are have been emotional rather than scientific. It will be useful to know if the family is actually showing signs of disappearance and, if so, what is taking its place.

The commission will inquire what effect the improvement in national health has affected old-age problems; social problems of city life and increasing urban population; changes in occupations; and many other subjects which indicate the direction in which civilization is moving, all of which will be interesting and may prove important. Probably the commission will discover there is not much that can be done about it, since social changes are on too vast a scale for either individuals or groups to have much hope of altering their direction, but it may be able to suggest some palliative measures. It never does any harm to have the facts.

THE GRAVITY AQUEDUCT

Statements of members of the Aqueduct Consulting Board that the Metropolitan Water District "will have to do some pumping" are not to be taken, according to Chief Engineer Weymouth, as indicating that the consulting board has definitely decided one way or another on the gravity aqueduct. This is reassuring, but it is to be hoped that the consulting board will make no definite decision until it has all the data.

It is plain that it has not yet all the data, since it has not yet called upon E. C. LaRue, whose name is most closely associated in the public mind with the gravity project. Mr. LaRue presented before the Metropolitan Water Board last spring a brief outline of his conception, with a suggestion of alternative routes, but did not, of course, go into the matter in the detail necessary to permit a board of engineers to get an adequate idea of it. Unquestionably he has a vast amount of information which has not been disclosed, and which, it seems probable, is not in possession and cannot come into possession of the Metropolitan Water District or its consulting board except through him or through years of study such as he has given the Colorado River. There is not time for the latter.

The Times holds no special brief for the gravity aqueduct. If it is practicable at all, however, it would be the ideal method of getting water here from the Colorado. Upon its face this plan can cost $200,000,000 more than any pumping aqueduct and still save the Metropolitan Water District millions. No pumping scheme with its cost of $10,000,000 a year for operation ought to be considered until the gravity aqueduct has been definitely ruled out as impracticable. It will be difficult to make the taxpayers of the Metropolitan Water District believe it is impracticable until its principal expert proponent has been given a full opportunity to state his case before the consulting board, and that board has formulated an engineering judgment upon it.

This board ought not, in other words, to form its opinion on the basis merely of incomplete and hastily assembled data furnished it by Chief Engineer Weymouth, who never saw Bridge Canyon before last June and has necessarily had many other irons in the fire, since, when the one man who has the information at his finger tips is available. There is no doubt in anybody's mind that Mr. LaRue knows more about the Colorado River and about his own project than does anybody else. He ought to be called in and cross-questioned. If his plan is bad the board can establish the fact to everybody's satisfaction; if good it should be adopted.

TEN acres of new stock pens are about to be built at the Los Angeles Union Stockyards.

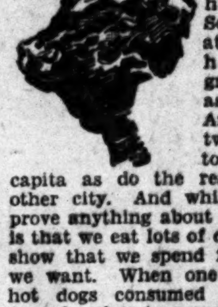
A great many head of live stock can be handled in ten acres. But that addition is only a small part of our big and growing stockyards. It hasn't been many years since the Los Angeles stockyards were almost insignificant. Now this has become one of the great packing and distributing centers of the country, and claims to be the biggest meat center west of Chicago.

Kansas City and Omaha papers are asked to refrain from copying this, lest some one back there get an attack of hydrophobia.

Kansas Citians and Omahaians, as we remember them, are people who are inclined to sniff the strong prairies-State breeze and exclaim, "Gosh! How we wish we could get rid of those packing-houses." But if anyone dares intimate that theirs aren't two of the most important packing centers in the world they begin to froth at the mouth so that they easily could shave without the use of soap, even with a safety razor.

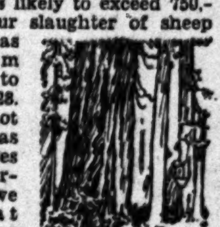
Meat Consumption—and Toothbrushes

Yet the claim that this is the greatest meat center west of Chicago is seriously made at our stockyards, and we believe it is true. The astounding growth of Southern California has created an immense demand for meat. Southern California, as a whole, is the wealthiest area on earth and the people generally are hearty eaters. Some statistician at the stockyards has discovered ground for the assertion that Angelenos buy twice as many toothbrushes per capita as do the residents of any other city. And while that doesn't prove anything about meat—unless it is that we eat lots of chicken—it does show that we spend freely for what we want. When one thinks of the hot dogs consumed every Sunday, from beaches to mountains, he must realize that the meat consumption here is enormous.



Great Packing Center

Not many years ago our packing-houses were almost insignificant, as compared with those of Chicago, Kansas City and Omaha. Now 35,000 people are directly engaged in the slaughtering, packing and distribution of meat in Los Angeles. Figures for 1929 are, naturally, not yet available, but the growth in 1929 has been comparable to that in former years. During 1928 Los Angeles county slaughtered a record number of animals for meat purposes. The total cattle slaughter consisted of 312,716 head, as compared with 187,282 head in 1920 and only 112,837 in 1912, showing an increase of nearly 300 per cent in seventeen years. Calf slaughter showed an even greater percentage of increase, going from 30,718 head in 1912 to 153,525 in 1928, a gain of 500 per cent! Likewise, our hog slaughter has shown a tremendous gain, increasing from 146,806 head in 1912 to 691,151 in 1928—and this year's hog slaughter seems likely to exceed 750,000 head! Our slaughter of sheep and lambs has increased from 332,855 in 1912 to 669,260 in 1928. This gain is not as pronounced as in other classes of live stock, particularly when we remember that 35,500 were slaughtered locally and shipped under refrigeration to eastern markets.



The Oldest Sequoias

Readers of the New York Times recently have been enjoying a lively argument between Floridians and Californians as to the respective ages of Florida and California trees. Prof. Herman Kurz of the State College for Women at Tallahassee started the argument with the assertion that he had found, in Florida, a cypress fifteen feet in diameter which he believed to be 2800 years old and therefore, the senior of the California redwoods.

John R. White of Sequoia National Park couldn't stand that in silence. He wrote The Times that after investigation he was sure California still could claim to be the home of "the largest and oldest of living things." Continuing, he says: "There are many specimens of the California big tree, or Sequoia gigantea, which are thirty feet in diameter and over 3000 years old." Judge Walter Fry counted the rings on one lumbered big tree and found the age to be 3126 years. John Muir states that he found one in the Converse Basin, near Gen. Grant National Park, with a ring count of over 4000 years.

RECKLESS YOUTH

A Minneapolis traffic magistrate recently declared from the bench that young fellows between the ages of 18 and 25 were responsible for far more auto accidents than other motorists, though the majority of drivers is above the latter age. This is beginning to be well understood by traffic officials and the general public in most large urban centers, and some means should be devised by which these young offenders are held to more strict account than at present. The amazing fact that many of them are let off with light fines or dismissals because of their youth is no compliment to judicial intelligence.

On a recent midnight in the heart of Los Angeles, the 21-year-old driver of a truck was responsible for a crash in which two persons were killed and four injured. Official investigators found that the truck was speeding at the rate of fifty miles an hour just before the "accident."

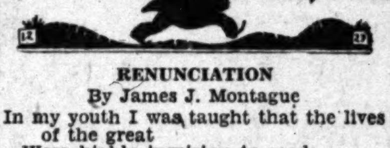
The most tragic event of this sort in recent months—the one in which six persons lost their lives near Santa Fe Springs—was, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury, due to the recklessness of a young driver who paid no attention to a crossing signal and was swept into eternity by a swiftly moving train, with all his passengers.

In San Francisco there recently have been several cases of what the Chronicle of that city reports as "utter contempt for traffic rules" by young offenders, with sad results. The Chronicle deplores the tendency of traffic courts to exercise too much leniency in such cases and demands the assessment of penalties that will not only be real punishment, but also a real deterrent to other violators.

There are now living nearly 30,000 people who will be slain by automobiles during 1930 if the terrible 1929 record should be maintained for that year. Less carelessness on the part of drivers would greatly reduce the number of fatalities, and if reckless youth is responsible for so many of them then it should be held to strict accountability and receive adequate punishment.

THE NIGHT COURT

In trying to make justice cheaper and easier a night court for small claims has been opened here. This will carry the same hours as the night court for police cases. Any claim for less than $50 may be heard without the parties losing any time from the day's work. Even a lawyer isn't essential. The night court is a happy idea in a great many ways.



RENUNCIATION

By James J. Montague

In my youth I was taught that the lives of the great
Were highly inspiring to read;
I was told if I studied them early and late
They would teach me the way to succeed.
So I toiled at biography, night after night
Till this fact brought me up with a jerk:
All men who grow famous take eager delight
In work.

Napoleon, Washington, Alfred E. Smith—
All men of distinction and name—
Used work as a ladder, and clambered therewith
To the uppermost ramparts of fame.
They stolidly, sternly continued to climb
As they followed their glorious quest,
And not a man jack of them took out the time
To rest.

Mr. Edison labored, as all of us know,
For seventeen hours a day
While inventing the lights that so vividly glow
On the stretches of middle Broadway.
Henry Ford, though his myriad plants are a-throb,
And his cars throng the country and mart,
Will not be content till he finds some new job
To start.

So biography pages I study no more
With hope in my bosom aglow.
Why burden my brain with a wearisome store
Of something I already know?
Let people whom industry never can irk
Soar to fame from a lowly thatched cot,
They can do it all right, for they're gluttons for work;
I'm not!

DREAM STUFF

BY BAILEY MILLARD

Ever since that eminent British astronomer and physicist, Sir James H. Jeans, ventured the publication of his strange conception of man and the universe I have been patiently waiting for scientific and other repercussions, but I have heard none. Nearly all the comment made on the remarkable thesis has been of rather a tame nature, so far as I have observed, and it has been passed along for what it is worth, which may be much or little.

The central thought of Sir James's thesis is contained in his picture of human life, time, space and the round of creation. As presented in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution it reads:

"The picture man sees may be merely a creation of his own mind in which nothing really exists except himself. The universe which we study with such care may be a dream, and we brain cells in the mind of the dreamer."

This view of human and cosmic affairs is not new. In a way it has been held by Berkeley, Tolstoy and others. There was a hint of it in an article by Prof. Arthur Stanley Eddington, formerly president of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, who was quoted by me in a previous Times article and alluded to as a scientist who was leading away from the old ideas of absolutism as to the composition of matter in space and on this planet.

James Hopwood Jeans, a gold-medal winner of the Royal Astronomical Society, was for a time research associate at Mt. Wilson Observatory. He is a much-quoted astro-physicist. He writes books on radiation and the quantum theory and on the problems of cosmogony and stellar dynamics, and lectures on applied mathematics and other scientific topics to large audiences.

That such a man, dealing in such solid subjects, should venture to question the long-established basis of the theory of the universe as made up of cosmic matter in all its millions of separate entities—suns, planets, star dust and nebulae—and picture the universe as a possible dream and mankind as so many brain cells in the mind of the dreamer, would seem to place this learned Britisher in somewhat the same category as Berkeley and Tolstoy.

When Sir James pictures what man sees in gazing about him as a creation of his own mind it is as much as to say that instead of material realities we have in such visions the product of our own judgment, aided by association and based upon sensations which have themselves no objective reference. In other words, the implication is made that sense-qualities are simply states of consciousness and that sense objects are sensation complexes. We are compelled, therefore, to find the cause of our ideas in an incorporeal active substance or spirit.

But instead of crowding our concepts of the universe into a corner, as might be thought by some strong materialists, it seems to me that the ideas presented by Sir James and, in a way, by Prof. Eddington, really expand them. For one thing they aid us along the path which leads to the point where we all shall accept the theory of a cosmic mind dominating and activating everything in the universe. And they should strengthen the hope of humanity of participating in that "far-off divine event to which the whole creation moves."

CHEAP AND QUICK

BY SUZANNE PERKOFF

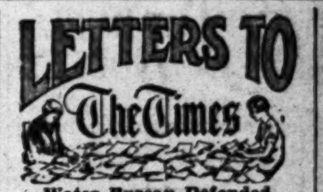
A recent issue of a magazine that is eagerly read by those who are trying to make themselves over so that they can achieve beauty or success, shows that all this outlay is unnecessary. For a mere 10 cents a fascinating little booklet will be sent to the eager suppliant, whereby she can "master a few simple psychological facts" that will enable her "to attract men—any man." It guarantees that within the short space of three weeks she can make herself over from a hopeless wallflower to be the center of attraction instead, a veritable siren de luxe. Which anyone will admit is quite a transformation.

All the wiles of Cleopatra and the most devastating sex appeal for one thin dime. Why spend $5 for a facial, an eyebrow arching and a finger wave, when the expenditure of ten pennies will bring much more immediate and overpowering results? And it must be admitted that in some cases all the fondest and most expensive ministrations of the beauty parlors avail not in the quest for beauty and conquest, whereas this pamphlet frankly admits that you can't lose out if you follow its instructions. Evidently femininity has been barking up the wrong tree for years.

Who would not be interested in acquiring "bulldog courage," in the short space of forty-eight hours and for the meager outlay of 50 cents? Such an attribute would be a most valuable adjunct to any character. If one can shed an inferiority complex that it has taken years to acquire, in a couple of days, life ought to look up for everyone.

Toothache Invades the Arctic

Up until a few years ago it was said of the Eskimos that they had the largest and finest teeth of any race in the world, civilized or savage. New food, starch and sugars, in place of their primitive diet of raw flesh, has caused their teeth to decay with alarming rapidity and they suffer intense pain from abscesses and swollen jaws. Efforts are being made to send proper equipment for prevention of decay and relief of pain to those Eskimos who live near the white man's settlements and learn to eat his soft foodstuffs.



Water Bureau Defended

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] On the editorial page of the Los Angeles Times of Thursday, December 19, you published a letter signed by W. L. Moore, relative to the Los Angeles city-owned Water Bureau. The statements made in this letter are so grossly incorrect and unfair that I cannot permit them to go unchallenged. And, since the statements concern such a vitally important subject as this city's domestic water supply, I believe The Times should not publish the sort of misinformation contained in the Moore letter without, at least, also giving its readers a chance to read the actual facts in the case.

W. L. Moore, in his letter, stated that "In the old days before we had a department of water Los Angeles was furnished its water through private companies, who . . . gave our people 1200 cubic feet of water for 50 cents per month, and made money on the deal. Also, they did their own collecting. Now, after the city has expended millions of dollars to bring water to the intake pipes of the Department of Water, we are furnished 600 cubic feet of water for $1 per month."

Here are the facts:

The City Water Company which operated in Los Angeles before the city-owned Water Bureau was established in 1902, CHARGED 20 CENTS PER 100 CUBIC FEET FOR WATER or $2.40 for 1200 cubic feet, instead of only 50 cents, as Mr. Moore would have us believe. Now, under city ownership, the consumer pays ONLY 13 CENTS PER 100 CUBIC FEET or ONLY 78 CENTS FOR 600 CUBIC FEET, instead of $1 as the letter writer declares. The present maximum city water rate is 13 cents per 100 cubic feet, compared to the old private company rate of 20 cents.

The private water companies, which Mr. Moore paints as so efficient and benevolent, served the people through the crudest sort of open ditches and small wooden and iron pipes. They took the water from the surface of the Los Angeles River and from wells. Today the city-owned Water Bureau operates the longest domestic water supply system in the world. It brings down water to the people of this city, from Owens River, through an aqueduct 250 miles long; it safeguards the purity of this water by a system of modern water sterilization plants; it distributes this water through the second largest distributing system in the United States, larger than that of Chicago or Philadelphia. And yet, this water is sold at a maximum rate of 13 cents per 100 cubic feet, as compared to an average of 18 cents per 100 cubic feet charged in 183 of the largest cities in America.

One of Mr. Moore's private water companies is now operating in San Francisco. This company brings its water supply only about thirty miles, but it charges its consumers 28 cents per 100 cubic feet as compared to the 13-cent charge made by the Los Angeles city-owned Water Bureau.

In concluding his letter, Mr. Moore attacks Mr. Scattergood in connection with the City Water Bureau. In plain fairness to Mr. Scattergood, it should be pointed out that Mr. Scattergood is chief engineer and general manager of the Bureau of Power and Light. He has no managerial connection with the Water Bureau at all.

The writer of these lines is an employee of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power and, therefore, in a position to know the facts.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

To Remodel Hats?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times. All public school classes are suspended December 16 to 28, reopening December 30.]

Mrs. Doris Snidow, designer at Howard Greer and at Hins and Landt, teaches the millinery class at the Hollywood Evening High School, corner of Sunset Boulevard and Highland avenue.

Some of the students buy new bodies and have other students model them on the head to fit the individual face. Then there are some delightful made-over creations—for instance, fifteen-year-old ostrich plumes made into a dance hat with the addition of maline.

The class meets on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 in the Domestic Science Building. There is no charge of any kind, and women of all ages are welcome.

Australia After Quacks

Australia's campaign against quack doctors has received fresh impetus because of the activity of an Indian herbalist, known as Mazar, who has been practicing throughout the country. He was recently taken into court at Forbes in connection with the death of Thomas Latham. Mazar had been treating Latham for six months for ulcers of the stomach and a disease of the heart, which six doctors had pronounced incurable. A post-mortem examination showed that Latham had died of heart disease and there were no signs of ulcers. Mazar's prescription was "brandy, red clover and plenty of water," and he had guaranteed a cure or the refund of money. Mazar said he had been practicing as an herbalist for fifty years, though he is only 60 years of age. Other cases of the activities of herbalists were cited, and laws to curb them were advocated.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

WHY THE TONSILS ENLARGE

The tonsils, as a part of the lymphatic system, are always larger in childhood than they are normally in adult life. From the time the child is born until about the age of 15, the lymph glands in his body will grow about twenty times heavier. As this period subsides the glands are less active, and they will always shrink and become smaller until they should hardly be visible in the throat of an adult.

Healthy tonsils must be regarded as glands which have a positive use in the body. They are one of the glands whose work it is to keep the germs out of the blood stream.

The tonsils guard the rear door of the mouth, and form a combination of two "bouncers" whose job it is to attack unwelcome visitor bacteria who have entered through the mouth and are trying to crash the gate into the blood stream. Sitting on either side of the throat, they lie in wait for any adventurous bacteria that come along looking for an easy living, and are ready to deal with them in short order. Due to the fact that the tonsils, themselves, are outposts for squads of the white blood cells, those police cells of the blood stream which the body has invented as a method of destroying or eating up bacteria, the tonsils thus have a vital place in defending the body and are one of its finest protectors when they are in health.

By screening or filtering out the germs coming from the mouth they prevent them from entering the general blood stream. From the folding of the tonsil tissue back upon itself, the tonsillar crypts or depressions are formed. If the tonsils are swollen these crypts show as white spots due to being filled with the cheesy substance. As the attack goes down the swelling leaves and the tonsils become normal.

Any condition of poor feeding and particularly the eating of a great deal of starch will contribute to the diseased tonsils. The right way to reduce 100 per cent of all diseased tonsils is to clean up the blood stream with a fruit fast, using the enema twice a day according to my instructions. When the toxic material is gone the tonsils reduce in size, normally and naturally, and in a very satisfactory manner. The tonsil has only increased in size because there was an overamount of waste in the blood and it became enlarged in an effort to handle its share of the toxic poisons.

Remember that your tonsils are useful to you, and instead of trying to decide whether to have them in or out, decide right now to keep them in your throat, and if they need to be reduced in size do it in a painless way with a fruit-fasting regime, the instructions for which I will be glad to send to anyone who is interested if they will write me in care of The Times and inclose a large self-addressed and stamped envelope.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

CHILDREN'S SOCKS

It will be found more economical to buy several pairs of socks of one pattern rather than three pairs of different designs. Then when one sock wears out it may be mated with any of the others and longer service will result.

Even Wear

When the sheets and towels come home from the laundry, put them on top of the pile in the linen drawer, but draw out the clean ones from the bottom. In this way your linens will wear evenly with no effort.

Indexed

An alphabetically arranged list of drugs on hand in the medicine cabinet can be tacked to the inside of the closet door and when a bottle or box is emptied it can be replaced immediately and the ordinary emergencies met.

Awaiting the Plumber

If the trap in the bathroom is stopped up, the following will work out nicely until the plumber arrives. Attach a piece of rubber hose to the cold water faucet in the basin or tub and suspend the hose over the trap. Then turn the water on full force. This will flush the trap.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

SUCCESSFUL DISCIPLINE DOESN'T RESULT FROM PHYSICAL PUNISHMENT

Some universal sentiments are expressed about discipline. Just the moment a child steps over the chalk line marked out for him by the parent, his conduct must be "punished." The mother wants to "do something." She feels he should "suffer." This attitude often leads her astray, for, of course, she thinks most readily of some painful punishment.

Here is a letter in point from Mrs. H. W., who says: "In general do you believe in spanking as a punishment? My boy is older than most of the children your readers write about. He is 9 years of age. Recently he wet his bed and when I asked him why he did it, he said he didn't feel like getting out of bed. I made a mistake, perhaps, because I spanked him with a hairbrush. How else could I have punished him adequately?"

ODDS AGAINST SPANKING ARE TWO TO ONE

There it is. Unless she hurt him physically she couldn't see how he could be punished. As to your first question, Mrs. H. W., I do not believe in spanking in general or in particular. It is futile. It doesn't work. It has twice as many undesirable as desirable angles. If a thing is twice as bad as it is good then its use seems unintelligent, for there is twice as much chance for its failure as its success.

We're going to have an important announcement soon about this subject—a leaflet we have been working on for some time. Meanwhile, I am sure you'd find much food for thought in reading some of the books listed in our leaflet, "Reference List of Books Dealing With Obedience and Punishment" which may be secured by inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope with each request.

This was your chance to have shown yourself sympathetic and understanding. It is hard for a child to get out of a warm bed and paddle to a cold, dark bathroom. Let him see that you realize it and want to make the whole thing as easy as possible. Place slippers and bathrobe on his bed and give him a flashlight, or put a covered chamber or a stoppered bottle near his bed for use at night. Since the chief result of his slip was concerned with the condition of the bedclothes, I should have had him take the mattress and covers out in the yard for a day's airing, shown him how to rinse out and hang up the sheets and thus given him a personal idea of how tiresome and disagreeable it is to take care of wet beds.

Why think up unnatural punishments? Had his playmates discovered that he had so far reverted to babyhood, their "kidding" would have been punishment enough for him. And your attitude of understanding, broad enough to see his side of it, would have made him determine never to do that again.

A child doesn't need to suffer physically to bring it home that a misdeed shouldn't be repeated. We arrive at that much more quickly by readjusting the circumstances which encouraged the wrong behavior so that there is little chance for its recurrence.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

by Honore Booth

FASHION EXPERT OF HARPER'S BAZAAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 25. (Exclusive) If the woman who goes in for winter sports is long and lithe of limb she will be enchantingly boyish in the new winter sports things, which are almost without exception in the trousered genre.

Norwegian Suits

The classic Norwegian ski costume has become the accepted model, after which most of the successful suits are patterned. These are usually made in waterproof gabardine, in black, dark blue or dark green, as these somber colors offer a striking contrast against the whiteness of the snow.

Jackets Conventional

Jackets are generally belted; of the Norfolk type, sometimes with regulation mannish collar and revers, but quite as often snugly zipped about the neck. A suit of this sort in black gabardine may be warmly lined with angora felt or some other wind-proof material. I saw such a one quite recently. It was worn with a charming knitted accessory set from Chanel, of gaily striped design. It consisted of a cashmere sweater, scarf, socks, gloves and beret in wide stripes of brown and yellow.

Headgear Must Be Warm

For headgear the toque is a great favorite because of its practical qualities. It is like the stocking cap of our childhood. This is, of course, made to match the other knitted accessories. Knitted hoods fashioned a good deal like baby bonnets with flaps which cover the ears, are warm and becoming to most faces. Berets too are a good deal used and are young and boyish looking.

Spectator Sports Costumes

For spectator sports there are delightful wrap around skirts with culottes beneath for greater warmth. Suzanne Talbot does a costume of this kind of black and white tweed jersey in three pieces, with a black skirt nubbed in white, slashed at the side front showing culottes, which match the jersey jumper.

Lumber jackets of bright yellow chamois which zip right up to the neck, ornamented with large yellow crystal buttons are new and smart. They may be worn over several layers of sweaters.

It is quite obvious that even an onlooker at these sports must be warmly clad. The heaviest of tweeds and woolens make appropriate costumes for the feminine spectator. Her boots must be of the same heavy waterproof variety as those worn by the participants, and her stockings must be equally warm and heavy. Navy blue is an excellent choice of color—it contrasts charmingly with the snow.

Idea from Schiaparelli

Schiaparelli, past mistress of sports clothes, makes leather coats for winter sports, with a clever idea behind them. Made large enough so that endless sweaters may be worn beneath, the sleeves zip open for greater freedom of the arms. Or if the wearer goes indoors for tea, the coat itself may be quickly zipped open and removed.

At the smart resorts, such as Saint Moritz sportswomen dress but twice a day. In the morning they get into their active sport clothes which they wear until they dress for dinner in the evening. These clothes must be made to serve for all daytime activities, afternoon tea being one of the most important of these functions.

TWO YOUTHS SEIZED AS ROBBERY SUSPECTS

With a heavy blackjack in their possession two youths, with former police records, were taken into custody as robbery suspects at Pico and Wright streets early yesterday morning by Sergt. Lawrence and Officer Lagerquist. The pair gave the names of Matthew F. Stahl, 17 years of age, of 142 Venice Boulevard, and Victor G. Rosi, 18, of the same address.

INJUNCTION GRANTED IN LAND CASE

Romola, Inc., Wins Decree Restraining Defendant from Asserted Criticism

A temporary injunction has been granted Romola, Inc., by United States District Judge Henning against James A. Spates, doing business as the Corporation Analytical Bureau, enjoining him from interfering or "intermeddling" in the affairs of the plaintiff company. The plaintiff seeks a permanent injunction.

It is charged in the complaint that Spates, during the past year, has made false representations regarding Romola, Inc., which deals in fruit lands, in order to "unsettle the confidence of contract holders and disorganize Romola stockholders. In addition Spates is said in the complaint to have cast doubt upon land titles held by Romola, Inc., and made other representations which were asserted to have been designed to undermine the stability of the plaintiff company. It was stated by the plaintiff company that it is spending $6,000,000 in developing fruit lands and that the asserted attempts to undermine the company are not to the best interest of the organization.

The hearing on the question of a permanent injunction will be given by the court within a few weeks.

Guests at the special entertainment function New Year's Eve to signal the hotel's reopening will be conducted through the hostelry, which has been renovated throughout.

JAIL TERMS FOR DRIVERS WHO DRINK

Judge Sends Autoist to Cell for Ninety Days for Condition in Crash

Automobilists arrested for reckless driving after drinking liquor will be sent to jail in every case after conviction, Municipal Judge Valentine announced in imposing the maximum sentence, ninety days in jail, on Eltham Hoover, 52 years of age, of 5726 Craner avenue.

"Automobile drivers who have been drinking are a deadly menace to law-abiding citizens," declared Judge Valentine. "All convictions for such offenses will result in heavy jail sentences."

Deputy City Prosecutor Reynolds called witnesses who testified that Hoover's car, traveling at more than forty miles an hour, crashed into a machine driven by W. C. Scruggs, 232 West Reno street, which was waiting for a traffic signal change at Cahuenga Boulevard and Hollywood Way. Scruggs's machine was knocked into the one ahead, which in turn hit another. Police declared skid marks on the pavement showed Hoover's machine slid for more than 200 feet before the crash, in which three persons were injured seriously. Police surgeons reported Hoover had been drinking.

Six-Year Wait for Wife Fails

After Mrs. Josephine Angell left her husband, Albert F. Angell fifteen days after their marriage he waited six years before filing a suit for divorce. He always lived in the hope she would return to him, he told Superior Yankwich when he went into court asking for a legal separation.

Angell testified he was married on November 4, 1923.

"What was the reason for her leaving?" the court asked.

"I think she thought I had a lot of money because I had a store," the husband explained and added: "When she found out I didn't have very much she was disappointed."

Angell left with a decree of divorce and his hopes of ever finding his errant wife shattered after six years of waiting.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

Whatever we may do or say
Affects another in some way.
—Drummer the Woodpecker.

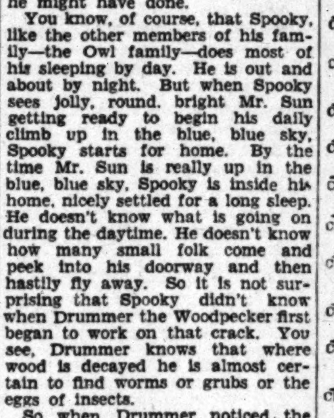
Spooky the Screech Owl had lived a long time in Farmer Brown's orchard. He had lived in one place in that orchard for a long time. Ever since he had first come to the Old Orchard his home had been in a certain hollow in the trunk of a certain apple tree. There Spooky and Mrs. Spooky had raised several families. Usually after the household cares were over Mrs. Spooky would go off by herself. She had a certain secret hollow of her own, which not even Spooky knew about.

Spooky always had been entirely satisfied with that home. He never could see any sense in constantly wanting to change. A change was the last thing in the world that Spooky would dream of wanting. Spooky is one of those who likes to have things go on just as they have been going. There are many people like that.

It was some time now since Spooky had noticed a crack in the trunk of that tree. That crack opened right into the hollow which he called his home. At first it was only a very thin crack. It let in just a very fine line of light. That is the way he discovered it. Gradually the crack widened. Now that cold weather had come and winter was at hand, Spooky found that it was no longer so comfortable in that home of his as it used to be. When Rough Brother North Wind was blowing hard the cold air would come whistling in through that crack and Spooky had to fluff out all his feathers to keep warm.

"I don't like it," muttered Spooky. "I don't like it. I don't see why this old tree had to go and crack. Here I've lived comfortable ever since I came to the Old Orchard and I don't want to move. But I don't like this. I guess I've got to do something about it. If this crack gets any bigger I'll have to move. I suppose I can stand it the way it is, but if this crack gets any bigger I won't have any comfort at all. Well, while I'm out hunting I'll look around and see if there are any good vacant tenements."

Habit is habit and very hard to break. Spooky was so in the habit of coming straight back to his home when he was through hunting that he continued to do so without looking for a new home. He was getting used to that crack. He was getting used to having the cold air coming in there and Jack Frost trying to pinch his toes. Somehow, it didn't seem nearly as bad as it had seemed at first. Nevertheless, he was still dissatisfied. He still mumbled and grumbled about it, but did nothing. He didn't even carry in some leaves to stuff that crack, as he might have done.



He had lived in one place in that Orchard for a long time.

You know, of course, that Spooky, like the other members of his family—the Owl family—does most of his sleeping by day. He is out and about by night. But when Spooky sees jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun getting ready to begin his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, Spooky starts for home. By the time Mr. Sun is really up in the blue, blue sky, Spooky is inside his home, nicely settled for a long sleep. He doesn't know what is going on during the daytime. He doesn't know how many small folk come and peek into his doorway and then hastily fly away. So it is not surprising that Spooky didn't know when Drummer the Woodpecker first began to work on that crack. You see, Drummer knows that where wood is decayed he is almost certain to find worms or grubs or the eggs of insects.

So when Drummer noticed the crack in the trunk of the apple tree where Spooky lived he began to investigate. And, just as he expected, he found some wood borers in there. So he hammered away until he had cut them out and in doing this of course he widened the crack in the tree. But Spooky didn't know this. All he knew was that he was dissatisfied for some reason or other.

GIFTS FROM AIR CHRISTMAS EVE

Radio Stations All Prepare Choicest Programs

Thought and Money Lavished on Holiday Offerings

Appreciation of Hearers to Repay Endeavors

The Times Forum, KHJ, 10:31 a.m.; Lee Shippey of "The Lee Side o' L. A." discussing "Washboard Blues." World-wide news, 12:30; 4:50 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Christmas Eve is but one night away and every radio broadcast station in Southern California is preparing songs and music that will bring the utmost happiness of the yuletide season to their hearers.

Their preparations are a joy to look upon for their program directors are, in fact, decorating a musical Christmas tree that when you twist your dial will flood your home with Christmas carols of Olde England, songs in adoration of the birth of the Saviour and the common Christmas folk songs of all lands.

When the little girl is surrounded by her bevy of new dolls and the boy takes his bike out for a ride of spills and laughs mother and dad will relax with the glow of the joy of giving. It is then they will tune in on the joy of the outer air and open their hearts to the gifts that an invisible but wonderful Santa Claus will offer them.

GIFT TO PUBLIC

The radio stations are busy as Christmas brownies each trying to outdo the other. They are laboring unselfishly to pour into the microphone treasures that will grace the day for which they are meant. That will be their gift to you and your gift in return will be appreciation.

Just think—'way up in the hinterland cabins, 'way out on the Pacific and into the hearts of the shut-ins the magic of radio will pour happiness and radiate kindness, happiness and joy. The magnitude of this boon to mankind is immeasurable The intrepid Americans now at the South Pole will sing with us the very songs that radio sends to them.

And it is the human hands and the human hearts that are giving the very best that is in them to glorify the day. So out of the magic box of every home in the Southland will come gifts of melody for every member of the family from grandpop to Honey Boy. When you hear Santa's sleigh-bells you'll believe it too.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC

Mme. Merle Alcock, famous contralto, who starred with the Metropolitan Opera Company for five years and who has been featured vocalist with America's leading symphonic orchestras, will sing four numbers released through KFI tonight at 6:30 p.m. The program will begin with the playing of the "Polonaise" from "Christmas Eve," one of the lesser known operatic works of the famous Russian composer Rimsky-Korsakow.

Mme Alcock's numbers will include "Agnus Dei," from the incidental music which Bizet wrote for Daudet's play "L'Arlesienne," the action of which occurs at Christmas time; Adam's "Christmas Night;" "Hang Up the Baby's Stocking" and "Silent Night, Holy Night." The orchestra will play Poldini's famous "Waltzing Doll," which gives a musical picture of a Christmas toy and other appropriate numbers.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

A tense drama brought to a climax on Christmas Eve in the observation car of the Empire Builders' program will be broadcast from KFI between 7:30 and 8 p.m. As the train speeds on its way through a frosted fairyland of Christmas trees a voice speaking over the radio in the observation car brings to a conclusion the events upon which the plot for the program is built.

The main bout from the Olympic Auditorium will be on the air tonight from KFWB instead of the usual Tuesday night bout, following the ice hockey game, Oakland vs. Los Angeles, which begins at 8:30 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m. the KNX players will present "Frankincense and Myrrh," a Christmas playlet written by Helen Norris of Medford, Or.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY IN ALL-DAY BROADCAST

The Standard Oil Company, it is announced, will extend the season's greetings to Southern California with a nine-hour radio broadcast Christmas Day beginning at 8 a.m. and ending at 5 p.m. The program, which will be given over KFWB, will include numbers by the University of Southern California Glee Club, more than a score of film stars and the entire KFWB staff, including five bands.

British Matron Visits Daughter Residing Here

Lady Hood, widow of Sir Joseph Hood, a former Chief Justice of Australia, is a visitor at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Dunn of 2201 Willeta avenue, after a trip to Victoria, B. C., to attend a recital of her daughter, Florence Hood, one of Canada's foremost violinists.

LALY HOOD

Lady Hood, who wears the Order of the British Empire, will return to her home in Montreal after the first of the year.

STREET-IMPROVEMENT PROTESTS TO BE HEARD

The City Council today will take up the hearing of protests against the improvement of the Bellevue-avenue and La Veta Terrace improvement district and the establishment of setback lines in Long Beach avenue and Redondo Road. The Council also will hear appeals against the confirmation of assessments for the improvement of Third street from Fairfax avenue to Doheny Drive and the improvement of Huston street between Bellflower avenue and Tujunga avenue. Also to be considered is the ordinance establishing setback lines in Norton avenue between Venice Boulevard and Seventeenth street.

WIDOWS' GROUP TO MEET

The Widows' Protective League, Los Angeles branch council, will hold its next meeting Friday, January 3, at 8 p.m. in the Blackstone Apartments, 244 South Olive street.

NEAR-HOSPITALS REGULATED

A resolution for the regulation of private houses used in the nature of hospitals or sanatoriums was passed yesterday by the Health Commission on recommendation of Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, who stated that there are scores of two-story frame houses used to care for people who are not well.

Dr. Parrish stated that the houses are not used strictly as hospitals and therefore are not operating under permits. His suggestion that it is necessary for these places to be given closer supervision of the health department was agreeable to the Health Commission, which held it had the power to amend the rules bringing such institutions under the department without the need of going before the City Council.

Under the new order these "near-hospitals" will be required to obtain permits and the permits will bear the words "for ambulant patients only," meaning patients who are able to get around without assistance. Permits will be $25 annually, the same as for sanatoriums.

SHRINERS DISPENSE BOUNTIES

Eighteen Hundred Baskets of Groceries, Fruit and Clothing Given to Poor

Eighteen hundred Christmas baskets were delivered to poor families in Los Angeles yesterday by the members of Al Malaikah Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, according to Potentate Le Roy Edwards.

The Shrine patrol, numbering 120 members, was in charge of the distribution, assembling at the Shrine Auditorium on Jefferson street early yesterday morning and taking the baskets out in their private machines. The list was compiled during the past two months and was checked by investigators.

Each basket contained a goodly amount of staple groceries and fruit as well as clothing.

Laguna Artist Returns With His Inspiration

It was perhaps quite natural that pretty Gaby Tudart, strolling that summer evening down the long lane in Southern France, should have found exceeding fair the particular landscape being painted by a tall, handsome young American.

And so, in due course of time they were married. That was last September.

Under the inspiration, young W. H. Irvine of the Laguna Beach art colony did some of his finest canvases in his fourteen months there, and he is bringing them back to exhibit.

He and the little French bride arrived this week-end on the Hamburg American motor liner Seattle, but the paintings missed the ship, and will follow a fortnight later on another. Singularly they both belong to artists' families.

ALLEY TO BE OPENED

An ordinance ordering proceedings for the opening of an alley along a line approximately midway between Western avenue and Manhattan Place, and running from Second to Third street, has been adopted by the City Council.

INTENDED VICTIM'S SISTER SAVES HER

Rejected Suitor Levels Gun at Woman's Heart; Sister Knocks It Down

A deft thrust of the hand in the nick of time on the part of her sister yesterday prevented the possible death by shooting of Mrs. Olive Moser, 25 years of age, in a restaurant at 901 West Second street. And yet, because of the act, a woman not involved in events leading up to the shooting was struck by the bullet that went wide of its mark. She is Mrs. K. B. Francisco of 143 South Figueroa street, who for thirteen years has been a member of the City Mothers' advisory board. With its force spent in passing through a thick mahogany plank in the partition between two eating booths, however, the bullet did not cause even a superficial wound.

MRS K B FRANCISCO

As a result of the shooting police arrested Richard McKusker, 29, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

With Mrs. Moser and her sister, Mrs. M. R. Brubaker, 22, McKusker, who operates another restaurant at 908 West Second street, went to his competitor's establishment late yesterday for dinner.

"You've played your last game of hearts," he remarked, during the meal, to Mrs. Moser, who was sitting opposite him in a booth and with whom he is asserted to have been infatuated. "I'm wishing you a Merry Christmas!"

"Well, I'm wishing you a Happy New Year," Mrs. Moser replied.

"You'll never live to see the New Year," McKusker is asserted to have threatened.

Then, police say Mrs. Moser reported, McKusker drew a gun from his pocket and leveled it at her. But in the split-second before he pulled the trigger, Mrs. Brubaker, who was sitting next to him, knocked McKusker's hand aside and the bullet missed Mrs. Moser. Ploughing its way through the partition the spent slug struck Mrs. Francisco in the thigh as she sat in the adjoining booth.

His first shot spoiled, McKusker again aimed at Mrs. Moser and pulled the trigger, according to the police report, but the gun jammed. Other diners then disarmed McKusker and summoned Patrolman Patterson, who placed him under arrest.

Mrs. Moser, who lives with her sister across the street from McKusker's restaurant, told police she became acquainted with the man about a week ago. Apparently, she said, it was a case of love at first sight on his part, for he had paid her marked attention constantly since their initial meeting. She expressed the belief that McKusker had been seized with a fit of rage over her failure to return his affections.

Hamlin Garland Here for Winter

Hamlin Garland, author and lecturer, arrived here yesterday from New York to spend the winter and erect a home. He is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Joseph H. Harper, at 91 Laughlin Park.

For many years Garland has come to Los Angeles to pass the winter months. He plans to build near the home of his daughters, Constance and Mary Isbel, in Laughlin Park. Garland will return next summer to his cottage at Mt. Onpeora in the Catskills.

IDENTITY OF BLANK-MIND MAN HINTED

Miss Marie Parys Believes Former Soldier May be Her Missing Brother

Firm belief that the "known unknown soldier" who was found wandering the streets of downtown Los Angeles is her missing brother, whom she has not seen since the outbreak of the World War, was expressed yesterday by Miss Marie T. Parys of 438 South Kingsley Drive.

The man, who was found Friday wandering in bewilderment at Temple street and Broadway by Lieut. Paul B. McGarry, declared he does not know his real identity, but, since the war, has been known as Charles J. Golding. He was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital where he was examined by physicians and his case diagnosed as amnesia.

Miss Parys called at The Times office yesterday, having been attracted by the story about the case, and she carried with her a picture of her brother which was taken about fifteen years ago. Allowing for the lapse of time, the photo bears some resemblance to that taken by a "Times" staff photographer shortly after "Golding" was found by police.

Inquiry at a downtown hotel where "Golding" had been registered disclosed that he had checked out about three days ago, leaving no forwarding address. His occupation was listed as car-washer and police investigators learned that he had just given up a job as service station attendant where he had been employed nearly a year.

His mind has been a blank since his discharge from a London hospital, he said, although otherwise his mental faculties are clear. Papers found in his possession indicate that he had served in the fighting forces of the United States, Great Britain, France and Belgium. He has three medals for bravery and distinguished service.

Miss Parys said the family was living in Belgium at the time her brother entered the service and "Golding" told police he was listed as a Belgian refugee at the hospital in London.

Detectives of the missing persons detail have been asked to make an intensive search for the man and any information concerning him will be gratefully received by the woman who believes he is her brother.

MANAGER OF ALEXANDRIA LOSES WIFE

Mrs. Faye Hamilton Who Had Been Active Charity Worker Dies at Home

Mrs. Faye Landreth Hamilton, 43 years of age, identified with charity work in Los Angeles for several years, and wife of Charles B. Hamilton, vice-president and managing director of the Alexandria, died unexpectedly early yesterday morning at her home, 703 South Manhattan street.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn Memorial Park, tomorrow at 3 p.m. with Dr. Robert Freeman, pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Mrs. Hamilton was the sister of Harold Landreth of Pasadena, secretary of Gov. Young.

Since coming to Los Angeles eleven years ago, Mrs. Hamilton had been active in relieving Los Angeles crippled children of hardships through her charity at the General Hospital and other centers harboring unfortunate children. She was the head of the Top o' the World Club until last year, and was one of its strongest supporters. Mrs. Hamilton also spoke from time to time over the radio under the name of Aunt Cookie.

Death came from a cerebral hemorrhage. She had suffered a cerebral attack last summer, but had recovered from that illness. She was born in Manitowoc, Wis.

Besides her husband and brother, Mrs. Hamilton leaves her mother, Mrs. Annie Landreth, and a sister, Mildred Kelleher.

Tomorrow's services will be under the direction of Turner & Stevens Co., of Pasadena.

ROMANCE SHORT-LIVED

The married romance of Magdeleno Velasco and Altagracia Velasco burned out in less than a month, he testified when asking for a divorce on the grounds of desertion in the court of Superior Judge Yankwich. Velasco testified the wedding took place on May 24, 1927, and the separation occurred on June 22. "She did not care for me," the husband said. The judge granted the decree.

"DIAMOND LIL" MUCH IN ROUGH

Unpolished Sketch of Gay Nineties at Biltmore

Mae West Stars in Personally Written Play

Laughable Incidents Serve to Relieve Plot

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

With Mae West, its author, as the star, in person (and also "a" picture) "Diamond Lil," a very rough diamond, indeed, last night resurrected impressions of the good old nineties at the Biltmore Theater.

A panorama of swinging doors, suds on the floor, singing barkeepers, variegated feminine hosiery, steel-ribbed corsets and opulent bust lines, this play does homage of a sort to the nether side of a period in national life that it assumes to depict—a period that might, after one has seen this stage piece, be termed hectic rather than gay.

At least, "Diamond Lil" is amusing in its better moments. It becomes at times as colorful as an old-fashioned burlesque show. It has the manners and modes of a certain phase of life in a bygone era to offer to the view, and possesses a remarkable collection of types.

Whence Miss West managed to bring together such an assortment of players of the good old school of entertainment might even be occasion for puzzlement. Assuredly she found them not in the highways, but in the byways, and they know their tricks.

Miss West has had a more or less spectacular career in the theater, with plays that have hardly been a snip ahead of the censor's shears, and there is no question but that the rough spots (and the coarse) are frequent enough in her "Diamond Lil." Lines here and there would fit well enough and perhaps more appropriately into a modern sensational drama of "The Front Page" sort, and she herself is responsible for as hard-boiled a characterization as has been seen in many a long day on the stage.

I don't know that "Diamond Lil" has any particular purpose or value, or that it is even a good play. In fact, it quite definitely isn't the latter.

Nevertheless, it has its glowing moments. The very best being the final act with a round of divertisements by the talent of the Bowery saloon, including the baritone with the double voice, the "laughing hyena," and Diamond Lil herself. Also there is the girl who sings the inevitable "The Bird in the Gilded Cage."

In this act and also in other scenes "Diamond Lil" reminds not a little of the old-fashioned melodrama—of which "After Dark" was a recently revived example. Indeed, considered as a sort of Hogarthian burlesque of the period that it aims to portray, this piece isn't so bad in its high spots. Its plot is dull, however, and thin.

Miss West's portrayal is sensational enough as a personal achievement to interest. Indeed, it is more of a stunt than a piece of acting. She does a characterization that is mechanically effective, but at the same time falls short of humanness on the one hand, and ideal travesty on the other. Still it is freakishly intriguing, for she never once steps out of the interpretation as she apparently senses it.

There are plenty of worthy supporting efforts on the part of the personnel who surround her—and surround her they do, for there are more than thirty people in the play. Of these, Gerald Kent, Herbert Duffy, Raphaella Ottiano, J. Merrill Holmes, Lew Eckels, Jack Cheatham, Demetris Emanuel, Marion Day, Jack Howard, David Hughes, among others, merit comment, particularly Miss Ottiano, Mr. Emanuel and Mr. Hughes. In the burlesque singing, Jo-Jo, as the laughing hyena won an especial hit.

The production is elaborate and picturesque.

Helen Ferguson Keeps Gowns of Old Film Days

In a clothes closet in the ranch home of Helen Ferguson hang fourteen gowns of a fashion of another day. They are gowns worn when skirts touched the floor and trailed a little behind the wearer, as gowns are threatening to do again today.

They represent a labor of love and whenever Miss Ferguson, who plays Tavie Ferguson in "That Ferguson Family" at the President with the Henry Duffy Players, feels downcast or unhappy she takes a look at these fourteen gowns and considers the amount of work that went into them. For the dresses were made by her mother, Emilie Ferguson, in forty-eight hours for her daughter's appearance as a leading woman in motion pictures.

John Barrymore Sings in Film

Not only does the distinguished peer of present-day stage and screen stars, John Barrymore, make his talking-film bow in "General Crack," the Vitaphone special now at Warner Brothers Hollywood Theater, but he sings from the screen for the first time as well.

Barrymore possesses one of the finest speaking voices of any stage artist and his singing voice, which has never been used professionally, is said to equal its quality and tone. His strong characterization in "General Crack," which Alan Crosland directed for Warner Brothers, is that of a dual personality whose inherent characteristics take turns in dominating his loves and hates.

DURYEA ON LOCATION

George Duryea, who plays the leading role in "Strictly Business," is hoping his present film role will be completed in time for him to have Christmas dinner in Hollywood. Duryea, who scored in his first motion-picture role, that of the boy in "The Godless Girl," and who has appeared in a number of other interesting parts, has been away for the past ten days.

"DEAR ME" STAGED AT PLAYHOUSE

Grace La Rue and Hale Hamilton Star in Comedy for Henry Duffy

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

As innocuous a play as it is an epithet, "Dear Me" was performed yesterday before an audience of first-matineers at the Hollywood Play House. This is the comedy by Luther Reed and Hale Hamilton, which served (and right well, they do say,) to occupy the acting talents of the same Mr. Hamilton and his wife, Grace La Rue, during many weeks on the New York stage—for reasons which, it must be admitted, are none too apparent as we go to press. The piece belongs to a school of writing which made so bold as to employ maledictious like "aged harpy" and "ingrate"—both spoken out loud in the first act—to bowl over the actors at whom they were hurled, and possibly a goodly portion of the audience as well.

It is in the writing, emphatically, that "Dear Me" forges its weakest links. The production is on a par with other Henry Duffy productions, which is to say that it is good; the casting leaves little to be desired; and Miss La Rue, who belongs to the type they used to call songstress in vaudeville, can put over a tune with practically no trouble at all. But the theater has been getting along pretty steadily all these years since "Dear Me" first saw the light, and whether we like it or not, we shall have to confess that "Dear Me" was left, somehow, in the lurch.

The opening is placed in the Amos Prentice Home for Artistic and Literary Failures. Here is employed April Blair, who serves the disgruntled old men of art and letters their porridge three times a day, and who, it speedily develops, is herself an Artistic Failure—but only because she has never had a whack at success. The arrival of Edgar Craig (who is really Edgar Prentice, son of the founder, in disguise) soon sets everything right. In the second act, April is what she calls "a great Broadway star;" and in the third, all the Artistic and Literary Failures of the first (encouraged, no doubt, by the ease with which April achieved greatness) are Artistic and Literary Successes themselves. Thus, it is shown that, as the authors so aptly phrase it, "We still all may be what we might have been." And no one can deny it for these men certainly are.

Miss La Rue's songs, for which the plot provides ample excuse, were, yesterday, "More Than You Know," a gypsy aria and "Dear Me" itself. Both the singer and Mr. Hamilton, with the ease bred by long familiarity, played their parts as though they enjoyed them. Joseph De Stefani, who distinguished himself in the reading of the chronicler's lines in "Abraham Lincoln" this past fortnight, revealed additional abilities as a "character man," a pianist and even, with some reservations, a violinist. A large supporting cast was also in evidence.

It would, perhaps, be well to explain that the title of the comedy is derived from a little habit of April (the heroine,) who, when beset by doubts of this or that, sat down and wrote them out in the form of letters. These she addressed, with characteristic honesty, to "Dear Me;" and then mailed. The secret is out almost at the beginning, when old Joseph Renardo, an Artistic Failure, announces that he is bound for the postoffice to see if there are any letters for April, who is anxiously expecting one. It turns out to be from herself.

Grapewin Will Present Skit

Tonight special honors will go to Charles Grapewin, the original Mr. Pip, at the Million Dollar, where he is to appear in person in connection with the screening of "The Shannons of Broadway," starring James and Lucille Gleason under the direction of Emmett Flynn.

Grapewin is scheduled to present one of his humorous vaudeville skits as added fare to the regular screen bill of the Million Dollar.

SMALLMAN CONDUCTS ORATORIO

Christmas Music Received With Favor; Chorus Work Well Handled

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Bach, the simple man of genius, was glorified in the music of the Los Angeles Oratorio Society which attracted an audience to the Shrine Auditorium yesterday afternoon. John Smallman conducted the first Los Angeles performance of the Bach Christmas Oratorio which had been carefully prepared for him during the past eleven weeks of his absence on tour by A. Ciel Marshall. Dr. Carl Omeron was the tenor recitativist. Members of the Philharmonic Orchestra led by Albert Angermeyer as concert master played with the choral body and Lorna Gregg, accompanist with Dr. Ray Hastings, organist, completed the presentation.

It is a cause for gratitude to Conductor Smallman that this beautiful Christmas music was sung. He took the baton with evident enthusiasm and his tempi were noticeably quicker than usual which added verve to the production. The choruses were well handled and the tone quality attractive. Enunciation was fairly clear and the attack good. The release of tone was not as cleanly cut at the end of phrases as Bach demands, but when one considers that this was quite the first performance of this difficult work by the society, it is easily forgiven.

Dr. Omeron sang the arias and recitatives in his sweet and resonant tenor. The soprano, alto and bass arias were sung by small groups. The bass singers developed a surprising flexibility. The volume of all these special singers could have been increased to advantage. Henri de Busscher, playing oboe, added to the beauty of the whole by soli and responses, and the entire wood-wind group distinguished itself in interludes.

It is to be hoped that the oratorio society will undertake the Bach oratorio again next year and will color it with variations of tone and time. It is to be hoped also, that Los Angeles will rise properly to the occasion and attend in larger numbers than it did yesterday, even if it is the Sunday before Christmas. Tonight John Smallman will conduct the "Messiah" at the Shrine.

NEW FARCE WILL MAKE LOCAL DEBUT

Louise Lorimer

"Maternally Yours," a comedy by Clarence O'Dell Miller and Ole M. Ness, starts its first run on any stage tonight at the Hollywood Music Box Theater.

The large cast of players which will interpret the comedy includes Louise Lorimer, Ralph Welles, Gavin Harris, Hal Price, Patricia Henry, Guy Hedlund and others.

'BOOMERANG' PRESCRIBED FOR BLUES

Humorous Adventures in El Capitan Play; Versatile Cast Gathered

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

Back in 1915 two author gentlemen, Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes, wrote a comedy filled with light and fragile humor which they called "The Boomerang." David Belasco produced it and it ran 522 times on Broadway. So runs the history of things dramatic.

This year, 1929, Henry Duffy casting about for a merry piece of humor to produce at El Capitan, hit upon "The Boomerang." Accordingly, he called into consultation Mr. Tom Moore, Miss Kay Hammond and Mr. Ben Lyon, assigned them each a leading role and yesterday proceeded to demonstrate for the benefit of a Sunday-going theater crowd just how delightful a play "The Boomerang" was and is.

No small part of its successful reception yesterday was due to the acting of this trio of players, and to individual possession of that indefinable thing known as personal charm.

Tom Moore is seen as the "love doctor," who, called upon to diagnose and prescribe for the nervous condition of young Mud Woodridge (Ben Lyon,) discovers the lad is suffering from none other than a bad case of what seems to be unrequited love. He prescribes a few harmless pills, exercise and a dose of jealousy to be subtly administered to the light of love in Bud's heart.

The prescription works, particularly the dose of jealousy, but it works also as a boomerang in the case of the suave doctor himself. His office nurse, as played by Miss Hammond, takes advantage of it for her own good purposes and wins the doctor's heart.

Just a pleasant bit of romantic comedy, as you may see or hear, embellished with deft dialogue and amusing situations and not, of course, to be taken at all seriously. It would seem that the play must have been pretty well written to start with, else it could not have withstood the onslaught of time so well.

Although Tom Moore was his capable merry self, and Miss Hammond was admirable as the nurse, interest naturally centered in the work of Ben Lyon, not seen heretofore on the local stage. He gave an excellent performance and managed to endow a role which verged a little on the sap, with handsome poise and fine sympathy.

As for other members of the cast, Miss Florence Roberts contributed generously of her capabilities, Barbara Jo Allen was the altogether winsome maiden upon which Bud had set his heart, while C. Henry Gordon, Ralph Kline and Frances Morris may be mentioned for their efforts.

TALK FILMS PROVE BOON TO ACTRESS

Irene Bordoni Uses French Accent to Advantage in First Screen Venture

The coming of the talkies spelled the retirement of many notable stars from the films. But Irene Bodoni is one exception to this rule. Instead of causing her retirement, she was brought to the screen for the first time.

Miss Bordoni's French accent, noted for years on the stage is a decided asset to her screen career, as will be seen and heard today at Warner Brothers Downtown Theater, where she makes her film debut in "Paris."

On repeated occasions the French star declined to enter silent pictures. When the talkies came, giving her an opportunity to sing and so speak her quaint lines, Miss Bordoni readily signed a contract with First National Pictures to appear in "Paris," the screen version of her latest stage success. Jack Buchanan, English stage star, plays opposite Miss Bordoni.

Details Rushed for Opening of Mystery Drama

While enjoying a three-day pre-Christmas holiday from actual production, the staff of Franklin Pangborn's Vine-street Theater is rushing last-minute plans for the opening on Christmas matinee of "The Rear Car."

Scenery designers are busy constructing an elaborate replica of a modern compartment car on which the entire action of the Edward Rose mystery melodrama will be laid, and David Hartford, director, has the cast in final rehearsals.

To essay the leading role—that of a detective of the Sherlock Holmes type, will be Pangborn, while feminine charm in the leading roles will be offered by Betty Pierce, newly arrived from New York, and Gay Seabrook, local favorite. Rex Lease has temporarily deserted the studios to assume a conspicuous role. Among others prominent in the supporting cast are Warburton Gilbert, Greta Gransted, Harry Von Meter, William Lawrence and William Wagner.

Horton Seen in Two Productions

Christmas Day will see Edward Everett Horton playing in two houses on Broadway. At the Tower he will be seen on the screen in a farcical role in "The Sap," in which he does the characterization of a small-town man who is a boob.

Almost opposite the Tower, at the Majestic, he is playing on the stage in "Among the Married." In this he plays a very sophisticated role. "Among the Married" has proven to be a most entertaining bit of drama and is attracting crowds to the Majestic nightly, it is said.

KEYES REPLIES TO RICHARDSON

Revival of Taylor Mystery Laid to Politics

Former Prosecutor Talks From Cot in Jail

Says Every Stone Turned to Find Murderer

Investigation of the William Desmond Taylor murder, revived with the statement of former Gov. Richardson that he has proof of the solution of the seven-year-old mystery slaying, was dormant yesterday, with Dist.-Atty. Fitts out of the city over the week-end.

Fitts announced Saturday that his office has been studying the case from all angles for several months, and that a perfect chain of circumstances against the killer of the motion-picture director has been completed with the exception of a single link.

While the officials, including Richardson, marked time yesterday, Asa Keyes, convicted District Attorney, from his bed in County Jail Hospital, gave out a lengthy statement on the investigation of the many ramifications of the Taylor case conducted by his office during his incumbency.

BLAMES POLITICS

The former prosecutor, recovering from a slight operation, charges that the renewal of the inquiry and the charge by Richardson that he blocked the prosecution of the Taylor slayer is a political maneuver.

After pointing out that the Taylor murder took place during the regime of Thomas Lee Woolwine as District Attorney, while he and Fitts both were deputies, Keyes declares that when he became District Attorney and Fitts his chief deputy the attempts to solve the mystery of the shooting were continued, and "no stone was left unturned either then or since to uncover the murderer."

ASKS FOUR QUESTIONS

Keyes asks four questions and asserts that their answer will reply to the ex-Governor's reported declarations. They are:

"Why has he remained silent more than three years to reveal he has proof of the guilty party? Why didn't he, as Governor, direct the Attorney-General to investigate and prosecute the guilty party? Why did he obtain parole of this witness without putting his information on record? Why did he wait to make this sensational disclosure until the eve of either his or Fitts's announcement of entering the race for Governor?"

TENNIS COURTS ASKED

A request of the North Hollywood Chamber of Commerce that two tennis courts and equipment for smaller children be installed on the North Hollywood playground out of the budget for the current year has been referred by the Playground and Recreation Commission to Supt. Hjelte with instructions to consider it in preparing the budget for the next fiscal year. It was pointed out that $2000 and $2150 budgeted for improvements has been set aside for a fence on the playground.

SMOKING ART NO "PIPE" IN EARLY INDIAN DAYS

ONE of the domestic arts in which great strides have been made in the last 400 years is that of smoking. Proof of this is to be seen at the Southwest Museum where an ancient smoking set of the kind used by the Hupa Indians and perhaps other tribes before Columbus came, recently was placed on display.

As nearly as one can judge from looking at the kit smoking in those primitive days probably was 80 per cent hard labor and 10 per cent enjoyment. The figures, of course, are only approximate. The smokers are dead and the early historians of California apparently did not consider the subject worth bothering about.

The pipe itself is a tubular affair, resembling a crudely made cigarholder which might have been fashioned by an amateur whittler at a time when he was suffering from an attack of depression. The smoker was compelled to lie flat on his back while smoking, otherwise the tobacco refused to stay put. Once he got it going nicely all was well, but if it went out he rekindled by means of pebbles which were heated red hot. These he poked into the muzzle of the pipe and went right on.

The remainder of the set consists of a tobacco pouch made of an excellent grade of buckskin, a pestle for crushing the dry tobacco leaf since ready-rubbed was not yet on sale at the corner store, and a couple of pine sticks. These were used, of course, to produce fire at the beginning of the smoke. Poor Lo Hupa wotted not of the vest-pocket lighter but he was able to light up as quickly as many modern smokers who have them, at that.

Miss Veotta McKinley of the museum curator's staff has done considerable research work on the use of tobacco by the ancients and among other things, she has discovered that still earlier tribes than the Hupas managed to smoke without using tobacco at all. This earlier style of pipe resembled a Y-shaped slingshot. The two upper tubes were inserted in the smoker's nostrils and the smoker gathered his smoke where he found it, through the third hollow stem.

Incidentally, the word tobacco is believed by some historians to have been derived from tobago, the Indian name for pipe.

ROLPH WILL DON UNIQUE FETE ATTIRE

Bay City Mayor Plans Distinctive Costume as He Heads Rose Parade

Unique and distinctive will be the costume worn by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, when he serves as grand marshal of the 1930 Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day, his friends admitted yesterday.

The Mayor is a splendid horseman and his steed has been chosen for verve and dash. It is a coal-black stallion with a satiny coat. Mayor Rolph will uphold his reputation for being one of the best-attired city officials in the United States, according to his friends, when he gives the formal official signal to start the great floral pageant in Pasadena. He is keeping his selection of a costume a secret, his friends intimate, but it will be striking and typically Californian.

Breakfast Club Feasts Orphans

A ton of turkey was the piece de resistance for 3800 orphans from four Los Angeles homes at the Breakfast Club's fifth annual Christmas dinner and entertainment yesterday.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. children arrived on Pacific Electric trains and in busses provided by Tanner and American bus operators. Two hundred policemen and firemen watched over the children during their trips to and from the dinner.

A three-ring circus, with animals from Luna Park Zoo, operated throughout the day.

Each child was given a shopping bag filled with fruit, candy and toys on leaving the club.

LIQUOR SUSPECT DIES

No California court can determine whether Ross Mills, druggist of 1230 West Washington street, violated the State liquor law, Newt Kendall, his attorney, told Municipal Judge Lahey, before whom Mills was to appear for trial. On the date set, Kendall went into court with a death certificate showing that his client had died four days before. Judge Lahey dismissed the charge. Deputy City Prosecutor Kaufman accused Mills of selling a pint of alcohol to police officers on September 23, last.

TROJANS FACE OLD STUFF IN NEW YEAR'S DAY GAME

Fullback Parkinson, Big Threat Against Locals, Playing From Close-up Back Position

BY BRAVEN DYER

Shades of Stanford and venerable old Pop Warner! Shades of Hoffman and Herbie Fleishhacker! Shades of November 3, when Southern California upset Stanford, 10 to 0.

The dope is out. Pittsburgh uses formation, that intricate brain of Glenn Warner! Pitt uses much-feared and much-talked-formation which Southern California put to rout in one of season's greatest upsets a year

But the Panthers, unless they change their style of play, will employ "B" formation against the Trojans in the Pasadena Rose Bowl New Year's Day. Which ought to prove interesting.

Pop Warner, in his football book published some time ago, says of "B" formation: "This is a type of attack to be used only by the most experienced of teams." And we know that Pitt is an experienced outfit. What we can't know is whether the Panthers will have the same lack of success with it that Stanford did against Southern California on November 3 a year ago.

For the benefit of those who may have forgotten about "B" formation, the accompanying diagram may clear things up somewhat.

"B" formation stresses power, but not at the expense of deception. In fact, in Pitt's case the deception is

Madison Square Garden Has Title Fight

Champion Signs to Take on Rival, January 3

Jackie Holds Two Decisions Over Opponent

JACKIE FIELDS

Fields, who won the title from Joe Dundee at Detroit in July of this year, holds two decisions over Thompson. The San Francisco negro leaped into fame in September, 1928, when he knocked out Dundee in a nontitular fight. Dundee saved his title on that occasion by forcing Thompson to come in a pound or so overweight.

CHICAGO WANTED BOUT

Chicago promoters have been trying to stage a Fields-Thompson bout, but have been hadicaped by a State law prohibiting "mixed" bouts. This rule was passed after the last Fields-Thompson match, which resulted in a riot in which one man was killed and several injured.

The heavyweight herd thunders into Madison Square Garden here on Friday to furnish fistic fans with their outstanding attraction for Christmas week.

Battling in the ten-round final of the Garden's Friday night show will be Gerald Ambrose (Tuffy Griffith) of Sioux City, Iowa, and Johnny Risko, the bouncing rubber man from Cleveland, O.

Risko has been counted out of the heavyweight picture so many times that even his best friend hasn't been able to keep track of them. But the Clevelander has a happy faculty for bouncing back into the limelight just when all hope seems lost. He has battled all the leading heavyweights of the last four of five years and he has won more often than he has lost.

PROMISING YOUNGSTER

In Griffith he will be meeting one of the most promising of the younger fighters. The Sioux City lad can punch and box, maybe enough to upset the Clevelander. Griffith certainly is a much improved fighter over the Griffith that was knocked out in two rounds by James J. Braddock here some months ago.

Supporting the feature bout will be a ten-round semifinal between Harold Mays of Bayonne, N. J., and Paul Cavalier of Paterson, N. J., heavyweights. Joe Sekyra, Dayton (O.) heavyweight, will battle Larry Johnson, Chicago negro, in the first ten.

At the Chicago Stadium, Friday night, Bud Taylor, Terre Haute featherweight, will meet Earl Mastro, Chicago, in the ten round feature. Hein Mueller, latest German heavyweight importation, takes on Elzear Rioux, Canada, in another ten-rounder on the same card.

ARMY TEAM IN BRIEF STOP HERE

Cadets Have Hour to Stretch Legs, Then Go North to Face Cards

Army's football squad, 110 strong, arrived in Los Angeles at 8:05 o'clock yesterday morning, changed trains and an hour later was on its way to Palo Alto, where next Saturday it will clash with Stanford.

The football special, made up of thirteen cars, was slated to arrive in the northern city at 9 p.m. last evening.

Because the Overland train was held up by storms near Chicago, it was twelve hours late. Coach "Biff" Jones planned a workout at Needles, Cal., but later decided to come straight through to Los Angeles.

The hour between trains gave the players an opportunity to stretch the kinks out of their bodies.

PANTHERS IN FIGHTING FORM FOR S.C. GAME

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Dec. 22. (Exclusive)—Three more days and Jock Sutherland's Golden Panthers will be on their way west. They will depart Christmas night from the Pennsylvania station. Just who will make the trip will not be announced until the eve of departure.

Two hard weeks of practice have put the Panthers in fighting trim for the engagement. They know they are meeting a powerful team in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. The Trojans' decisive victory over the Tartans will probably make them slight favorites over the wearers of the Gold and Blue.

Despite the fact that "Racehorse" Saunders is a great back, and that he is protected by marvelous interference, Pitt authorities believe the biggest foe the Panthers will have will be the weather. They believe the Tartans could have beaten the Trojans under any other conditions, but that the heat helped them run up the score.

Capt. Luby Dimello and his mates will be out to avenge the drubbing Tech received. They don't like the idea of any Pittsburgh football team being shoved around the way the Tartans were. They are counting upon the strong Panther reserve material to hold the Trojans in check.

In all probability the same line-up that went through such a successful season will face the kick-off New Year's afternoon. However, the rugged Panther second team will see lots of service. Clark, Quatz, Murphy, Milligan, Rooney, Hood and Barnes will all see action.

The Trojans throw their hardest drives at the tackles. Just how far Saunders and company can go against McMurdo and

TROJANS, PANTHERS GET GOLD FOOTBALLS FOR THEIR WORK

Members of the Southern California and Pittsburgh football teams will receive gold footballs as a mememto of their New Year's Day game, according to Hal Reynolds, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, which is to make the awards. Players of Alabama, Stanford, Pitt, Georgia Tech and California who performed in the last two New Year's Day games will also be similarly recognized, according to Reynolds. The gold footballs have not been granted in the past, but Reynolds decided to make the innovation retroactive to include the teams named.

HARRY CHAUCA VICTOR IN MARATHON AT VALLEJO

VALLEJO, Dec. 22. (AP)—Harry Chauca of the Los Angeles Athletic Club won the pre-Olympic national marathon today over a 26.2-mile course from Fairfield to Vallejo. Chauca's time was 2h. 41m. 25s. He trailed in tenth and eleventh position until the last five miles when he spurted to lead the field.

HARRY CHACA

Franklin Suhu, also of Los Angeles, was second with 2h. 43m. 35s. and Andy Myrra of the San Francisco Olympic Club placed third with 2h. 48m. 14s. Myrra had been a favorite to win.

An estimated gallery of 50,000 saw the event from some vantage, many of them from automobiles lining the highway over which the race was held. A heavy fog delayed the start more than an hour.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club took team prize, although the Unione Sportiva Italia Virtus of San Francisco had the largest entry list.

JOPLIN YOUNGSTER TOPS FIELD BY SIX STROKES

Von Elm, Dudley, Golden, Loos Tie for Second Place With 286; Wood Tumbles After Disastrous 82

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

That slim young golfer from Joplin, Mo., Horton Smith, can lay down his clubs for the year 1929 with the knowledge of a job well done—a job that he completed over the Brookside municipal golf course yesterday, when he won the second annual Pasadena $4000 open championship by six strokes with a seventy-two-hole total of 70-71-68-71—280.

A smiling 21-year-old youngster, virtually an unknown a year ago when he won the Catalina open, Horton has blazed an all-time record across the golfing firmament.

ED DUDLEY

Since Catalina, Smith has earned himself a place on America's Ryder Cup team, won eight major championships and tied for a ninth, and today stands as the leading money winner of the year.

One stroke back of Bill Mehlhorn of New York, and Johnny Golden of Paterson, N. J., at the thirty-six-hole mark yesterday morning, Smith's par-crushing 35-33-68 in the third round put him three strokes ahead of the field at the fifty-four-hole mark, and while other leaders were tossing their chances away in the afternoon, the "Joplin Terror" was playing par golf, 34-37-71, to pick up three strokes more.

For the seventy-two holes, Horton was four under par figures, and eight under even fours. His worst efforts were two rounds of par golf, and his best was a 68, three under par. How's that for consistency?

Big Ed Dudley, formerly of the Hollywood Country Club, now of Wilmington, N. J., staged a beau-

Goldie Hess Favored to Win from Baby Sal Sorio in Feature Fistic Bout Tonight

LIGHTWEIGHTS TANGLE IN OLYMPIC FEATURE BOUT

Mexican May Upset Dope With Kayo Blow; Newcomers to Show Wares in Preliminaries

Baby Sal Sorio, greatest puncher in the lightweight division, will either taste wine or hemlock tonight. He returns to the Olympic against the greatest card Jack Doyle has developed in 1929, Goldie Hess of Ocean Park.

The club has moved the date up one night to avoid meeting Santa Claus coming down the chimney on Christmas Eve.

This bout is attracting much attention due to the fact that Sal and Hess have been rivals in the small clubs as well as the big and they have never yet met.

GOLDIE HESS

Hess figures to beat Sal because Sal can't take a punch. But the Mexican has a great opportunity due to the style of Hess. Moving targets are hard to hit. The Baby must hit in order to cash in. Hess does not move only in one direction—forward.

More than one smart boxing man admits Hess ought to be made to order for Sal. The San Bernardino Mexican is the greatest natural hitter California has seen in years.

PLEASES RYAN

Sal's way of hitting even meets with the approval of Tommy Ryan, who has always advocated no fighter should draw back to hit. Sal doesn't.

The Mexican is one boy who could be made into a champion in a few fights if he would limber up, cut loose and could toughen his own jaw.

It is the weakness of the Baby's jaw that is feared. It seems that Sal has always been trying to make a weight which is lower than he should.

At one time he tried to make 126 when he should have made 130. Again he attempted to do 130 when he should have been at 135.

How much of this sort of reasoning is correct will be pretty definitely told tonight. He is boxing Hess, a 131-pounder, at 135½ pounds. The weight advantage is with the underdog.

Hess has enjoyed a big year. His success started about the time Sal began to fade after he had worked up to a title bout with Tod Morgan, who has just lost his championship to Benny Bass.

In the small clubs Sal has come back just as he has done before. He has been dropping his opposition in the slag face downward. That's the proof of his punch.

Both Hess and Sal are on edge for tonight's battle. It will mean much to both—but more to Sal than Goldie. Hess has lost before and he makes great fights even when losing. But if Sal should flip Hess he will again be the talk of the boxing country just as he has been before. The public likes the puncher.

NEW FACES

The preliminaries tonight show some new faces. Paul Delarey from the Northwest meets Sammy Jackson, the hard-hitting negro welterweight, in the six-round semi-windup. Delaney has never appeared in Doyle's club before.

Tommy McGough has twice boxed in the big house and has made a tremendous impression. Some say he locks like another Jimmy McLarnin. McGough boxes Sammy Seaman in the special event. The weight is 118 pounds. Seaman has shown class and it should be a splendid little bout.

PITT USING "B" FORMATION

increased because Jock Sutherland employs his big battering ram, Tom Parkinson, in the front position, which leaves Quarterback Baker free for passing, fakes and all the myriad razzle-dazzle plays which it is possible to work off the formation.

Stanford, last year, had Fleishhacker in the front position and Hoffman as the back man. Hoffman did most of the ball handling, Fleishhacker running interference.

CHIEF GROUND GAINER

Pitt's line is so strong that Sutherland evidently feels he can get better results by employing Parkinson from close up. It will be recalled that Fleishhacker, although he played only one-half of the game last year, was Stanford's chief ground gainer. Big Herb averaged 7 yards a crack, making 36 yards in five plalys. But for some unknown reason, Warner did not use Fleishhacker in the second half.

Uansa, from his left halfback position, runs the ends, with Montgomery leading the interference. He corresponds to Wilton on last year's Stanford team. Baker is employed on lateral pass plays, for passing and is used as a blocker, often going through to mow down the secondary defense.

Parkinson does a lot of driving over his own right tackle, which means that a heavy burden falls on Hoff and Hall, Troy's men in this position. Last year Stanford made considerable ground over Troy's left tackle because Capt. Hibbs was out of position early in the game. When Hibbs got adjusted the Cards did very little.

THOSE FUMBLES

Of course, mere mention of "B" formation brings up the matter of those Stanford fumbles last year. There were five Card fumbles and of three of them, all inside of the S.C. 10-yard line, two were recovered by Trojans.

The first came early in the game. Stanford, employing Fleishhacker and Hoffman from "B" formation, worked the ball to S.C.'s 4-yard line for a first down. Two plays gained a yard. Then Sims fumbled, but Fleishhacker recovered on the 7-yard mark. A fourth-down pass failed to gain yardage and Troy took the ball.

Soon after Stanford had a first down on the 3-yard line. Sims fumbled on the first play and McCaslin recovered. Near the end of the half the Cards had a first down on the 7. Two plays gained 5 yards and then Hoffman tried the bootlegger play, carrying the ball on his hip. He fumbled and Tappaan and McCaslin flopped on the ball.

The new fumble rule would not have made any difference as the Trojans never gained any ground after recovering the ball, "Tap" and "Mac" merely falling on the pigskin where they found it.

GAINS GROUND

That "B" formation gains the ground is a well-known fact. Stanford made fourteen first downs to Troy's four last year, yet lost the game, 10 to 0.

Howard Jones, Trojan coach, says his present line is physically stronger than last year's, which ought to provide a ray of hope against "B" formation, for it is assumed that Pit won't cough up as many fumbles as the Cards did. Those things don't happen twice in a row—or they shouldn't.

And it is doubtful if Pitt's line is any stronger than the 1928 Stanford wall. Pitt has two all-Americans in Donchess, end, and Montgomery, guard. Stanford had two in Post and Robesky, guards. Heinecke is as good as Daugherty, Pitt center, and it is unlikely that Warner would trade Sellman and Artman, his 1928 tackles, for Tulley and McMurdo. Pitt might have a slight edge at end with Donchess and Collins over Muller and Preston.

Pitt uses Warner's [illegible]. Warner has two defeats and a tie against Howard Jones during the past three years. Which may mean something in relation to this New's Year's Day struggle.

MEMPHIS TIGERS CLAIM PRO TITLE

Today's victory for the Tigers was in retaliation for a 39-to-19 defeat administered the Memphis team a month ago.

SMITH WINS AT PASADENA

Trims Field by Six Strokes to Take $1000 Purse; Von Elm Ties Three Pros for Second Place

tiful rally to tie for second place with Eddie Loos of Pasadena, Golden, and George Von Elm of Detroit, in the 286 bracket.

Scoring a 36-33-69 in the morning, and a 72 in the afternoon, "Big Ed" picked up four strokes to pick up a bit of Christmas money. Dudley scored 73-72-69-72-286; Golden, 73-67-75-71-286; Loos, 72-71-69-74-286, and Von Elm, 69-72-74-71-286.

Denny Shute of Columbus, O., had third place all to himself with 70-71-75-71—287.

The 288's included H. L. McSpaden of Kansas City, Mo., Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Mex., Johnny Farrell of New York, Al Watrous of Detroit and Al Espinosa of Chicago.

Tragedy, as well as joy, stalked Arroyo Seco yesterday.

The most unfortunate fall of the day was that of Craig Wood, popular young New Jersey pro. Craig had three rounds of golf that anyone could have been proud of, but dropped from the heights to the list of also rans when he scored a 41-41—82 in the third round. That gave him a total of 70-71-82-71—294, two strokes out of the money. Wood was the defending champion, having established the competative course record of 66 to win last year.

MEHLHORN CRASHES

"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, who received a check for $50, tossed $1000 away like a sailor on a spree.

Three strokes back of Smith after fifty-four holes, Mehlhorn literally hit the rocks. He found his ball in one rocky unplayable lie, which cost him two strokes, and from then on played all over the course to finish with 39-40—79.

Fred Morrison, the Midwick Country Club professional, finished the best of Southern California's professionals. Despite a poor start of 76-74—150, which placed him sixtieth at the half-way mark, Fred scored a pair of 71's yesterday to pass a number of the favorites and tie with Walter Hagen in the 292 division.

But let's get back to Smith. No professional in the country, past or present, including Hagen, ever faced a future as bright as that which lies ahead of Horton.

His record, herewith, speaks for itself:

1928 Catalina open (fifty-four holes	254
Florida open	284
Pensacola open	274
La Gorce open	289
Florida open	284
North and South open	287
Oregon open	280
French Professional	273
Pasadena open	280
Hot Springs open	290

(Tied with Mehlhorn, Burke.)

Besides, Smith has finished well up in a number of tournaments, including a second place in the Hawaiian $6000 open, and his showing as a member of the United States Ryder Cup team was second only to that of Diegel.

CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF

Smith played championship golf all the way yesterday. He was often short to the green, but laid his long approach putts stiff with uncanny accuracy for pars time after time. Whenever he did get inside a ten-foot area of the pin, he usually dropped his putts for birdies.

Going out in 34 in the afternoon made Smith a cinch to win. He had a "horseshoe 'round his shoulder" on some of the holes coming in, but also went three over par on the two short holes due to bad breaks.

With a birdie 3 on the tenth hole Horton was 3 under perfect figures going to the 150-yard thirteenth hole. His shot was dead on the pin, dropped short and rolled six feet past, leaving him a downhill putt.

Anxious to go his deuce, Smith tapped the ball a bit too hard, and it hit the cup, bouncing out. To cap the climax he missed coming back, and the gallery witnessed a most unusual happening—Horton three putting a green.

Despite a couple of missed shots Horton was still 2 under par going to the 172-yard seventeenth hole. He sliced his ball into a trap to the right of the green. Over zealous to get up close to the pin for a par, Horton took the ball too clean, and it sailed clear over the green to rest in the trap on the other side. He was several feet over the cup coming back, and then missed the putt to take a 5.

Those two short holes spoiled an otherwise beautiful two rounds of golf.

Here are the cards:

Von Elm, national amateur champion of 1926, accepted a big silver trophy for leading the simon pures. Rested after a month spent in the hospital, George appears to be back on his game once more, and his playing was splendid throughout the tournament. He gave the pros some real competition, and missed a ten-foot putt on the eighteenth hole, which would have given him undisputed possession of second place.

ARMY TEAM IN VISIT TO CITY

officers and civic officials, augmented by the Thirtieth Infantry and Coast Artillery bands. Instead of these, a fleet of busses greeted the travel-weary Cadets upon their arrival and brought them to Branner Hall on the campus, where they will make their quarters.

At 6 o'clock tonight the eastern team, which is to play January 1 in San Francisco in the Shrine game, arrived and took up residence at the Cardinal Hotel. It will practice on the varsity field from tomorrow until the game, and may scrimmage against the Stanford squad this week. Included on the team are Nagurski of Minnesota, Sleight of Purdue, Glassgow of Iowa, Cannon and Twomy of Notre Dame and other stars of the 1929 season. Andy Kerr of Colgate and Dick Hantley of Northwestern are the coaches.

Though the various eastern aggregations were uncertain on their schedules the Stanford varsity went punctually about its work this morning. Holding the second Sunday practice session of the season, Warner had "Dusty" Allen, promising sophomore fullback, who has been held out of play this season, engineering a passing attack carried on by the third string against the regulars, and at times getting away with it. Allen played Cagle, galumphing up and down back of the line of scrimmage and occasionally completing passes to Neill, Wittenau, Laird, Winnek and Crary.

The varsity's defense against the Cagle passing plays consisted of the usual six-man pass defense line, with Flieshhacker at defensive full, and Taylor, center, playing between Rothert and Smalling in the secondary defense; Chuck Winterburn, backfield coach, particularly watched Lud Frentrup, safety man, whose weakness against forward passes has been responsible for some of the touchdowns scored against Stanford this season.

Frentrup has turned to this department of the game with great seriousness, shows considerable improvement, and if his attitude toward the approaching is any indication of what he will do, he'll make as strong a bid for honors in this, his last game under Stanford colors, as he did in New York last season, when he ran seventy-seven yards around end for a touchdown.

Locals Out to Duplicate Millionaire Win

Great Offensive Struggle Looms at Garden

Another step toward shortening the gap by which the champion Oakland Sheiks have been pacing the California Hockey League race may be taken tonight at the Winter Garden Ice Palace when the Los Angeles Richfields attempt to hand the Oaks their second straight local defeat. The game starts at 8:30 p.m.

For the Oaks to be beaten two straight games on the local ice is unheard of, but they stand to do it if the Oilers can get to clicking in old-time form tonight. Arthur Guy Empey's Hollywood Millionaires started the Oaks on the way Thursday night by winning, 2 to 1, and the Oil men are confident that they can duplicate.

Such an occurrence will do much to convince some of the fans that the local teams, after a slow start, stand an excellent chance of overcoming the Oak lead in the title race. The Oaks have been maintaining a sensational pace and won with such regularity here that it almost became a habit.

The last time the Oaks and Oilers put on their brawl at the Garden, Oakland won, 3 to 2. The last time they met, which was in San Francisco last week, Oakland won again, 6 to 2.

An entirely different story is promised for tonight by the Oiler pilot, Tommy Murray, who has spent several days correcting the defensive weaknesses so evident against the speedy, deceptive Oak offense last week. The Oil men used the wrong defense entirely in trying to stop men like Joe Sandercook, Herb Da Foe, Phil Stevens and George Bond.

Fans with a bent for watching the little touted players should keep a weather eye on this Hec Fowler, Oak goalie, who in his last three local appearances has allowed but four goals—or an average of one and a third goals to the game. Teams have to fool Fowler to beat the Oaks—and they don't fool him often. Line-ups:

Richfield		Oakland
Murray	Goal	Fowler
Irving	Defense	Stevens
Brandow	Defense	Bond
Poole	Wing	Sandercook
Lawrence	Wing	Horn
Bond	Wing	Cook
Larkin	Wing	Miller
Wilson	Wing	Da Foe

Valley Club Puck Outfit Plays Shell

Another torrid ice hockey game of the same variety as those which have been causing great interest in the amateur league at the Palais De Glace lately, is scheduled for the rink tonight when Ernie Miller's league-leading Shell Oilers tackle Dave Patrick's Arrowhead Valley Club stick handlers.

Under the management of Patrick, one of Canada's foremost speed skaters, the Arrowheads upset all calculations last Thursday night by swamping the Van Fleet-Durkees under an 8-to-2 trimming. Patrick has completely revamped the line-up and the showing made by the Indians was so impressive, the tail-end team will be favorites to beat the Shells tonight.

Several newcomers have enlivened the Arrowheads. On the forward line is a Toronto importation, John Curran, who has been assigned the center forward berth, Bert Clark at right wing and "Big Frenchy" Herbert at the other side of the line. Patrick, himself, is taking care of a defense position. The game will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m.

PANTHER SQUAD IN GOOD FORM

Tully is hard to say. There have not been a lot of men go very far. If either one of the above weakens the Trojans won't find the going any better against Jesse Quatse or Walter Babic.

Charley Bowser, Panther assistant coach, reports that he was unable to get very much dope on the Trojan plays. He scouted them against Tech, the only opportunity Pitt had to see them in action. With what dope he was able to send back, Sutherland has been setting his defense to stop Saunders.

Spohrer May Face Shires

BOSTON, Dec. 22. (AP)—Efforts to match Arthur (The Great) Shires, Chicago White Sox first baseman, with Al Spohrer, Boston Braves catcher, in a boxing bout here January 17, are bein made by Eddie Mack, matchmaker for the Boston Garden, Mack announced tonight.

Spohrer has been spoiling for a chance at Sir Arthur ever since the "Great One" knocked out "mysterious" Dan Daly, of Cleveland. Al is one of the big leaguers who knows a bit about the boxing business as he was one of the sparring partners of Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight champion, during the off months of the baseball season.

Mack said Shires has agreed to meet Spohrer in a six-round bout at the Garden.

ERNIE TRIPLETT VICTOR

Pilots Barney Special to Triumph in 100-Lap Auto Race at American Legion Speedway

Ernie Triplett, ranked as one of the ten best dirt-track race drivers of the Southwest, yesterday piloted his castor oil mount, a Barney special, at a steady and consistant pace to meet the checkered flag a winner in the 100-lap Yuletide Sweepstakes held at the American Legion Speedway. In winning the paramount prize, Triplett defeated Mel Kenealy who finished in second place, two car lengths behind the winner. Fred Frame took third, and Speed Hinkley was fourth. The time for the 100-lap grid was 52m. 30.4s., which is a new record for the Alhambra-avenue oval.

Besides the century lap thriller, several other events were held, outstanding among them being the presentation by Louis Mayer, 1928-1929 national champion, of the Simplex Piston Ring trophy to Mel Kenealy, which carries with it the championship of the Southwest.

An event that brought the fans to their feet was the record-breaking performance of Speed Hinkley, who won the Italian Helmet, two-lap dash. Hinkley made the first lap in 28.8s., a new record for the Speedway.

The 100-lap grid got away with a bang, Speed Hinkley forging to the front to lead the field. But not for long; before the race was two laps old Walt May, tooling a Whirlwind Motor passing up Speed, with Mel Kenealy close behind. May held the leading position up to the eighteenth lap, Hinkley coming from third place back to first. For the next seven laps, the four leading cars, which found Hinkley in first place, Walt May in second, Shorty Cantion in third and Mel Kenealy in fourth, were separated by half a car length. All four mounts broke all existing records at the Speedway for the first thirty laps. Jimmy Sharp was the first to drop out of the grind, his mount, a Mahoney Special, breaking a drive shaft. Shorty Cantion pulled away from the field and took the leading position with the start of the thirtieth turn, sending Hinkley back to second. Cantion held this position up to the eighty-second lap after working up a commanding lead of over half a lap. Cantion, who was piloting a White Special, was forced out with a broken axle. Hinkley once more regained the leading position, but held it only for a lap, having to drop out of the race without gas.

Ernie Triplett, who up to the time was forced to savor the dust of the other cars, came to the front, with Mel Kenealy right on his heels. It was a fight for first place from then on, Triplett finally winning out.

In the twenty-four lap consolation race, Charley Geltson, who was a consistent threat in the century dash, came in a winner after working his mount from eighth to the first position. Al Gordon was second, and Bill Heisler third. The time for this event was fast, equaling the track record of 12m. 24.5s.

Miny Walm is today the national champion for the three-mile motorcycle race. Walm won over a field of crack handlebar pilots.

an Mateo Poloists Victors Over Midwick Four, 13-10

SEKE STARS AS TEAM WINS

Legged Elmer Scores Eight Goals in Tilt

McCarthy Also Plays Feature Polo Role

Season Ushered in With Thrilling Clash

BY FRANK ROCHE

ELMER BOESEKE

By Long-Legged Elmer one of the most popular of polo, the San Mateo Blues ushered in the Southern California mid-winter season, yesterday by romping to a 13-to-10 victory over our own Midwick Country Club four at the Monterey Park field. Boeseke riding in a high-wide-and-handsome style, gave the opening-day crowd thrill after thrill while scoring eight of the thirteen goals registered by the winning team. Even Eric Pedley, the recognized leading star, was by Boeseke in yesterday's Pedley, playing with Midwick, gave a very nice performance others were completely over- by Long-Legged Elmer his brilliant riding exhibition.

Though Elmer led the show, should be stated right here he had several able assistants in the winning polo performance. His chief understudy Neil McCarthy, who when not batting a polo ball is one of Los Angeles' leading attorneys. In fact, Boeseke and McCarthy did all the scoring for the San Mateo team. When Elmer laid off Neil took up the business of smashing the white pill between the goal posts. When you figure that Elmer got eight and the rest of the scores for the winning team, your mathematics informs you that McCarthy got five goals. And that is the story of the San Mateo victory.

Of course, Boeseke and McCarthy's team-mates—Lindsey Howard and Roland Paddock—did their share of the work, but it was Boeseke and McCarthy who were in the limelight throughout the afternoon.

Midwick made a desperate effort to catch the San Mateo players in the last half of the game after being outdistanced 11 to 5, at the end of the first four chukkers. Burke playing his first game locally in two years, led the attack along with young Eric Pedley, but the Purple four were never able to catch up with the flying Boeseke and his team-mates.

Despite a let-down by the San Mateo team, the closest the Midwick four got to San Mateo was in the seventh chukker, when the score stood 13 to 10, once the northerners had taken the lead.

Boeseke receives the honor of scoring the first goal of the winter season. He smashed the pill over a few minutes after Capt. Wesley had tossed it into play. made the second goal and Pedley and Burke made a goal for Midwick. The teams were tied 2-all at the end of the first chukker, but Boeseke started his riding spree in the second, and from that time on the result was never in doubt.

The line-up:

Midwick (10) San Mateo (13)
No. 1 McCarthy (5)
No. 2 Boeseke (8)
No. 3 Howard
Back Paddock

SCORE BY CHUKKERS
San Mateo 2 4 4 1 0 1 0 1—13
Midwick 3 1 0 2 2 1 2 0—10

REDS AND WHITES 10-10 TIE

DEL MONTE, Dec. 22. (AP)—Reds and Whites battled to a 10-to-10 tie in their polo game at Del Monte. The customary extra chukker to play off the tie was dispensed by mutual consent. It was the best game this season at Del Monte, with the Whites coming from behind in the eighth period, Arthur Perkins scoring the tying goal just as the bell

Capt. D. S. Wood played a brilliant game for the Whites, scoring Stuart Pearson showed well for the Reds with four tallies to his credit. There will be a game Tuesday as a final preliminary to the Del Monte six-team tournament the 27th, 29th, 31st inst. and January 1.

Center Waits for Rebound

WHEN 1 SHOOTS OTHER FORWARD 3 FOLLOWS IN FOR REBOUND— CENTER 2 STAYS ON FOUL LINE AS RELAY POINT FOR RECOVERIES

BY SOL METZGER

It looks to the spectator as though every missed basket results in a mad scramble for the ball. In reality nothing like that occurs when two well-trained teams meet in basketball. We have seen how the defense attempts to get the ball when a missed shot occurs and how it switches like lightning from defense to attack. At the same time the team on attack is also working its pet scheme to retain the ball.

One such scheme that is a feature of Cornell's play is here shown. No. 1 is free and takes a crack at the basket. He's a forward. As the ball leaves his hand the other forward, No. 3, drives in with him for the rebound. Note that No. 2, usually the center, lays back near the foul line. Why doesn't he rush in, too?

It's like this: If either No. 1 or No. 3 get the rebound they are in too tight a situation to have another shot because of the press of opponents. So, they shoot the ball back to No. 2. No. 2 is the man who acts as the relay point for recoveries. When he gets the ball another attack is launched for a close-up shot. Or No. 2 himself, if not covered, takes a shot from the foul-line.

Scot Eleven Loses Soccer Game to Vets

The Spanish-American soccer football club of the City League advanced another notch in league standings at Loyola Field yesterday by defeating Danny Stephenson's Scot eleven, 2 to 1, in a well-played game.

The Highlanders played their best game of the season and managed to hold the speedy Spaniards to a 0-to-0 draw in the first half. However, Montserrat, the flashy center forward for the Spanish-Americans, broke away for a goal soon after the interval. Montserrat's goal resulted from a pass from Campillo, outside left. The Scots put up a desperate rally to equalize the score and for a time it appeared that they would do that, but the shots were all wide.

In the first Loyola game the L.A.A.C. Mercuries won over the Sons of St. George, 2 to 1, in another nip-and-tuck battle. Mervyn Scott put the clubmen in the lead in the first half with a long drive straight into the net. The Sons equalized in the second period on Ackland's goal. Steve Heppell tallied the winning goal soon after.

Claude Brown's team of Pasadena A.C.C. youngsters continued their round of upsets at Tournament Park by upsetting the Vikings, 2 to 0, in the feature Pasadena game.

Danny Hall's Hollywood crew remain in first place following their 5-to-0 victory over Richfield in the first Pasadena game.

A special benefit game will be played at Loyola Field on Christmas Day between picked teams of the city and Southern California leagues.

Kane Objects to Dempsey as Referee of Go

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) Dec. 22. (AP)—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Manuel Quintero, Cuban fighter, may fight here on the night of January 10, next, but if Eddie Kane has anything to say about it, Jack Dempsey will not be the third man in the ring.

Kane, as Mandell's manager, today issued a statement that he would not permit his charge to enter the ring if Dempsey were the referee.

The manager refused to give reasons for his attitude against the Manassa Mauler.

"Dempsey can never referee any fight in which any boxer under my management participates," Kane said. "That's flat. If Mandell is to fight the promoters had better forget about Dempsey as a referee."

Kane was manager of Tommy Gibbons when he fought Dempsey for the heavyweight championship in Shelby, Mont., in 1923.

Baseball Bat Trims Golfer

TUCSON (Ariz.) Dec. 22. (AP)—The fair name of the royal and ancient game was dragged in the sand fairways and oiled greens of the municipal golf course here today when Tillar (Pug) Cavet, Tucson baseball manager, using a willow fungo bat, defeated A. B. Chase, an average golfer, over eighteen holes.

Chase, using a bag of golf clubs, lost after a palpitating match, 1 down. Cavet's score was 90; Chase's, 91. In match play, however, this factor made little difference, Cavet cinched the match by halving No. 18 with Chase with a par 4.

It was no walkaway for Cavet, for Chase, shooting a cool game, was even at the turn, and was making a great run for honors until the thirteenth hole when Cavet annexed it to work up even, then came right back on fourteen, to take it and grab the lead. By winning No. 16, Cavet took the point that won the match, for Chase was unable to win the last two holes and extend the contest. Par for the course is 72.

Crisp Shot for Spinner

ROGER WETHERED APPLIES IT ON THEM AND FOLLOWS THROUGH
Sol Metzger 12-23

BY SOL METZGER

Crispness is a necessity in iron play. You punch the ball by punching through it with your club and forcing the club on out after it. In that way you put "cut" or "stop" to the ball, a necessity when you are pitching to a green. Otherwise a golfer would have great difficulty in holding the green.

The spin imparted to the ball at contact is a back or underspin that tends to make the ball leap back toward you upon alighting. The more backspin the quicker the stop. Of course, the spin is imparted by the blade. But it cannot be so imparted unless you play the shot with crispness.

This is one reason why you do not overswing to play an iron. If you did you would hit the ball forward as in driving. The idea is to hit it crisply from a shorter backswing. In short, to cut the legs out from under it. Roger Wethered, former British amateur champion, is an expert at imparting stop even in short pitches. To secure it he hits through crisply and forces the clubhead to follow through after the ball.

The pivot is the least understood phase in golf instruction. Sol Metzger has prepared a leaflet on the pivot which he will glady send to any reader requesting it. Inclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

Rule Deciding Tie Grid Tilts May be Voted

Although the recent meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference provided no new procedure for determining football championships in the case of a tie, there is a strong possibility that some new rule will be adopted at the next gathering, slated for June 2, 3 and 4, in Seattle.

Such is the opinion of Hugh C. Willett, Southern California faculty representative at the conference meeting.

"Inasmuch as we have a special rule for deciding basketball championships it was felt by a number of those present that some basis should be decided upon whereby a football title-holder can be determined," declared Prof. Willett following his return from the San Francisco gathering last week.

Basketball championships, where ties occur, are decided by selecting the winner of the series between the two teams which finished with the same number of games won and lost. The southern half of the Coast Conference, which includes California teams only, then plays the northern half for the title.

The Schwabacher trophy, awarded to the football champions each year, still rests at Southern California. Although four teams tied for the title this year, Oregon, California, Stanford and S.C., none of them desired to take the trophy, it is said, so it still resides in Trojan Hall, where it spent last year.

JEFFRIES'S FIGHTER IN SPOTLIGHT HERE FRIDAY

Al Morro, the young heavyweight protege of James J. Jeffries, former champion of the world, has caught the eye of the fistic experts this week. Morro makes his debut Friday night, at Hollywood, where he tangles with Ed Herting, husky Texan glove thrower. It will be the first glimpse of the former heavy king's fistic hope that the local experts have had a chance to get and already there is talk of the house being a sellout despite the fact that it is holiday week.

Morro has boxed out in the sticks before circus audiences but he has never shown in a ring here. His opponent has had several fights locally and has the reputation of being a tough hombre. He was kayoed by Frankie Campbell not long ago at Wrigley Field, but Campbell had a tough time with Herting up until the time he landed the winning punch.

Tom Gallery has lined up a strong supporting card behind the main event.

NEW YEAR'S DAY TO SEE INNOVATION

Erskine Football Prizes Will be Awarded During Rose Bowl Game

During the New Year's football game at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena William R. Morehouse, vice-president, Security-First National Bank, will award the Albert Russel Erskine prizes to the all-American football team and its coach, at the invitation of the Studebaker Corporation president. The event may become a permanent feature of the Tournament of Roses celebration.

Mr. Morehouse is the Southwest's member of the Erskine honorary committee of seven sports advocates of the nation responsible for the selection of the 250 leading sportsmen and writers who voted on December 15 to determine the championship all-American football team of the season.

He will announce the results of their ballot for the first time at the Rose Bowl game, when he will present a sports model automobile to the coach of America's finest football team and the Erskine plaque to the choice squad. In addition, Mr. Morehouse will broadcast the award announcements over a national sixty-four station network.

An unprecedented record was established in the sale of seats for the New Year's game when 70,000 tickets were sold by mail in four days. There were no public sales. This will be the largest attendance ever to witness a football game in the Rose Bowl.

Connie Mack Year Older

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22. (AP)—Connie Mack, veteran leader of the Philadelphia Athletics, will be 67 years old tomorrow and will spend the day as most of his days are spent—in his tower office at Shibe Park.

"I'm not much of a hand for parties," said the dean of major-league managers, "and anyhow, what's another birthday? I've had a lot of them, it will be an ordinary day in my life, but I think Mrs. Mack is planning a little dinner somewhere and perhaps we will go to a theater. That will be the extent of the celebration."

Mack put an end to speculation definitely today when he said he had no thought of retiring and turning over the managerial reins to a younger man. He has directed the A's for thirty years and has been in baseball for more than half a century.

"I'm going to retire only when I'm forced to retire," he said. "This is my life—baseball. I'm going to stay in it until I'm physically unable to continue. Most men quit because they can't stand the traveling. I don't mind it and as for the nervous strain, why, I like it. It's not as much of a strain as most persons think."

The world's champion Athletics will take the field in 1930 with no changes in the batting line-up, Mack said. His outfield will be unchanged and his infield, with the exception of third base, will be the same. Dykes will draw the hot-corner assignment as a regular in that position succeeding Sammy Hale, who has been sold to St. Louis.

France Pushes Big Project

France is preparing to complete its rural electrification embracing 206 communities and which will eventually supply current to four-fifths of the inhabitants. Contracts for the second half of the work, which was started in 1926, are being let. The project when completed, will have cost about $2.000.000.

PASTORS EXPLAIN MEANING OF CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Amity on Earth Will Come Only When Man Has Made Peace With God, Minister Prophecies

Declaring that the lack of peace on earth today must not be blamed on governments but on the estrangement between God and man, Dr. J. George Dorn, in his sermon at Hollywood Lutheran Church yesterday, said that permanent peace will come only when men shall have made their peace with God by welcoming the Prince of Peace into their hearts.

"The promise of the Prince of Peace and the message 'Peace on earth' did not originate on earth, it came from heaven," said Dr. Dorn.

"God did not compose a carol which would sound good on Christmas morn on the Judean Hills and ever thereafter serve as a good subject for Sunday-schools. He did not think out phrases which would work out well as wall mottoes or as tinseled greeting cards.

"He sounded a message! He sent forth a command from high headquarters. He really meant that there should be peace on earth!

"Let the church then sing her 'Gloria in Excelsis' with a new and exultant praise, let it eclipse the noise and the confusion of the world. Let the church proclaim aloud its radiant hope of the Prince of Peace."

TOLERANCE IN VIEWS ON CHRISTMAS ASKED

"The Angels of Bethlehem" is the topic of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. H. C. Culbertson at All Souls' Congregational Church. Excerpts from the sermon follow:

"The theme of the Bethlehem story is the interposition of heaven in the affairs of earth. What a tragedy it is that this, the most beautiful event in history, has been the subject of so much controversy. Whether the events narrated happened as physical realities, or whether they are symbolical interpretations of spiritual occurrences is a question which has called forth hatred and bitter antagonisms instead of that love and toleration which should be in all our hearts when we think of the birth of Jesus.

"On Christmas let us celebrate the day by seeking to understand one another, to be tolerant of different points of view than our own. Whether those angels were actual beings from another world, or whether they were the invention of inspired imagination, in either case their songs are messages of God."

PLIGHT OF REAL LIFE SANTAS SERMON TOPIC

Nobody ever thinks of making a gift to Santa Claus, but, according to Dr. Bruce Brown, the jolly saint often is in need of a good bed and a hot meal.

"Many a Santa Claus that stands on our streets is old, poor and lonesome," said Dr. Brown in his sermon yesterday at South Park Christian Church. "After standing for fourteen hours, he puts off his mask and make-up and goes to a cheerless room. He is greeted with smiles when he can bestow gifts but is soon forgotten when his bag is empty.

"So it is in life. As long as we can give and please we are received with gladness. When poor and in trouble we are often left to walk alone. At this time of generosity and good cheer it would be a fine thing to remember the sad heart and care-lined face within the make-up of many a Santa Claus."

"CHRISTMAS RELIGION" HELD WORLD WINNER

"In my travels in more than seventeen countries in the Orient, in the Arctic zone and tropics, I have noted that it is the religion of Christmas that always wins," said Dr. W. Remfry-Hunt in his sermon yesterday at Brea Christian Church.

"Christianity is the piece de resistance of religion," said Dr. Hunt. "China, India and Japan have interwoven the festivities of Christmas and its joys into the social and moral fabric of their thinking. The present generation of Asia, in the realm of its child life, knows the songs of yuletide as well as the native epics. The child of Bethlehem lives on, in spite of Calvary's Hill."

KRISS KRINGLE CALLED MAN FOR ALL NATIONS

Dwelling briefly on the origin of the names, "St. Nicholas," "Kriss Kringle" and "Santa Claus," Dr. John Snape, in his sermon at Temple Baptist Church yesterday, said that, by whatever name the jolly saint goes, he remains the paragon of kindliness, the personification of cosmopolitan good will to the children of all nations.

"Of course, there is a Santa Claus and only the grouch denies it," said Dr. Snape. "Santa Claus is the spirit of good will, of jollity and geniality, of love and peace, happiness and forgiveness. Let us make the Christmas mood the permanent mood of the world. Then the greatest Christmas gift that could possibly be given and received will have been exchanged and the gift of giving, the gift of living and the gift of loving shall have become the settled habit of a happy humanity."

RELIGION REGARDED AS "PAIR OF SPECTACLES"

"How to Tone Up Life" is the subject of a sermon preached yesterday by Dr. Sheldon Shepard at First Universalist Church. Dr. Shepard said in part:

"When we pile tomorrows' burden on top of the one we have to carry today, the load becomes too heavy. Hats off to the past; coats off to the future; the terminal station of life depends on the switches you turn. The question is not where we stand, but in what direction are we going? To make small things great is the task of religion. Religion is a pair of spectacles through which everything is seen in terms of its possibilities. The real concern of theology is with human life."

CHRIST'S ORIENTALISM EXPLAINED BY SWAMI

"While the oriental and occidental interpretation of Christ differ in some respects, no country nor continent has a monopoly on the truths He taught and lived," declared Swami Yogananda in his sermon yesterday at Mt. Washington Center.

"Jesus was an oriental and His teachings were influenced by an oriental environment and heredity, yet as the sun appears different when seen through different colored glasses, so the pure truth, expressed by occidental and oriental civilizations, must take on different aspects," said the speaker.

"The original, simple teachings of the great Nazarene, in their handling by the western world, have undergone many changes. Although His doctrines are universal and have been adapted to western environment and culture, in order to understand the real, undiluted Christianity, one must first remove its western veil and then its eastern veil. Behind these two opaque veils the real Christianity will be found.

"Western Christianity is the outer crust and eastern Christianity the inner crust. Occidental peoples have stressed too strongly the objective side of Christianity while the Orient always has over-emphasized the subjective side of religion."

DR. HICKS MAKES PLEA FOR CHURCH UNITY

"The union of the churches would be a manifestation of good business sense," declared Dr. Joseph P. Hicks, director of the school of Evangelism, in his sermon yesterday at the South Hollywood Presbyterian Church. Dr. Hicks said in part:

"The large number of business men coming into the churches has already resulted in an investigation as to the overhead expense that it requires to carry on the work of the churches in separate organizations. The union of the churches would do away with many of the highly paid secretaries and much of the office force. This man-and-woman power would not be lost but could be utilized in the many places where such workers are now very badly needed. The union of the churches would eliminate denominational jealousies. If the churches would unite their efforts it would further the interests of liberty, fraternity and peace."

MATERIALISM DECRIED IN SCIENCE LECTURES

The belief that the universe including man is created and governed by God, and not evolved by atomic force, was emphasized in the lesson-sermon Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

One of the Bible citations in the lesson-sermon included these inspiring words from John: "When Jesus then lifted up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Philip, 'Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?' One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him, 'There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes, but what are they among so many?' . . . So the men sat down, in number about 5000. And Jesus took the loaves; and when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; . . . When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, 'Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.'"

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy was as follows: "Jesus walked on the waves, fed the multitude, healed the sick, and raised the dead in direct opposition to material laws. His acts were the demonstration of Science, overcoming the false claims of material sense or law."

Attorney Seeks Protection for Wealthy Couple

Protection for Griffith Bonner, a member of a wealthy Topeka (Kan.) family, and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Bonner, has been asked from the police by Attorney Richard Hayden, following a mysterious appearance of a woman in Superior Judge Stephens's court at a hearing for appointment of a guardian for Hayden.

Mrs. Hayden asked to be appointed guardian, because, she said in her petition to the court, "designing persons" were trying to get her husband's money.

The "mysterious woman" who later identified herself as Georgia Condon, Bonner's housekeeper, told court attaches that she was in court to "see justice was done."

She explained that Bonner did not want his wife appointed guardian, and she was there to prevent it.

According to Attorney Hayden, Miss Condon, several days ago, attacked Mrs. Bonner in a hotel room and tore her clothes.

NEW BANK TAX ACT EXTOLLED

Commissioner Blight Tells of Large Collections

Revenue of $6,250,000 for First Year Expected

Variations in Assessments on Concerns Explained

"As a revenue-producer the Bank and Corporation Franchise Tax Act is a decided success and has exceeded the expectations of its sponsors," declared Reynold E. Blight, State franchise tax commissioner, who is in Los Angeles conducting a series of hearings under the act. "The tax commission of 1927 estimated the revenues from banks and corporations under the new act as $5,500,000 and already $5,225,000 has been collected and deposited in the State Treasury."

By the end of the first year's operation of the act, according to Blight, the revenue will approximate $6,250,000 and the history of similar acts in other States shows decided increases in revenue in subsequent years, he said.

ADDED ASSESSMENTS

"Stories that certain banks are paying an insignificant franchise tax this year as compared with former years must be taken with a grain of salt," he asserted. "The tax is not final until the self-assessed return has been audited by my department, and we already have levied an additional assessment of more than $500,000. The final figures will be much greater than the returns show.

"The variations between the tax assessments against certain corporations this year and previously are accounted for in three ways. First, the method of determining the tax is different. Under the present Franchise Tax Act the tax is measured by net income, whereas previously it was based on the value of property owned at a given date. Second, certain concessions are made to the taxpayer in computing tax, such as the deduction of Federal income taxes accrued during the taxable year, which deduction alone decreases the basic net income about 12 per cent, the right given the taxpayer to use fair market value of assets as at January 1, 1928, in determining gains or losses on sales, the right to use January 1, 1928, valuations as a basis for computing depreciation and depletion, and offsets against the tax itself for real and personal property taxes paid.

SOME ADJUSTMENTS

"The first application of a new tax law always involves certain adjustments and concessions which will not be necessary in future years. The purpose of the present act is not to increase revenues, but to adjust the tax burden more equally.

"The Macallen decision under which the provision of the Massachusetts act requiring the inclusion of income from tax-exempt securities in the basic net income was declared unconstitutional, will not affect California revenues. Until the United States Supreme Court hands down a decision based on the California act I will continue to demand the inclusion of income from tax-exempt securities. California banks uniformly are paying the tax without reference to the Macallen decision."

CONSPIRACY ON PAROLES INTIMATED

Police Hint Pair Seized as Burglar Suspects May Have Concocted Scheme

Police yesterday began an investigation of the theory that Phillip Valentine, 30 years of age, and Mrs. Edna Carter, 22, of 40 St. James Park, who were arrested Thursday on suspicion of burglary, may have been planning perpetration of a State-wide scheme to obtain paroles for convicts by fraud.

The theory, according to Detective Lieutenant Savage of the Seventy-seventh-street division, who arrested the pair, is based on the discovery in a house at 1741 Sixty-third street, where they were taken in custody, of 500 letterheads bearing the name and address "Hon. Albert E. Carter, Box 901 Oakland, Cal." Inquiry, the detective said, has revealed that Representative Carter of the Sixth Congressional District knew nothing of the existence of the letterheads in Los Angeles.

In the belief he may be able to throw some light on the purpose to which the letterheads were to be put, Detective Lieutenant Savage last night started a search for E. A. Carter, said to be the husband of the woman under arrest.

Mrs. Carter and Valentine are being held as suspects in connection with the burglarizing of a radio shop at 6063 South Western avenue.

Johnson Denies He Advocates New Dam Plan

O. T. Johnson, Jr., newly appointed member of the Metropolitan Water Board and at present in Washington, D. C., for a series of conferences with Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, yesterday denied in a telegram to Dr. Milbank Johnson, head of the Los Angeles Taxpayers' League, that he made a statement advocating a new location for the Boulder Dam or that he expressed doubts that the Los Angeles area could be induced to vote the $250,000,000 bond issue necessary to finance their part of the Colorado River project.

Mr. Johnson's telegram said: "In reply to your telegram asking for information in regard to a statement I am supposed to have made in regard to the Colorado River project wish to say that I have made no statement and given no interviews. There have been no conferences held and the discussions have been most informal as Whitsett who attended them will tell you."

'OTHER MAN' SCHEDULED TO TESTIFY

Mrs. Batterton Also to Face His Wife Today in Divorce Hearing

More drama is expected in the divorce proceedings of Josephine K. Batterton, interior decorator, against Elvon Batterton, a woodworker, when she goes into the court of Superior Judge Hollzer today to face the man she is asserted to have run away with and the man's wife.

The hearing of Mrs. Batterton's petition for a divorce was halted suddenly last week when Mrs. Pearl Carter arose in the courtroom while the plaintiff was testifying and shouted:

"It's a lie!"

When placed on the witness stand Mrs. Carter pointed dramatically at Mrs. Batterton and declared:

"That is the woman who ran away with my husband."

After hearing the testimony of the two women Judge Hollzer continued the case until today, at the same time ordering that D. L. Carter, the man in the case, husband of Mrs. Pearl Carter, be subpoenaed as a witness. He is expected to be present this morning when the hearing is resumed.

Mrs. Batterton, in her testimony, said her husband had falsely accused her of associating with Carter. Carter, a choir leader in her church, she said is merely a friend.

COST-PLUS CONTRACTOR LEARNS NEW LAW KINK

A contractor who builds a building on a cost-plus basis, who does not agree to provide his own labor but merely makes contracts with others on behalf of his principal, cannot put a lien on the property for money he may have advanced for labor and materials. Such an arrangement is a loan arrangement for which there is no lien against the property.

This is the opinion of Superior Judge Yankwich, who has just handed down a ruling in a novel question of law arising in the action brought by the Stiles Construction Company against the defunct El Sereno Country Club and Mrs. Clotilde Castruccio, owner of the property on which the club was to have been built. The trial of the action was held several weeks ago, after which Judge Yankwich took his decision under submission.

The work on the club, to cost $150,000, was begun in 1926 on the property, 150 acres, owned by Mrs. Castruccio, located just north of the new General Hospital. After excavations had been made for a swimming pool and the skeleton work of the clubhouse was up, the money ran out and the work was abandoned. Later the contractors filed suit in an effort to place a lien on the partly constructed clubhouse and on the land. The El Sereno Country Club did not contest the action. Mrs. Castruccio, however, contested the suit on the grounds the contractors had no legal right to put a lien on her land. She was represented in court by Attorney J. Wiseman MacDonald.

The court in his ruling held that as the contractors had furnished no labor or materials of their own, only money for others, their arrangement was merely a money loan one, therefore, they are not entitled to a lien on the land.

Linen workers of Czecho-Slovakia are working only a small part of the time.
